'NUMBER' PAYOFFS SLASHED AS N. Y. MOB INVADES HUB

Slicing of number pool payoffs in this area more than 50 per cent brought the disclosure today that racket men, driven out of New York by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's purge, have taken control of the major part of the New England number pool game.

Effective today, payoffs on certain numbers were cut down to only 330 to 1.

The original number pool ratio here was 720 to 1 on all three-number plays.

The slice today was on Nos. 589, 812, 150, 123, 352 and "date numbers," or those made up of the month and day of the play.

INSURE THEIR TAKE

The number pool refugees from New York are taking the cream of the New England play, the Boston Evening American learned, through a new idea in connection with the racket—"insurance brokerage."

As number pool "insurance brokers," the New Yorkers are accepting all "layoff money" from the local operators, who havve been hit hard in the past through the recurrence of certain numbers that have come out. "Layoff money" is money played

How Number Riggers Balk Big Payoffs

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—How racketeers rigged the number pool to block big payoffs was explained by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey to the jury at the Hines trial thus:

After this racket got going, they decided that they could make bigger money than ever out of this racket by fixing the numbers and making policy not merely a racket, but crooked, by cheating the public. So they got a man whose name I mentioned the other day, I think, universally known as Abadaba or Havasack. Most people do not even know his right name; I do not remember it myself.

He was a man who was the official handicapper at the Coney Island race track. He was an expert, and he was inside the pari-mutuel machinery at certain of the race tracks, not all of them. I do not recall the names of the ones where he was on the inside. And so for about half of the year or a little less, as I recall it, they had a system of fixing the numbers, so that as soon as the first five races were over they would know the numbers were one and seven. Inside the bank, which is a huge mill of activity, sorting slips, they know the numbers they are going to be hit badly on. They figure that out rapidly.

They had a whole system devised whereby they would pick out all bets of 50 cent sor over. Everybody in the bank was instructed to do that.' Somebody would secretly leave the bank with those numbers, secretly telephone to eGorge Weinberg.

George Weinberg would secretly telephone to Havasack what the result was, the information having come in to him from all of the banks which were in the combination, as they called it.

Knowing that the first two numbers were one and seven, all they have got to do is look for the bad numbers in the numbers 17's. Supposing they had big bets on 175, as I remember it; 177 is a religious number, which is always heavily player year in and year out, and supposing they had a heavy play on 178 also. They telephoned Havasack: "No five, seven or eight."

The rest of the hits are small and they do not care so much. So when the sixth race comes out, supposing it is 6.20, he adds it up quickly, and gets 29.80. What he wants to do is to get seventh race odds which will come out a zero, or a one or a two or a three or a four or a five. Any one of those will not produce a five, seven or eight as the last number.

Or if he has a seven, that is safe, because that will produce a si xon the last number, and for certain months of the year they were able to fix the numbers and make it not only a racket, as I said, but also a crooked game in which the public was completely swindled, except on the small bets where they did not care whether they paid off or not, because that was the minimum expense of operating. . . .

Dewey Witness Bares Racket

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—Wilfrid Brunder, one-time "banker" of a policy game, was recalled to the stand today at the trial of Tammany Leader James J. ("Jimmy") Hines, who is charged with conspiracy in the $20,000,000-a-year policy racket.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey had removed Brunder from the stand late yesterday so he could present the testimony of George Weinberg, former lieutenant of the slain "Dutch" Schultz.

Weinberg's testimony was sensational. He pointed out Hines in court as the man who made a deal with Schultz in March, 1932, to act as "fixer" for the policy racket the gangster leader was then taking over.

$1,000,000 A YEAR

Weinberg said Schultz paid Hines $1000 and agreed to pay him $500 a week thereafter and any additional "necessary" expenses up to $1000 a week.

Brunder, a 42-year-old native of the British West Indies, told of quitting work as a shipping clerk.

Move to Indict Lottery Ring

Wholesale indictments in a $50,000,000, nationwide, fake lottery ring will be asked of the October federal grand jury here and in other federal districts, Assistant U. S. Attorney Jackson J. Holtz revealed today.

More than six tons of fake lottery tickets have been seized by postoffice inspectors in raids throughout the country, Holtz disclosed.

Federal agents, Holtz said, likewise have located printing plants operated by the syndicate in Western and Middle Western cities.

Minton Backs Prof. Frankfurter

Seek Secret 'Red' Record

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The House committee investigating un-American activities endeavored to learn today from Labor Department records whether any "peculiar influence" had delayed deportation of Harry Bridges, CIO maritime leader, as a Communist and alien.

The labor department agreed to open its records to the committee in response to a request from Chairman Dies (D.) of Texas.

A committee member said the department files might disclose a copy of a "certain document" which would explain why Bridges was not deported.

WOMAN ON STAND

The information was sought for use by Miss Margaret Kerr of Los Angeles in testimony before the committee. She is executive secretary of the Better America Federation, which Dies described as a patriotic league.

The committee heard Miss Kerr's information about Bridges behind closed doors and decided not to make it public until the document was obtained.

(The labor department decided four months ago to postpone the deportation proceedings against Bridges pending appeal of a circuit court decision in another case that Communism was not cause for deportation).

20 N. E. WITNESSES

Meanwhile, the committee arranged for four witnesses from New York to describe the recruiting of American youths for service in the Spanish civil war.

"They will explain how subversive elements in this country were responsible for them getting into the war," Dies said. "Some of them will be men who went across."

Edward Sullivan, committee inofficial, that Communist interviewing prospective witnesses, announced in Boston yesterday that more than a score of persons from that area would testify.

Hub Witnesses Face Dies Quiz; Bare WPA Reds

Accompanied by two Boston witnesses, Edward F. Sullivan, investigator for the Dies congressional committee probing un-American activities, arrrived today in Washington for the committee hearings.

With him were Captain Alvin Halpern and Abraham Sobel, both veterans of the Spanish Civil War, who have given Sullivan information concerning Communist recruiting methods here.

Sullivan carried with him a written report on the progress of his investigation thus far in Boston and this report was to be filed as soon as he presented his two witnesses at the Dies hearings.

Also, Sullivan carried a letter to Congressman Dies of Texas, chairman of the inquisitorial body authorized by Congress to make the probe.

REDS IN WPA HERE

The letter was written by Ralph Granara of Boston, prominent in theatrical circles, and it makes the following charges of Communistic activity in WPA projects here:

"That it was practically impossible to get on the writer's project or receive a promotion unless you held a card in the Workers' Alliance, a subsidiary of the Communist Party.

"That the White Collar Workers' Union is controlled and governed by Reds.

"That it was a common occurrence for Communistic literature to be passed out three or four times a week at the drama project; that members of the writers' project held Communist meetings on Boston Common and and in Hayward place, and that they were making a drive to organize welfare workers here.

RED PLAY GIVEN

"That a play,—'Stevedore,'—was produced and performances given in Boston with the help of WPA actors and directors on WPA time with the knowledge of Miss Wagner and W. Duncan Russell, leaders of the project, and that 'Stevedore' was a Communist play.

"That three members of the writers' project were recruited to go to Spain to fight, with one Mike Aronberg now home with the loss of limbs.

"That the heads of two or three departments contributed financially to the support of the Stevedore production.

"That the members of the writers' project contribute weekly to the support of the Communist party in Boston.

"That members of the writers' project deliberately wrote misleading facts into a historical review of Massachusetts to help the cause of Communism in this country.

15 Million Beach Cleanup Proposed

Efforts of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser to clean up Greater Boston bathing beaches bore fruit today.

State Senator Eugene Giroux announced that he is preparing a bill for introduction in the Senate, authorizing and directing the Metropolitan District Commission to apply for a $6,750,000 PWA grant for sewage treatment plants on Deer, Moon and Nut islands in Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

Also authorized by the measure would be an $8,250,000 state bond issue to cover the state's share of the estimated $15,000,000 project.

Senator Giroux conferred yesterday with Colonel Maurice Gilmore, regional PWA director for Northeastern United States.

"The PWA stands anxious to provide its share of the money," Giroux quoted Gilmore as saying. "The major thing right now is action, as all current applications for funds must be filed by September 30.

"Thousands of sewage treatment plants have been constructed elsewhere with the aid of PWA funds, and the PWA stands equally willing and ready to help Boston wipe out the pollution in Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay."

The cost of the three treatment plants has been estimated at $15,000,000 "tops" by Arthur B. Weston, chief sanitary engineer for the State Board of Health. The PWA would be asked to provide 45 per cent of this, the state the remaining 55 per cent.

Picture League Challenges Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Hollywood Anti-Nazi League said today it had sent a telegram to the Dies committee challenging it to substantiate charges made that motion picture figures had contributed financial aid to Communistic organizations.

Youth Group In Parley Row

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—Delegates to the second World Youth Congress today found their path to an agreement on an international peace program impeded by the friction of divergent national, racial and religious ideals.

Almost every one of the 56 delegations had a different proposal, and the variations showed the representatives in many cases were strongly influenced by what they felt were the economic and political needs of their own countries.

Joseph P. Lash of the United States group suggested that a basis on which all American youth groups could agree was Secretary of State Cordell Hull's statement:

"No nation can hope to escape unaffected by what happens abroad."

Down With Wells, Moslems Shout

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Between 300 and 400 Moslems, shouting "Down with the ignorant Wells!" staged a protest march today against H. G. Wells' 'A Short History of the World."

A Moslem delegation also lodged a complaint with the high commissioner for India. They charged the book insulted the memory of Mohammed and the Koran.

Liberal Wanted In 1940 Race

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18 (AP)—Senator William G. McAdoo, California Democrat, says:

"President Roosevelt will not run in 1940 if he can find a good liberal to be a candidate."

$12,140,000 From PWA For State

Sixty-six PWA grants totaling $12,140,715 have been offered Massachusetts counties, the local office of the National Emergency Council stated today.

More than half the grants have been formally accepted and it is expected the others quickly will be approved by selectmen or city councils. About 30 additional applications have been approved by local PWA authorities and are awaiting o.k.'s from Washington.

Largest number of projects is in Middlesex County—21, with grants totaling $4,189,939. Next largest is Essex County—10, $3,097,336. Others are Barnstable County, 2, $249,210½; Berkshirt, 3, $214,927; Bristol, 6, $651,431; Dukes, 1, $45,000; Franklin, 1, $67,627; Hampden, 4, $2,174,575; Hampshire, 3, $129,600; Norfolk, 5, $461,421; Plymouth, 4, $255,033; Suffolk, 3, $335,025; Worcester, 3, $269,591.

Total estimated cost of the 66 projects is $26,995,563.

French Air Trip To U. S. Delayed

BORDEAUX, France, Aug. 18 (AP)—The big French flying boat Lieutenant De Vaisseau Paris returned to her base today 10 minutes after taking off on the first leg of a transatlantic flight to New York.

Propeller trouble necessitated postponement of the flight. The plane was to have stopped at Lisbon, Portugal, and the Azore islands en route to America.

DRAGGED BY AUTO—Thomas Hanrahan, 5, of South Boston, is in City Hospital recovering from injuries sustained when he was dragged 20 feet by an auto under which he was playing "mechanic."

Plays 'Mechanic,' Boy Hurt by Car

Dragged 20 feet by an automobile under which he was playing "mechanic," five-year-old Thomas Hanrahan of Locust street, South Boston, was at City Hospital today, recovering from severe injuries.

Doctors said the boy's condition was not dangerous. He sustained bruises and lacerations of head, face, arms and body.

Jack Speisman of Capen street, Dorchester, alleged driver of the automobile, said he started his machine, unaware the Hanrahan youngster was beneath it.

Motor vehicle department officials started a campaign today to acquaint parents with the risk run by children playing on or under parked automobiles.

Several accidents similar to that resulting in the Hanrahan boy's injury have recently been reported, Motor Vehicle Inspector Max Jacobs said.

Will Exhume Body

Fear Mother Slain, Robbed

District Attorney Foley gave tentative permission today for exhumation of the body of Mrs. Esther M. Wolfe, Brighton mother, believed by her sons to have been a poison victim.

At the same time, authorities at Portland, Me., where Mrs. Wolfe died last November, said they believed the case had been adequately investigated and suspicion of foul play had been eliminated.

Dr. Daniel M. Mannix, Portland medical examiner, said he attended Mrs. Wolfe prior to her death and was satisfied she died later of heart trouble.

Determined nevertheless to reopen the investigation, Mrs. Wolfe's Dorchester son, Bert Wolfe, of Richfield street, presented to District Attorney Foley today evidence allegedly indicating the Brighton mother was "lured" to Portland and was there murdered for $5000 in money and gems.

She wore this small fortune in a pouch strung about her neck, the son said.

District Attorney Foley announced he would approve exhumation of the body, now in a West Roxbury cemetery, if consent of Portland, Me., officials was also obtained.

Premiere Shunned By Norma

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18—Hollywood was buzzing today over Norma Shearer's predicament in being unable to attend her own premiere of "Marie Antoinette" after going all the way to New York to be present.

She received a telegram signed by the theater managers, agents and treasurers union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor requesting her not to pass through the picket lines at the Astor Theater.

The message said that 600,000 AFL members were awaiting her decision. After careful consideration, Norma decided it was unwise for her to create what might develop into a very serious disturbance.

In talking with her over long distance telephone today, she said her own personal disappointment was nothing to what she felt for the fans who had waited patiently for hours in front of the theater to see her.

"I wish you would explain," she said, "how sorry I was that I could not keep faith with them and with those who bought tickets, after promising to be present."

While in the East Norma will visit Dartmouth College, where an Irving G. Thalberg Memorial in the form of a screen writing course has been instituted—a tribute she deeply appreciates.

Ask What Price Life?

$15 a Week or Starve, Girls Tell State

Can a working girl live on less than $15 a week?

This is the problem which the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation debated today as it took under advisement the wage plea of 50 striking girl employes of a Somerville laundry, who demanded a minimum wage of $15.

Bringing along pay-envelopes as evidence that $11 and $12 is their present wage, 15 girls appeared as witnesses, representing the other 25 on strike. They testified that they now had to go without vacations and that $15 was as little as a girl could possibly live on.

They also asked better working conditions and a 10 per cent increase for girls and women employed on piece work.

Miss Rose Norwood, business agent of the Boston Laundry Workers Union, argued their case before the board.

AIRLINES SHOW GAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Domestic air lines flew 42,208,362 passenger miles during July, a 4.7 per cent increase over June, Colonel Edgar S. Correll, president of the Air Transport Association, announced today.

Count, Babs Chat Calmly

(Copyright, 1938)

VENICE, Aug. 18 (INS)—Legally separated following the collapse of their marriage, Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow and his wife, the former Barbara Hutton, met at a hotel here today and talked for an hour.

There were no signs of any reconciliation.

The Countess Reventlow has been vacationing here, while the count arrived by airplane from London this afternoon.

It was their first meeting since she started legal proceedings in England to prevent him from approaching her.

It was evident that the countess was expecting the count. He walked straight across the hotel lobby to Barbara, as she smiled a greeting, but his manner was cold and impersonal.

After shaking hands, without any sign of affection, they walked together to the hotel bar, where they talked alone.

It was believed their conversation had to do with their two-year-old son, Lance. The boy has been made a ward of the English courts.

Lynn Bride, 15, Bans Armistice In Row

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Haskell, Sr., have proposed to their son that if he will sign annulment papers they will agree to his remarrying Virginia two years from now, when he will have been graduated from high school.

They will allow him to see Virginia, meanwhile, at any time he wishes, and they will aid him in setting up a home for her after the second marriage, Virginia said they proposed.

"I have told him not to sign it," said Virginia, "and he has said he will always do as I wish.

"Of course it is awful hard for him. I don't know what's going to happen. I know that I'll never sign for an annulment."

And Virginia's mother said today she is of the same mind.

"My daughter's chances in life have been jeopardized by this marriage if she gives up her husband," said Mrs. Jones.

"I am the mother of the girl in this case and I see it differently than the mother of the boy. It makes a difference whose mother you are."

Meanwhile Virginia and Louis see each other only about once a day, and then never alone, according to the high school bride.

"We are watched every minute," she said. "We are never allowed to be alone. Louis' people see to it that somebody always goes along with him."

'Hitler Girl Friend' Ill

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—With the departure for Germany of Baron Redesdale, it was disclosed today that his daughter, "Aryan Blonde" Unity Mitford, one of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's most ardent British champions, was ill of pleurisy at Bayreuth.

Miss Mitford's mother, Lady Redesdale, flew to her bedside several days ago and Lord Redesdale left last night.

Her condition was reported satisfactory.

One version said Miss Mitford suffered sunstroke at Breslau because she stood hatless for hours awaiting a glimpse of the Fuehrer and that pleurisy developed.

She had a tussle last April in Hyde Park with anti-Nazis who snatched the Swastika pin Hitler had given her. Later she was detained for a time by Czechoslovakia authorities near the carefully guarded German frontier.

Henlein Weighs Czech Crisis With Briton

By Associated Press.

Conflict in Czechoslovakia between the government and the Nazi-supported Sudeten German minority came to a new crossroads today; in China, Japan gathered new power for her Yangtze river campaign and, in Spain, government and Insurgent forces locked grips on two important fronts.

A foreign office official in Phaha disclosed that a meeting had been arranged between Viscount Runciman, unofficial British mediator in the issue over the Sudetens' demand for autonomy, and Konrad Henlein, lesder of the Sudeten party.

It will be their first direct contact. It was understood Runciman would plead that the Sudetens take a less uncompromising attitude.

Japanese ships and planes bombarded stubbornly-held Chinese positions on the south bank of the Yangtze in redoubled efforts to break through to Hankow, China's provisional capital.

The Japanese have been held almost at a standstill since they occupied Kiukiang, 135 miles below Hankow, July 25.

Heavy fighting spread on the Estremadura front in southwestern Spain as Spanish government troops tried to drive Insurgents from the foothold they had won in the mountain barrier to the Almaden mercury mining area.

Insurgents said all government counterattacks failed but the government declared Insurgent vanguards had been driven back across the Zujar river.

Now Bossy Has 2 Gas Sign Appeals

AMESBURY, Aug. 18 (AP)—Andrew J. "Bosy" Gillis, former mayor of Newburyport, said in court today he would carry to the United States Supreme Court his contention a 1938 state law limiting the size of gasoline station price signs, under which he was fined a second $50 by Judge Charles I. Pettingell, was unconstitutional.

He first was fined two weeks ago on a state charge the sign over his station near Salisbury was larger than permitted by the new statute. He appealed but was hailed into court again today on the same charge. He appealed again.

Horse-Age

Boom in Carriage, Wagon Trade

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The carriage and wagon business is getting better in this automobile age.

The census bureau said today the business increased 50 per cent from 1935 to 1937, due primarily to the manufacture of farm wagons.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 6 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Butler Flays 'Little Boston Group' in Talk

Republican political circles were still gasping today over the Nahant speech of Frederick Butler of Andover, candidate for the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination, assailing "a little group in Boston" and charging that one of his opponents was spending "thousands of dollars of outside money."

Butler was one of the candidate-guests of the Women's Republican Club at its Nahant Club meeting, with John D. M. Hamilton, national Republican chairman, as the principal speaker.

Other Reupublican gubernatorial candidates — Leverett Saltonstall, former Speaker of the House; Richard Whitcomb of Springfield and William H. McMasters—were also present.

Butler's praise of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and the prediction that Lodge would be "the next Republican President," brought prolonged applause. A few minutes later, he launched his attack.

He charged that the "little Boston group" had tried to give "the kiss of death" to Senator Lodge.

In charging one of his opponents with spending large sums in the party primary, he did not specify any particular candidate.

The green lawn of the Nahant Club, where Chairman Hamilton charged President Roosevelt with being an "egoist" and Mrs. Sarah Oliver Hulswit, organizer of "The Women's Rebellion," gave the name of "traitor" to the nation's chief executive, is the same spot where the President himself stood recently as a guest of honor, at his son's marriage.

Italo-American Club Backs Saltonstall

Leverett Saltonstall, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, today held the endorsement of the Italian-American Citizens' Club of Somerville, after a speech in which he pledged relief for the needy and real jobs for the unemployed in private industry.

The organization is non-partisan and endorsed several Democrats and several Republicans for various other offices.

Saltonstall stated that relief for needy was no longer a political issue but a governmental service.

400 More Flee Austria Nazi Rule

GENEVA, Aug. 18 (INS)—More than 400 refugees from Nazi-dominated Austria crossed the Swiss frontier during the past week, it was learned today.

These boosted the total of refugees residing illegally in Switzerland at present to at least 1200, authorities said.

Bees Back at ABC's

Under coaxing from George A. Meigs, Essex Agricultural School apiarist, more than 50,000 bees were back at the school today after a visit to the Pequot Mills plant in Salem.

Meigs was called in a hurry when the swarming bees invaded the mills, frightening employes. The sultry weather was blamed for the migration.

Jim Roosevelt Deal Auditor Drafts Report

"Practically ready" today was an auditor's report on a Boston broker's suit to recover $31,750 commission on an $800,000 insurance policy the National Shawmut Bank allegedly "switched" to a firm with which James Roosevelt was connected.

The "switch" was made because the bank "wanted Jimmy Roosevelt to get the business," counsel for the plaintiff charged at the hearing.

Auditor F. Delano Putnam, appointed by the court to hear evidence, said today his report was virtually complete and would be returned "as soon as possible after September 17."

Reason for delay until that date, Putnam said, was to await return from Europe of counsel representing the bank and representing the plaintiff, Arthur D. Cronin.

"The report is practically ready," Putnam explained. "We expect Attorney Robert Dodge, counsel for the National Shawmut Bank, and Attorney Romney Spring, counsel for Mr. Cronin, to be back in Boston by September 17.

Dies in Fall Off School In S. Boston

Seconds after neighbors heard him calling for help, John F. Reilly, 28, of Newman street, South Boston, plunged to his death from the second floor of the Perkins school today.

In the darkness Reilly had crawled to a narrow window ledge of the school building, gaining access to his perch from a lower adjoining structure. Police were unable to explain why he made the climb.

He hung for a short while from the window sill, crying for aid, then fell 25 feet to the cement yard. John Kelly of East Ninth street, attracted by Reilly's shouting, saw him plunge and notified police.

Lindys See Soviet Army Plane Display

MOSCOW, Aug. 18 (INS)—Determined to make the most of their visit to Soviet Russia, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh went on a sightseeing tour this morning before going to the Moscow airport to witness the military aviation display which will be held this afternoon.

Although the American flier is an aviation idol here, the influential newspaper Pravda confined its report of his arrival in Moscow to a mere two lines of type.

But the Red army organ, Red Star, seized the occasion to deliver a sermon on "conditions" in the United States and in the U. S. S. R.

The paper, in an editorial, stressed the hardships that Lindbergh encountered when he first learned to fly an airplane and asserted that "Soviet youth does not have such hardships."

Lindbergh insisted he had come to Russia as a tourist and refused to admit that there were any scientific reasons for his visit.

Charge Wife Killed Mate

WATERBURY, Ct., Aug. 18 (INS)—Mrs. Thursa Grant Scott, 25, today allegedly confessed to the fatal shooting of her husband, Howard Scott, 36, rolling mill worker, at their home a week ago.

The woman, who was held as a coroner's prisoner, at first steadfastly denied any knowledge of the shooting and suggested her husband may have committed suicide.

Police quoted Mrs. Scott as saying that the couple has quarreled before the shooting and that the husband had possession of the pistol at first.

Police said further questioning would be necessary before any specific charge would be lodged against Mrs. Scott.

'Torture' Grill Faces Policeman

Due back today from a New Hampshire vacation, one of two Harbor police station officers accused of brutality to Dorchester boy suspects was to be questioned by Police Captain Lawrence A. Dunn, in charge of the division.

Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon said he would wait Captain Dunn's complete report before proceeding in investigation of the alleged "third degree."

Fallon said:

"If the charges are substantiated, I shall be forced to put the accused officers before a trial board."

Meantime, parents of the "tortured" boys promised to bring civil and criminal court action against the officers named by the boys as their brutal inquisitors.

The boys claiming to have been "third degree" victims are Lawrence P. Mawn, 17; Joseph Shine, 17, and James Hanesian, 16, all of Dorchester.

Hanesian, now in Charles street jail, is charged with larceny of a bicycle. The other boys, under medical care at their homes, are awaiting continued court hearing in connection with looting of a harbor motor launch.

HAY FEVER and ASTHMA

Science has not yet found a preparation which will give relief to all hay fever and asthma sufferers. This is understandable when one realizes that both of these conditions can be caused by many things such as various pollens from flowers and weeds, perfumes, animal hairs, improper diet, etc. However, science has discovered that many cases of hay fever and asthma get amazing relief from the administration of a certain vital food element. Allergen, a rich source of this important element, gives relief to thousands of sufferers year in and year out. In fact, if Allergen is taken early enough, hay fever and asthma can often be prevented. Allergen is put up in inexpensive, easy-to-take tablets containing no harmful drugs. Sufferers who clip this ad and bring it in can obtain a FREE SAMPLE and full information.

Freedman Girl Called No. 1'

Mrs Ruth M. Freedman, long sought as Boston's queen of banditry, was named "Massachusettts Public Enemy No. 1," by District Attorney Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex County today.

The title was conferred at the conclusion of a long conference of District Attorney Bishop, Captain John F. Stokes of the State police, Captain John Canney of Cambridge and Lieutenant Daniel M. O'Connell, head of Bishop's corps of investigators.

The district attorney announced he had ordered all law enforcement agencies to concentrate on a wide hunt for the girl, and declared no expense would be spared to bring about her capture.

The renewed hunt for the Freedman girl, described as an attractive blonde, was launched following the armed robbery of a Cambridge gasoline station in charge of John A. McNaught, Jr., of Furnace Brook Parkway, Wollaston.

Death Takes Lewisohn, 89

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 18 (INS)—Adolph Lewisohn, 89, wealthy New York investment broker and philanthropist, is dead today at his summer home here.

Born in Germany, the noted philanthropist came to the United States 71 years ago. He accumulated wealth in mining and smelting enterprises which has been estimated between $40,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Columbia University received from him its school of mines. Other seats of learning including Princeton, Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth have been recipients of large donations.

Weak Finances Menace Hitler

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

LONDON, Aug. 18—In the shadow of Germany's spectacular army maneuvers, Chancellor Hitler's Third Reich wobbled today under the blows of economic pressure and public unwillingness to upset central European peace.

Stocks on the Berlin bourse sagged to new lows under the whip of business uncertainty. Financial authorities in London saw this weakness as a direct result of Germany's huge expenditures for rearmament.

For the first time, according to reports here, grumblings have been heard among German workers, protests which until now apparently have been hidden beneath overwhelming fevor for Hitler and the Nazi cause.

It would be a mistake to believe these signs now mean there exists any effective opposition to Hitler's regime, but observers here predict the Nazi government will be forced toward the left in the National Socialist ideology.

In many German towns the past few days have witnessed minor disorders among army reservists and farmers.

our rights with frankness, because we refuse to accept the twists of secret diplomacy, because we settle our disputes by consultation and because we discuss our common problems in the spirit of common good.

"But there is one process which we certainly cannot change and probably ought not too hange. This is the feeling which ordinary men and women have about events they cannot understand.

"We cannot prevent our people from having an opinion in regard to wanton brutality, in regard to undemocratic regimentation, in regard to misery inflicted on helpless peoples, or in regard to violations of accepted individual rights.

CITES EUROPEAN UNREST

"All that any government, constituted as is yours and mine, can possibly undertake is to help make sure that the facts are known and fairly stated.

The President recalled that when a Canadian meets an American, they light-heartedly salute each other "as North American friends, without thought of danger from overseas." But he took cognizance of European unrest and its effect on this continent with these words:

"A few days ago a whisper, fortunately untrue, raced around the world that armies standing over against each other in unhappy array were to be set in motion. In a few short hours the effect of that whisper had been registered in Montreal and New York, in Ottawa and in Washington, in Toronto and Chicago, in Vancanuver and in San Francisco.

"Your business men and ours felt it alike; your farmers and ours heard it alike; your young men and ours wondered what effect this might have on their lives.

FORMERLY OPEN BRIDGE

"We in the Americas are no longer a far away continent, to which the eddies of controversies beyond the seas could bring no interest or no harm. Instead, we in the Americas have become a consideration to every propaganda office and to every general staff beyond the seas, he vast amount of our resources, the vigor of our commerce and the strength of our men have made us vital factors in world peace whether we choose or not."

The President reached Kingston shortly after 9 o'clock this morning and was welcomed officially by Premier MacKenzie King. This afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt participates in a second good-will gesture to the British dominion lying to north when he and King formally open the new international bridge across the St. Lawrence between Collins Landing, N. Y., and Ivy Lea, Ontario.

Vatican, Duce In Parley to End Political Clash

By FRANK GERVASI

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1938)

ROME, Aug. 18—Negotiations between the Holy See and the Fascist government for peaceful solution of differences over the alleged political activities of Catholic Action are underway here.

It is hoped by the negotiations to avoid a rupture as serious as the one preceding conclusion of the Lateran treaty.

The status of Catholic Action, which is the Church's youth organization, of the Italian race purity campaign and of Italy's anti-Jewish drive were understood to be the chief topics of conversations.

Characteristically, Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius are personally conducting the negotiations through Padre Tacchi Venturi, a friend of both, who was instrumental in bringing the Lateran accord into being.

Father Venturi saw the Pope for an hour and a half last Friday. He interviewed Mussolini on Saturday and again on Tuesday, returning to Castel Gandolfo yesterday for executive conversations with the Pontiff.

Sucks Snake Bite, Saves His Brother

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 18 (AP)—A cloudburst drove the family of D. A. Williams into a storm cellar.

Olin Williams, 14, screamed. A copperhead snake clung to his big toe. He shook the snake loose and his brother Bradford sucked the toe until a doctor came.

The doctor said Bradford had saved his brother's life.

LET JENNEY SOLVENIZED

Stop Carbon's Vandalism

•You know that hard carbon will wreck a fine engine, and ruin its power and efficiency.

Removing carbon used to be a frequent repair job. But no longer, for users of Jenney Solvenized. Jenney Solvenized Gasoline is processed to dissolve gum, the carbon binder. With its binder gone, hard, harmful carbon becomes soft and fluffy so it can be blown out the exhaust. Result is that valve and ring action is improved and compression increased.

Jenney Solvenized gives you more mileage, more power—and it keeps your motor in better condition as you drive—at no extra cost. Start using Jenney Solvenized today . . . the more regularly you use it the better your car will run eralism, student organizations actively work to effect a destruction or serious impairment of national defense programs and support philosophies of government inimical to the country to which they should give their undivided allegiance.

"It seems to make but little difference to them that such systems of government have been productive of tyranny, destruction of religion and reduction of the individual to economic and political slavery.

"Subversive groups recognize that the future of America essentially depends on the youth of today, upon whom will devolve the responsibility of citizenship of the morrow.

"Therefore they continue the concentrated and industrious effort to implant in the minds of the youth of America during the impressionable period of their lives radical doctrines and fallacious theories."

[illegible] against the dema[illegible] of [illegible] Dobbs said that history shows democracies of the past eventually failed when it came to defense.

In a burst of color and marching throngs the convention opened today at the Municipal Memorial Auditorium with a welcome by Mayor William A. Bennett.

The city completely abandoned itself to the carnival spirit. Traffic was hopelessly blocked in all central streets, bombs exploded, squirt guns sprayed the crowds—and nobody cared.

Principal event on the program this afternoon was a clambake at Worcester fairgrounds.

A guest at the convention today was Rubin Shaw, of Philadelphia, president of the National Legionnaire Association, before whom National Commander Daly only was hissed some weeks ago. The legionnaires greeted Shaw with applause, evincing the absence of any hard feelings.

In addition to a resolution praising the Dies committee and denouncing isms, others in the hand of the executive committee number more than 80. One demands increased hospital and medical facilities for service men; another calls for a medical center for female veterans in eastern Massachusetts.

Still another demands review of disability claims which the government had previously disallowed.

Of major importance will be a resolution insisting upon retention of the State veterans' preference law. The convention it was declared, will adopt a resolution to oppose vigorously any amendment or change in the present statute.

Opposing candidates for the office of commander are Ralph R. Lavers of Southbridge and John L. Maguire of Watertown, both now vice-commanders. There are also contests for other offices.

Elections will be held Saturday, the final day of the convention.

Torso Slayer Hunt Nets 59

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18 (AP)—Police [illegible] kempt vagrants from [illegible] shacks in three [illegible] within a mile of downtown Cleveland today in their hunt for the phantom "torso slayer" of a dozen victims.

The men, some apparently in drunken stupor, were whisked to jail in a fleet of police vehicles. They were penned in cells to await questioning.

Three [illegible] taken to two clusters of [illegible] built from discarded [illegible] wood and metal after evidence indicated two cardboard cartons contained parts of one of the killer's latest two victims came from [illegible] people in the nearby [illegible] section.

The men in custody are typical of the [illegible] derelicts who have been under the maniacal killer's knife.

Do you order Dinner well?

. . . are you the Man who Cares?

GIVE Frank and Ed the same menu in the same cafe with the same price to spend.

Frank will order with discrimination, and he'll get a delicious meal. Ed will order in a hurry, and he'll get a dull repast.

Carstairs is notably a whiskey for men like Frank. Light in body, rich in flavor, it has the character good judges demand. A blend of several great whiskies, it is a distinguished blend. And it is your blend if you are "the Man who Cares".

Hudson Rites Tomorrow In Concord

CONCORD — Arrangements will be held tomorrow for Woodward L. Hudson, 80, former president of the Boston and Maine Railroad, who died at his home here after a long illness.

Appointed vice president and general counsel of the road in 1910, he was promoted to president when the government took control of railroad lines during the World War. After the war, he returned to his former posts in which he served until his retirement.

A graduate of the Concord public schools and of the Harvard Law School, he joined the law firm of Parker, Thorp and Hill and several years later became a law assistant to Senator Henry Cabot, counsel for the New York Central and Hudson, whom he assisted in the Boston and Albany.

In 1901 he headed the legal department of the Boston & Albany with offices in Boston and moved over to the Boston & Maine in 1905.

His widow, the former Bessie Rose of Concord, and a daughter, Mrs. Wesley Phelps Wood, survive.

MRS. JENNIE CHENEY

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie M. Cheney, mother of Dr. Edward Cheney of Fall River, were held today at the Richardson funeral home, Lexington.

ADDIE CROSMAN

Services were held today for Miss Addie R. Crosman, 74, for 35 years a teacher in the Wakefield schools. Death occurred at her home on Farm road avenue, Wakefield.

EDWARD M. FAREY
EMMA J. FAREY

SOUTH GROVELAND, Aug. 13 — A double funeral will be held Saturday for Edward M. Farey, 73, and his sister Miss Emma J. Farey, 70, who died here a few hours after he passed away.

Mr. Farey was past commander of the Ford Motor Car Company. His body will be brought here for burial in a family lot. Miss Farey, a communicant of St. Patrick's Church, will be buried in St. James' Cemetery, Haverhill.

CAROLINE ROBINSON

Services will be held tomorrow for Miss Caroline F. Robinson, 70, grand royal matron of the Order of Amaranth Grand Court of Mass., who died at her home on Cottage street, Medford.

Dewey Grill Bares Policy

and going into the policy business with a capital of $5000. He eventually knew how it felt to handle more than $1,000,000 a year in pennies, nickels and dimes.

He once had 30 controllers, each with 60 to 70 runners, working on an average of $100 a day in small lots on the lucky numbers.

He served a term in prison and when he came out he found that the Louis Schultz syndicate had taken over his profitable business.

Brunder said that when he got out of prison in 1932 he spoke to Joseph M. ("Big Joe") Ison who told him the policy racket was changed.

MET DIXIE DAVIS

He told me," said the witness, "that I had told him some time before that the policy racket couldn't be controlled. I told him I still believed that to be so. He told me it was not so, if a man had the proper backing."

Brunder was short of funds so Ison gave him $100 a week to work for him and informed him there was bigger money in the racket "the way it was now being handled."

"He told me Schultz was running things now," said Brunder.

Later Ison wanted Brunder to meet "some of the boys."

Brunder related that at Ison's instructions he went to a West End avenue address.

"I went into a room," he related, "and I heard Ison say, 'O. k., boys, he is inside.' In came Davis, George Weinberg and Ison."

Davis, Brunder testified, later became a partner in the policy business with Ison and Weinberg, who has pleaded guilty and is being used as the state's star witness against Hines.

ORDERS ON ARREST

"Davis told me," said Brunder, "that there was big money to be made in policy now and he wanted me to get into it. I told Davis I didn't want to. Davis said, 'Hasn't "Spaems" (meaning Ison) told you what the setup is?' I said he had."

Brunder said he agreed to "line up" several independent banks and started "doing business for the combination" on October 8, 1932.

He said Ison told him in case of an arrest not to call at 351 Lenox avenue but to call him at his home so he (Brunder) would show no connection with the "combination." Ison also told him it was best for him not to call at 351 Lenox avenue to telephone if necessary.

Brunder said that when 10 or 12 policy workers were arrested he phoned Ison who told me to get my own bondsman that he would get the lawyers.

"After that, in case of arrests, I was to call 351 Lenox and ask for George Weinberg," he said.

Brunder said the policy bets were collected by Fred "McLaughlin" daily and at the end of each week McLaughlin took the money to Ison's home.

Brunder said he was to get one-third of the accumulated profits over and above my $100 a week.

WHO GOT THE MONEY?

Q—(By Dewey)—Who got the other two-thirds?

A—I don't know. I was never told.

Brunder told about Ison taking him to "Dixie" Davis' law office when he complained he was not getting his one-third share. He quoted Davis as saying to Ison:

"Couldn't you satisfy Brunder without bringing him here?"

He said when he discussed his one-third with Davis "Dixie" said:

"Don't worry. Nobody has got theirs yet."

Brunder said the last time he saw Davis, in the spring of 1934, "Dixie" said to him:

"You are always complaining about money."

B. under said he replied:

"Yes, I am earning money because the business is producing money."

DAVIS' MONEY BOAST

"That's what you think," Davis retorted, adding: "We are earning the money, not you."

The witness told of "dream books" which were sold in the city's stations and cigar stores. He said some superstitious persons would go to sleep with a dream book and hope to dream winning numbers.

He told of a "controllers' meeting" at 351 Lenox avenue in the winter of 1934. He said the [illegible] had been with 300 persons. He particularly recalled the place was filled with white men and officers. He said the meeting was opened by Abe Ison.

CUT THE FEES

"Abe said the combination had the power now and he said the controllers were getting too much money," Brunder testified. "He said no controller should get more than 25 per cent and that they'd have to take it and like it."

A few days later, Brunder said, the controllers were getting 25 per cent and the runners got 15 per cent.

The cut went through, and, according to Brunder, the policy business started to fall off, getting down to about $200 a day from a high of $1,000 a day.

"So Ison came around and said that 'beginning Monday we're going back to 30 per cent.'"

One day "Bo" Weinberg, brother of George Weinberg, wanted to see Brunder, he said. "Bo" is now dead. It is said his body was weighted with cement and dropped in the East River.

BARES DEATH THREAT

"'Bo' told me, 'You stick with us and you'll get all that's coming to you.' I said I'd stick with the combination," said Brunder.

Several days later, however, Brunder went to "Bo" and told him he was going to quit. Brunder said he took some of the Schultz gang money "to meet his creditors."

Under questioning, the men to Fred McLaughlin. They told McMaughlin he'd have to "kick in" that business to them. McLaughlin said he wouldn't, whereupon they said:

"Well, Freddie, you want to live, don't you?—you want to ride in that car, don't you?"

The syndicate took the business over all right.

Brunder said he left town and went to Detroit. He said he is now in the real estate business in New York.

"That's all," said Dewey.

Defense Attorney Lloyd P. Stryker said: "No cross-examination."

Grab Boston Pool Racket

on these numbers which the operators or "bankers" fear.

Because he has been hit hard in such numbers he turns over the luck of the plays on these numbers to "the insurance brokers" who have capital and are willing to take the risk.

$10,000,000 A YEAR

In the numbers pool play, worth only in Boston alone some $10,000,000 a year, the New Yorkers, as the smart bankers are now being called, have cut the payoff more than 50 per cent in numbers after being here only one year.

In the past five months, using the methods Dewey probe, the Evening American has learned, New York racketeers realizing they were very close to trouble, have cut the payoffs and speed [illegible] nearly double.

CONTROL OF N. E.

One Dewey tip is a threat was to control was a big shot in Boston to talk before Dewey. Meyer Lansky himself.

This gangster came to Boston and in a small way opened a gambling room in the heart of the city.

He had been here only a short time when he brought in a group of number pool insurance brokers who started taking half money from the Boston bankers in the numbers racket on [illegible] pictures they had been hit with [illegible].

Almost before the local numbers kings realized it the insurance brokers had spread out to such an extent that today they control half of money bets even in the money belt of Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

WHACK THE ODDS

Here, [illegible] these racketeers are [illegible] whack the odds.

And they have obtained so much [illegible] that today they have cut the odds on regular number pool plays three number plays from where it was originally, 720 to 1, down to 600 to 1.

Soon after they took over control they picked 28 numbers that have been heavily played because they have repeatedly come out, and at the payoff price on these [illegible] than 50 per cent.

Not being content to run a strictly "insurance brokerage," they selected 100 of the best "pick-up men" in New England. The agents who take pennies and dimes and dollars for number play [illegible] pulling these agents away from local bankers.

This is how they do it. They take the pickup man's play and take a certain percentage of his end each day until he has a $300 bank account with them a sort of bond.

GET THE CREAM

They then use this $300 bank account as a deposit to his credit, and to save his time they take his plays over the telephone and he gives them a code number issued to him every week.

The lead man from at least 10 Greater Boston communities can be seen before 2 p. m. trooping into the Postoffice square address with the bulk of the day's play in cash, laying it down to be insured and taking the cream of his profit away.

The New Yorkers were the first to suggest the reductions in the prizes and have been successful now in having 36 favorite numbers reduced until now Boston payoffs are, on an average lower than the New York 600 to 1.

LUSSIN PICCOLO, Italy, Aug. 18 (AP)—Rachele Mussolini, wife of Premier Mussolini, sailed today aboard the yacht Aurora for an Adriatic cruise which take her outside Italy for the first time. She may go ashore in Yugoslavia.

Poor Memory Costs Him $25

Refusing to identify a man he had allegedly accused of robbing him, William McDonald, 43, of St. Joseph street, aJmaica Plain, was fined $25 today for contempt of court.

The fine was imposed by Judge Samuel Eisenstadt in Roxbury district court.

Just previously, the judge had ordered the release of Joseph DiMenico, 23 of Bromley Park Roxbury who had been brought to court charged with robbing McDonald of $102.

Police testified McDonald told them he was robbed by two men with whom he had been eating and drinking in a Roxbury cafe.

Patrolman Richard White had seen McDonald in the safe and had recognized one of the men with him as DiMenico, White testified today.

When DiMenico was picked up McDonald identified him as one of the robbers, Special Officer Joseph Dever told the court.

Suicide Threat Gets Her 90 Days

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Moreen Leonard Macy, 24, was sentenced today to 90 days in jail for the excitement she caused in a downtown street by threatening to jump from a 10th floor window ledge.

A fireman and an onlooker sneaked up behind her and hauled her in through a window.

Mystery of the Empties; Why There's Less Thirst

Bystanders who had been thirsty—but were thirsty no longer—swiped their lips today and shook their heads sadly, as they viewed wreckage of 30 beer cases cluttering Sleeper street, South Boston.

"Too bad," said the bystanders.

But Truck Driver Philip Rossetti, from whose vehicle the cargo of beer had been jolted by a highway bump, wasn't sure he was getting sympathy.

He suspected the watchers who were wiping their mouths weren't saying "too bad" with reference to his accident.

They just meant it was "too bad" more beer cases didn't slit off his truck, he guessed.

For when he got around to taking stock of damage, the many bottles that weren't broken were either unaccountably empty or had disappeared.

So Driver Rossetti said, "Too bar," too.

Fight Argument Ends in Shooting

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—A dispute about the fight between Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers last night wound up in a shooting affray that sent a police detective to the hospital with critical wounds, and his father-in-law to jail.

The detective, Leonard Colston, called in to the apartment of his father-in-law, Leo Jaworski, 64, to settle the argument said Jaworski pulled a gun and fired.

Hunt Mobsters At Title Fight

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—Fifteen detectives mingled with the crowd at the Armstrong-Ambers fight here seeking Dutch Schultz henchmen who are missing witnesses in the James J. Hines trial.

The detectives, most of them so new in their jobs that they are unknown to the sporting crowd, were provided with pictures of the wanted men—Danny Dale, Schultz bodyguard; Larry Carney, also a bodyguard; Solly Girsch and John Coney.

'What a Life' At Wilbur Labor Day

The Boston company of "What a Life," the New York comedy hit that will come to the Wilbur Theater on Labor Day, September 5, went into rescarsal today in New York.

Cast by George Abbott personally in New York, the company will hold all its rehearsals in the "What a Life" setting at the Biltmore Theater, where the Broadway unit has been playing since last April 13. Several members of the company have been taken directly from the New York cast and all the others have well established records on Broadway. Mr. Abbott will supervise the rehearsals personally.

The Boston company includes Eddie Bracken, Connie Nickerson, Marshall Bradford, Jane Gilbert, Irving Morrow, James Lane, Hope Landin, Ralph Bell, Henry Lascoe, Lalive Brownell, Norman Tokar, Miriam McNaught, William Mendrek, Lora Rogers, Sybil Keating, Butterfly McQueen, Mitzi Miller and Stasia Rogers.

'Dr. Clitterhouse' Tops Two Bills

The new program opening tomorrow at the Scollay and Modern Theaters will be "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," latest Edward G. Robinson picture.

Offered on this same program will be the latest Harold Lloyd comedy, "Professor Beware," featuring Raymond Walburn, Lionel Stander, Phyllis Welch, Benham Frawley and Sterling Holloway.

Olympia to Show Two Features

"Having Wonderful Time," co-starring Ginger Rogers and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., gay yarn of young but troubled love, will share program honors with "Shopworn Angel," stirring tale of a soldier and an actress and featuring Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, at the Olympia Theater, starting Saturday.

Berlin Hit Film Stays at Met

Irving Berlin's Alexander's Ragtime Band, the spectacular screen musical that has turned into one of the most popular motion picture attractions ever to reach the screen, will be held for a second week at the Metropolitan Theater.

It has been playing to capacity audiences since its premiere showing. Also held for an extended run is the new Jane Withers picture "Keep Smiling," which is being featured on the same bill.

Hailed as an American cavalcade, and set to the bewildering tempo of Yesterday and Today Irving Berlin melodies, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" boasts one of the producer's most brilliant casts.

Under Henry King's direction for the production of "In Old Chicago," again has Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche as its stars, while the gala supporting cast includes Edna Mae Oliver, Jack Haley, Jean Hersholt, Helen Westley, Tony Caruso, Paul Hurst, Wally Vernon, Judy Todd, Douglas Fowley, Louise Beavers, Chris Chapman and Chick Chandler.

"Keep Smiling" deals with the business and theatrical ventures of a touring salesman, Mr. Withers, who goes in for producing a Broadway musical.

New Gayety Revue

"Let's Swing It Revue," opening at the New Gayety Theater today offers a new and different Eddy Waldron and a fine sparkling cast of entertainers. It includes Fiddler and Harriott with other comedy in the person of man Lee Travers, juggler Tomas and Mary Lee Whitney, Epsworth and Lee, and the talented dancing beauties the "Gertrude Dolan Girls."

Ginger Rogers Hit for Bowdoin

The Bowdoin's bill starting Saturday and ending Tuesday, will feature "Having Wonderful Time," with Ginger Rogers and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Shopworn Angel," starring Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, is the dramatic story of a woman who sacrifices her love for one man so that she might send another away to war with a beautiful memory without shattering his dreams.

New South Seas Film For Lamour, Hall

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service
(Copyright 1938, by International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18—"Hurricane," according to my friend Bill Brandt, owner of eighty-eight theaters in the East, was one of last year's big money makers. People flocked to see this South Sea epic, even though at that time neither Dorothy Lamour nor Jon Hall were well known. So Sam Goldwyn will again team her and Lamour in the "Hurricane" Jon in another South Seas epic.

The battling Gene Fowler was anything but the shamrock boy he has been painted when I talked with him today. George really is concerned over his fight with Paramount, principally because he feels it has come at a bad time. He thinks he did right in refusing to play a master of ceremonies in "St. Louis Blues."

Louella O. Parsons

"I am not clever enough," said George, "to imitate Edgar Bergen or to try and play a Stokowski."

George's case came up at the Screen Actors' Guild meeting Monday night. But because of the many ramifications it has been referred to the guild's attorneys, who will decide if it's within the guild's jurisdiction or whether it goes to court.

A line or two: Jack Kirkland won't come down on his price of $250,000 for the screen rights to "Tobacco Road" and Jack Warner won't up his bid of $125,000, so they didn't even get to the huddle stage. . . . There's nothing to the talk about Cesar Romero and Priscilla Stillman being a romantic item for the very good reason that the lady has a husband, and it's hubby who asks the good looking actor to take out and dance while he's out of town. . . . John Stahl is negotiating with Noel Coward to direct a picture of "Bitter Sweet," Coward's favorite among the plays he has written.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, THURSDAY, AUGUST 18, 1938

Master and Puppet

The Editor Says:—A maneuver more remarkable for its cynical contemptuousness than for its subtlety, is being undertaken by the American Communist Party, one of the many abject satellites of the Third (Communist) International.

Briefly, the American Communists, under the guidance of Earl Browder, are elaborately pretending to be friends and allies of democracy.

They smile with sudden favor upon all shades of liberals. They attempt the social graces of the hated bourgeoisie. They avoid to mention, and sometimes artfully disclaim, the tyrannous satrapy of Moscow.

They take for granted, in other words, a weakness of memory, an incredible gullibility and an artlessness, that is altogether unnatural to the American people.

THE BASIC PRINCIPLES of Communism, as expounded by the Comintern, are well known and hardly to be confused by the "revolutionary" new attitude of Browder and his [illegible]

The Comintern itself makes no bones about its intentions.

The Comintern openly and frankly decrees, that:

There [illegible] no compromise or co-operation with bourgeois [illegible]

The Comintern will support Pinks and so-called liberals only so far "AS THE HANGMAN'S ROPE SUPPORTS THE CONVICT." Any collaboration is regarded as merely "TEMPORARY AND TACTICAL."

The Comintern is no loose organization like the Second (Socialist) International. It does not merely issue general rules of conduct. It lays down policy to the smallest detail. And it is obeyed by all Communist parties, including the American.

The final and only objective is world revolution. The Comintern emphatically affirms that this can only be accomplished by violence and terror. Violence and terror are considered "sanctified" by their purpose.

MR. BROWDER'S MANEUVER is thus seen in a clear light.

He is anxious to allay the fear, indignation and disgust of the well-informed, the more patriotic and the less naive.

He wants co-operation that will be only "temporary and tactical." Like the ape in the fable, he simply wants cat's-paws.

Once his ends are in sight, he will destroy his moderate colleagues by using "sanctified" violence and terror.

He will do it, because he is bound to do it. The Comintern says so and the Comintern, no matter how often or how persistently its dominance is denied, is still master of all Communist [illegible] from Mongolia to California.

It is indeed high time for all Americans to look up these things and understand them thoroughly. Communism not only preaches actively and is actively engaged in destroying the liberties upon which this nation is founded, and glory of this nation rest:

Religious tolerance, freedom of speech and worship, liberty of thought and action, sacredness of home and family, just recompense for labor and thrift, government by and with the consent of the governed.

Any man who raises his hand to attack these ideals is an arrant traitor.

No amount of shifty wheedling, of evasive apology, of unctuous amiability or ingenious casuistry, can obscure this fact.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18

When the President's call upon the people of Georgia to defeat Senator George and elect in his stead a Senator of his own choosing [illegible] the battle for control of the 1940 Democratic National Convention [illegible] to have begun.

Conservative Democrats now know exactly where they stand with the New Deal, and precisely what is likely to happen to them.

They must control, or be whipped, and they are in no mood to be whipped.

It is clear that the 1940 convention will be one of the most exciting and, in its outcome, one of the most important, in American history.

THE ATTACK upon Senator George has strengthened the belief in Washington that the President believes he will be forced—perhaps reluctantly—to become a candidate to succeed himself two years hence.

The President, on his part, doubtless understands that arrayed against him will be a group of veteran politicians and leaders who have been manipulating national conventions all their lives, who know all the ropes, and most of the answers.

Foremost among these, because of his strategic place at the head of the national committee, stands Postmaster-General Farley.

He is today's unknown quantity. Democratic leaders who hope to be able to control the convention are hopeful that he will be on their side, but it may be said with certainty that none now knows whether Mr. Farley's loyalty to the President will be equal to a third-term strain.

Preliminaries in the great contest for convention control will center in maneuvers for the selection of the two principal officers, the temporary and permanent chairman.

Whichever side obtains the other in the selection of these, will hold an advantage throughout the convention.

MORE SO in 1940 than ever before. It has generally been lost sight of that for an even century the two-thirds rule for making nominations in Democratic conventions was coupled with the so-called "Unit Rule," whereby a majority vote of a State votes that State as a unit, subject to certain local qualifications.

It has also been lost sight of that when the two-thirds rule was abrogated at Philadelphia in 1936, the "Unit Rule" was left intact.

By the operation of the majority rule under the "Unit Rule," it has been figured that actually a minority of the whole number of convention delegates might be able to make a nomination.

Thus the importance of having the chairman on your side.

PATRONAGE may sometimes provide a handicap to a politician, strange as that may seem. Representative Claude A. Fuller of Arkansas, who was defeated for renomination in the recent primaries, was chairman of the House Patronage Committee, master of four or five hundred Capitol jobs, nearly all rather soft ones.

In obtaining patronage for his State, Fuller was second to none. Yet he was defeated.

This defeat, by the way, will give the patronage chairmanship of the House to Tammany, in the person of Representative Sol Bloom, of New York.

The Brighter Side

Broadway Hails "Racket Busters"

By DAMON RUNYON

[illegible]

WE HAVE been neglecting our reports to a certain customer of the movies lately because we feel that in the hot months the movie makers are entitled to a little tolerance. That is to say, we feel that their efforts should not be viewed with the same captious eye as in cold weather.

Most of the movie houses in the Big city give us nice air conditioning in the summer and seated in this comfort sucking on the lemon drops that are sold at a nickel a package at the candy counter in the lobby or from a slot machine, it is difficult for us to work up any considerable venom over the cinematic display no matter how bad it is.

As a matter of fact, our summer pictures have not been bad at all. Indeed, some of them have been quite good and a few almost colossal.

We have already told you about "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which is breaking all kinds of records in New York City and has brought back a tune nearly 30 years old to night club popularity just as we said it would.

The story may be slightly stereotyped and "corny" but when they are making these big expensive pictures we suppose the movie makers dare not monkey with any new ideas in the story for fear of confusing us cash customers who like our stories without any tricks. Damon Runyon

Anyway, it would be cutting the pie pretty thin to criticize the story in "Alexander's Ragtime Band" as against Mr. Berlin's music and the superb [illegible]

Our favorite young man, Mr. Power is in the picture but also Mr. Don Ameche. We like Mr. Ameche because he is without doubt the noblest young gentleman on the screen today. The minute we see Mr. Ameche's moustache coming toward the mountain we settle back with a sigh of satisfaction knowing that no matter how ornery the villain may be, or how misguided the young lady, Mr. Ameche is going to be noble.

We imagine Mr. Ameche must get pretty sick of being noble all the time. Probably he often has to restrain an ignoble impulse to give the heroine a real good smack at those moments when the script calls for him to be his very noblest but Mr. Ameche has yet to let us cash customers down. He remains 100 per cent noble under any and all circumstances, and that is why we like him.

Speaking of moustaches, we have that of Mr. Walter Abel in an excellent and mighty timely picture for New York City called "RACKET BUSTERS" which seems to be doing a big business on Broadway. It is no secret that Mr. Walter Abel's moustache is impersonating the now famous mousser of our district attorney Mr. Tom Dewey, or that the picture story is drawn from incidents in Dewey's racket busting career.

OUR NO. 1 CINEMA VILLAIN, Mr. Humphrey Bogart, is the star of the picture and he certainly comports himself in a mighty mean way as the story unwinds. Mr. Bogart generally plays a gangster and he is always so dog-gone sinister that he would scare us right out of the theater if we were not reasonably certain that somewhere along the line he was going to get his comeuppance. We [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

We like Mr. Robert Taylor play [illegible] a prize fighter in [illegible] and we [illegible] tell you Mr. Taylor is all right in this [illegible] and certainly a lot better than he looks. We have not been exactly a Taylor man in the past because they always cast him in roles that made us male cash customers [illegible] but now that they are making a rough and tumble hero of him with a moustache on his lip we like him better.

Mr. Taylor is getting to be a good actor. Indeed, we found ourself not minding his once highly touted beauty at all, and when he can make a hard-hearted male cash customer forget that, he must be getting to be a good actor.

We no longer hesitate and wonder what else is in town on seeing Mr. Taylor's name on a marquee, and we can think of no higher commendation than that.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

IT IS ALMOST fatal for a bridge-minded man to marry a woman who is NOT bridge-minded, and yet insists on playing. And even sadder for a screen-fan to marry a man who hates the moving pictures, and regards all handsome picture stars as "sap-heads."

But these are only the primary and obvious causes of dissension, which couples discuss before marriage. But the wisest young things do not wed before carefully touching on such vital subjects as window-shades which a man always shoots up to the top, while a woman wants them at least halfway down. Or caroling in the bathroom and leaving the wet towels on the floor. Or eating crackers in bed. Or the question of who shall muss up the newspaper first or of reading each other's letters.

In the face of all this pre-nuptial preparedness, we wonder why so many marriages crack up. Perhaps that's because marriage is like an airplane. You can make sure that the ship is tight and airworthy, that the wings and the engine and all the thingumabobs are in working condition, you can be another Howard Hughes about taking precautions.

But, if you make the journey safely, smoothly and without a crack-up, it's just BLIND LUCK! Or you can start out in marriage, as unprepared as Corrigan, and make a happy landing!

Girl About Town

by Marjorie McBride

IT'S OPEN SEASON on bachelors again with a new debutante season in the offing. For those fond mamas who scan the horizon in quest of Polite Young Men With Money In the Bank, the column offers a select list of eligibles.

Among those fearlessly facing another social campaign is Nat Saltonstall of Medfield . . . he's president of the Museum of Modern Art and collects antiques. Oh yes, he's very dark and handsome too.

Marjorie McBride

John W. Watson of Marlboro street is in insurance and quite a yachtsman at heart . . . so is George B. Henderson of Chestnut street . . . who's in the radio business. He belongs to Eastern Yacht Club.

Then there are the three Bottomleys of Beacon street . . . John, George and James. They are all good dancers.

Edward Nash of Brookline, member of the Country Club . . . and Henry Fessenden of Chestnut Hill, member of the Essex County Club . . . are skiers and popular at swanky sports events.

Of course, there are scores of other nice young men but most of them haven't much money and the belief that two can live as cheaply as one has been exploded by most socialites.

AN UNIMAGINATIVE citizen who has lived in West Cedar street for upward of fifty years has just cleared up a mystery. Down through the years he's puzzled over the seasonal influx of cars from strange parts.

The other day he asked a man from Michigan what he'd come to see. The tourist told him he wanted to look at Acorn street, a cobbled lane, dating back to pre-Revolutionary days.

It was a cow path when Beacon Hill residents pastured their cattle on the Common.

"Imagine that," marvelled the unimaginative one, "coming way across the country to rubber at a street that ain't even paved!"

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD there are two new stars from Maine, and their screen careers have gone unnoticed by the movie columns.

They are two fawns, shipped by the Maine Fish and Game department to Walt Disney as models for his new picture "Bambi."

Aside from the gaping crowds they attract on the studio lot, directors say the fawns are behaving beautifully. When not acting, they are kept in a grassy plot and fed exclusively on goat milk.

After their "work" in the picture they'll probably be returned to Maine . . . that is if they can tear themselves away from the California climate.

JIM O'CONNOR of the Cunard Line tells an amusing story.

The captain and the chief engineer of a small ship each thought the other's work was much simpler than his own. They agreed to swap jobs and find out. The captain took over the engine room and the engineer went to the bridge.

After a short interval, the captain telephoned up to the engineer.

"I think you ought to come down here," he said. "The engines have stopped and I can't seem to get them to move."

"Don't worry," said the engineer, "We're ashore."

New York Cavalcade

by Louis Sobol

HOLLYWOOD—I think if you were to try very hard and put on your nicest manners, someone would guide you either to a palace or a hovel where the cubes roll freely and merrily and the little ball clicks cheerfully into its notch on the wheel and these interesting gentlemen who stand or sit around with eye shades will not stop you from wagering a pittance? I mean if you want to gamble in Hollywood there is no reason why you should not except, of course, the moral one.

Louis Sobol

It would not however be strictly accurate to state that gambling is countenanced willingly by the authorities there are times when they step in and protest. "Let's not have any more of this nonsense. There IS a law."

IN WHICH EVENT you drive down to Redondo Beach and step into a waiting launch and before you know it you are being helped aboard the S.S. Rex and to be confused with THE Rex which sails between Manhattan and Italy. The Rex lies three miles off the coast in a pleasant bay and it appears to law may or cares to check its gay career.

Here you may try your luck at roulette or the dice the birdcage or the slot machine, Twenty-One or Draw Poker. No one guarantees of course that you will leave the ship a winner.

AS FAR AS I know this is the only gambling rendezvous which boasts a press agent and actually wants the world to know that it is frankly devoted to gambling. As a result some of our most people patronize the Rex, dine there and gamble there—and the other night, when I was aboard, someone from a well known pictorial magazine was taking candid camera shots which will appear in a forthcoming issue.

THE OTHER DAY I printed Jim Tully's note about Frank Scully. I was with the two of them, just previously and Tully showed us a letter from Benjamin DeCasseres in which he enclosed another communication from some woman in La Porte, Indiana who asked whether Tully were dead or alive. If he were alive, she wrote, she hoped he would play the role of Jack London for Metro.

That's an idea," said Scully. "Why don't we, Jim? Tully, shanghaied his shoulders and snapped "Who should Napoleon play at our party?"

Germany's Power

by Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, DEL. The sudden German mobilization of half a million men is a notion to stimulate many trains of thought more than a little more ominous. It is hard to believe that there will be any war this year. But the two events underline in strength between a great industrial nation when mobilized for war and when in normal peace time operations is the thing to behold.

General Johnson

Dozens of modern ships on the ocean in U. S. navies may easily decide a modern war. It is a standing wonder that it did not do so in 1914 in the greatest victory in history. German victory.

The modern Cannae. The battle of annihilation.

Regardless of wealth, resources manpower and morale a nation unmobilized is simply helpless before a highly organized attack by another, even weaker people, mobilized for war.

Including all governmental services and all periods of service, we put more than six million men in uniform in the World War. With more time to organize supply and more transport facilities to Europe, it could have been double that. Our wool supply was short and steel production fell off. But there is hardly any end to the extent the civilian population can and will "do without."

We took the entire American wool clip for the armed forces and there was never a shortage of war steel. Neither was there any civilian suf-

"Have you noticed that the majority of your contributors are single? Young married folks haven't the time to think about such problems, they're too much concerned with their own private and family troubles.

"And listen, Elsie, that's about the way life goes. Leaders in public life and people who've been fortunate enough to attain success, and young people with not much else to worry about, take the time and can afford the time to worry about the state of the world.

"But I and my wife—and all those like us—we're concerned most with being good husbands and wives, good mothers and fathers, good companions and good providers. And that's more than enough.

"Listen again, Elsie! If every one of us would try a little bit harder to make good at home, and we could automatically grow into better people and better citizens.

"I don't know how to get rid of war and crime and crooked politics, and I don't think the average man should be concerned about those things, but I do know that if we were all husbands trying to be better husbands and wives trying to be better wives we're going to be a pretty swell nation.

THAT'S a sincere letter, son. And a logical and devoted one and I respect it with all my heart. But because I am [illegible] your [illegible] attitude, let me tell you a few facts.

The majority of my correspondents are NOT single. They are married people, busy people worried people. They are people at grips with life. AND THEY HAVE LEARNED THAT THEY CANNOT GET FAR IN THAT STRUGGLE UNLESS THEY KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT LIFE . . . ALL LIFE.

Remember, son, [illegible] wives who are reading your letter—have been all the things you want to be: good parents good citizens, BUT YOU CAN'T BE A GOOD HUSBAND OR WIFE, A GOOD FATHER OR MOTHER OR A GOOD CITIZEN IN 1938 UNLESS YOU STUDY AND KNOW AND WORRY ABOUT YOUR CIVILIZATION.

For you, yourself and your kind after you must deal with the consequences of present-day conditions. You can't serve your family unless you serve your nation.

You're no more right to be satisfied with private, personal problems in 1938 than you would to be satisfied with private, personal murder.

Or, at least, that's my personal conviction. BUT YOU ——?

Mary Spaulding Weds at Marion

THE BEAUTIFUL garden at Silver Shells, Marion estate of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, is transformed temporarily into a dignified little chapel for the marriage this afternoon of their daughter, Mary Louise Spaulding, to Eliot Codman, son of Mrs. Oliver Turner and Alfred Codman of Boston . . .

A white satin altar, flanked by urns of garden flowers, forms a background for the ceremony at which Rev. Phillips E. Osgood is officiating . . . The bride is wearing an ivory satin gown, made on simple lines, with long sleeves and a divided train . . . and her tulle veil is caught on either side of her dark curls by small clusters of bouvardia . . . Her bouquet is also of these fragrant blossoms . . .

Four attendants are preceding the bride down the garden path to the improvised altar . . . Mrs. Philip B. Taber of Buffalo, as matron of honor; Mrs. Daniel S. Codman of Dover and Mrs. Elisha P. Dodge of Newburyport, bridesmaids, and Sabra Harwood, younger sister of the bride, as flower girl . . . The attendants' costumes are of white marquisette with shirred bodices and full skirts . . . Large white garden hats and bouquets of lavender buddleia and blue delphinium complete their outfits . . .

Luncheon Honors Bridal Party

ALFRED CODMAN, JR., is the best man and the ushers include two other brothers, Daniel S. and Samuel E. Codman . . . Also Henry Putnam, Herbert Sneath, W. P. Graves, Henry Woodbridge, Rev. Holland Beal of Boston, and several out-of-town friends of the bridegroom . . .

Needless to say Molly and Eliot have been the objects of much pre-wedding entertaining . . . climaxed today with a luncheon for the bridal party given by Mrs. Sydney Harwood at the Kittanset Club, Marion, and a luncheon given at Mrs. Robert Herrick's Wareham estate for Mrs. Turner and out-of-town guests . . .

After a honeymoon in Bermuda the couple will be at home in Dover, where they will greet their friends after October 1 . . . The bride attended Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Ct., and studied at Mme. Bennasson's in Paris . . . Mr. Codman is a Harvard '27 alumnus, and belongs to the Porcellian and Tennis and Racquet Clubs . . . Out-of-town guests at the wedding include Mrs. George M. Ramsdell of Buffalo, great aunt of the bride, as well as the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ramsdell of Wilmington, Del., and Mr. and Mrs. Dexter P. Rumsey, Jr., of Buffalo . . .

Stork Visits McLoughlins

Many Boston congratulations are being wired Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. McLoughlin of Brooklyn, N. Y., on the birth of a nine-pound daughter.

Mrs. McLoughlin is the former Lucille O'Malley, daughter of Charles J. O'Malley of Cohasset and Chestnut Hill. Her wedding last year was an outstanding event on the early summer calendar. Mr. McLoughlin is the son of the late Maurice E. McLoughlin, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, and is a prominent New York lawyer.

Wilfred Kaplan Weds Abroad

Wilfred Kaplan, son of Judge and Mrs. Jacob J. Kaplan of Jamaica Plain, was married yesterday at Zurich, Switzerland, to Miss Verena Ida Roettinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich Roettinger of that city.

Mr. Kaplan is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1936, and holds an honorary fellowship at Harvard. He is completing requirements for his doctor's degree at the Harvard graduate school. Mrs. Kaplan is a graduate of the Technische Hochschule in Zurich.

Clare-Courtney Ceremony On Saturday

Frances Courtney of Dorchester has chosen next Saturday morning for her wedding to George F. Clare of Boston.

The ceremony is scheduled for 9 o'clock in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, and will be followed by breakfast and reception at the Myles Standish Hotel.

Eugene J. Courtney will give his daughter in marriage while her cousin Margaret Courtney will be her honor attendant. Completing the wedding party is the bride-elect's tiny cousin, Nancy Courtney, who will act as flower girl.

Daniel Clare will be his brother's best man while the ushers will be Edward Powers of West Medford and William Charlton. Miss Courtney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Courtney, was feted at a shower given recently by Marguerite Cahalan of Dorchester. She is a graduate of Boston Teacher's College and is active in its alumnae affairs.

The future benedict was graduated from Boston Latin School and Dartmouth College, class of 1930.

Second Dance At Scituate

Members of Scituate young set are agog with interest over the second dance in the summer series being held at the Hatherly Country Club in North Scituate.

Choice Recipe For Brandied Peaches

By MARTHA LEE

Along about this time of the year we are besieged with requests for recipes on pickling and preserving. Then, too, we usually have a few calls asking us how to remedy some fault that has been made in the canning of either fruits or vegetables.

One popular item is Brandied Peaches and some difficulty is frequently encountered here. We hope this recipe will avoid that trouble this year.

BRANDIED PEACHES

1 pint peaches
Half their weight in sugar
1 quart brandy

Remove skins from peaches and put alternate layers of peaches and sugar in a stone jar. Then cover with brandy. Cover closely, having a heavy piece of cloth under the cover of the jar.

In the event that you are one of those unfortunates who has encountered so much difficulty with this particular item, why not can the peaches and try this method later when you wish to serve the brandied peaches as a meat accompaniment.

QUICK BRANDIED PEACHES

1 can (No. 2½) peach halves
4 tablespoons chopped candied ginger
2 tablespoons melted butter
4 tablespoons peach or spiced brandy

Place the drained peach halves cut side down in a shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with chopped ginger and pour melted butter and fruit brandy over the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 5 minutes.

Here's a suggestion about what to do when you cut into a cantaloupe that isn't quite ready for the table. Make Cantaloupe Pickles by all means. They are delicious.

CANTALOUPE PICKLES

Select under-ripe cantaloupe. Cut into sections and remove rind. Soak for 3 hours in salt solution (4 tablespoons salt to 1 quart water). Drain off brine and add the watery drained rind to a pickling syrup made from the following ingredients:

4 cups water
4 cups sugar
1 cup vinegar

Boil the rind rapidly in this syrup for 10 minutes. Let stand overnight. Drain the syrup from cantaloupe and boil until it coats a spoon. Add cantaloupe and cook until clear (about 1 hour). Seal immediately in clean, hot jars.

BEET PICKLES

5 quarts small beets, cooked and skinned
1 cup vinegar
1 cup sugar
2 cups water in which beets were cooked

Small whole beets, sliced beets or quartered beets may be used for variety. Cook beets in boiling water until tender, cool slightly and remove skin. Bring vinegar, sugar, and water to a boil. Add the beets and bring to the boiling point. Seal in sterilized jars. Be sure to leave stem and tail on during cooking to prevent loss of color.

If spiced vinegar is preferred here is a recipe that may be used for beets or pickles.

SPICED VINEGAR FOR SWEET PICKLES

1 quart vinegar
½ pound, or 1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon allspice (whole)
1 tablespoon cinnamon (whole)
1 teaspoon cloves (whole)
1 tablespoon white mustard seed

Mix the vinegar and the sugar. Add the spices tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag, heat the mixture to the boiling point, and boil it in a covered saucepan for 5 minutes. Allow the spices to stand in the vinegar overnight.

The kind and quantity of spices and the quantity of sugar may be varied to suit the taste, but too much sugar shrivels the pickles.

News For Home Town Paper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

We have just moved from one small town to another small town. Is it necessary to insert a notice in the social column of the daily paper, and is it the proper thing to do? My husband has been engaged by a local firm. Should that be mentioned? J.

While it isn't "necessary" to insert this news item in the newspaper of your new community, there isn't any reason why you should not do this if you wish. It is "news" and this is what the social column wants, especially in the newspapers of a smaller community. And I suggest that you include the information of your husband's new firm connection.

Ring Should Be Returned

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Last Christmas I asked you what would be a suitable gift for a young man with whom I was going steady." You suggested, among other things, neckties, and I beguiled myself sending him six at $1.50 apiece. I never saw him wear any of the ties, but once, and that was on Christmas Day, when he brought me my diamond.

What was my amazement, but to see his father wearing the ties I gave my boy friend. I was so hurt and angry that I would have broken off with him immediately, but if I do I suppose I will have to send back my diamond, to which I have become very much attached. If I break with him, must I return the ring. CONSIDERING.

It is customary, among people of good taste, to return all gifts of value when an engagement is broken. So I'm afraid your diamond must go, if you break with the young man who didn't wear your neckties. Perhaps he considered the ties too elderly, or maybe his father helped himself to the ties without so much as "by your leave."

If you really like this boy, better consider well before you break with him. But your letter sounds to me as if you were keener on the ring than the boy.

Girl Seeks Danger —And Discovers It

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Irene Kuhn has introduced herself, recalled her childhood in New York City's Chinatown, her marriage and revealed her early ambition to be a newspaper woman. She discussed her first assignment on a Syracuse N. Y. paper and told about the good-natured policeman who was to be her husband.

NOW CONTINUE:

CHAPTER TWO.

One of my early jobs propelled me immaturely into the offices of Collier's, the National Weekly, then at 416 W. 13th Street. Here, I exulted, was the spot where I could take off from stenography to authorship. It was as simple as transferring to a crosstown car.

But the months I spent typing letters for C. H. Smith, the circulation manager, and for the secretary of the company, disillusioned me of that arrogant assumption.

I discovered I was a long way from my goal. The ink-stained company I wanted to join were still far beyond my reach. At least, I consoled myself, I could learn about people; for by now I was fascinated with the right world of business I had entered. Writing could wait a bit.

And wait it did through a job with two wholesale corset manufacturers, a hitch at modeling in the cloak and suit district on 7th avenue, a stretch as secretary to Ann Grosvenor Ayres, a Broadway press agent, and various other projects.

Not until I became secretary to Dr. William J. Gies, professor of biochemistry, chemistry and physiology at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons and world authority on dietary, did I really get the chance.

Doctor Gies made the opportunity for me by keeping in mind to work directly toward the objective instead of merely skirting around it. Because he made me see the advantages of formal education, and enabled me to go to college.

It was a turning point in my young life when I met him, sitting over his glasses bent me at $20 a month. Then as now he was noted for his extraordinary devotion to pure research. Where his attainments measured with the same gauge we apply to more spectacular heroes such as ocean flyers, heavyweight champions home run kings and movie stars, they would fill columns of newspaper every day. But we have no such gauge. Nor would he want it. He is content to work behind the scenes and to live his life in laboratory, office and classroom.

A LEARNED FRIEND

After a few days he left, and his office operators with scientific books reaching from floor to ceiling and there he will write in his beautiful small even script as clear as print the results of his many experiments.

What a benefactor to mankind he is only a handful of scientists know for from his research, experiments have sprung some of the greatest advances in therapeutics, surgery, food chemistry and drugs.

Yet despite his preoccupation with science Doctor Gies is one of the most widely read and highly informed of men on affairs of local, national and international importance. Indeed the combination of world affairs in microcosm here is the far more important than that of many professors and others high and low whom we used when I have known them in the years.

He it was who, [illegible] me on hygiene my first year at Columbia as well as my professional life in terms of [illegible] exercises. To him I owe a debt of gratitude which I've tried to repay in the only way he would have it by making good use of the opportunity he created for me.

It was the winter before America entered the war that I went to work for Doctor Gies. In all those months of high emotional tension I did a good deal of reading and studying under his guidance.

We were working overtime when spring and the war came together for he was making top-secret tests of penicillin for various accredited manufacturers in consultation with experts of the Federal Government.

Each morning on arrival in the office I found neatly stacked and ready to be copied records of the progress of experiments on animals in the laboratory. These figures were more than mere black marks on paper. I was conscious of the drama behind each seemingly innocent little cipher.

SAVING SOLDIER LIVES

American laboratories, developing and perfecting a miraculous substitute for a product of German origin now barred by war to the Allied countries, were meticulous in their early searchings and desperate in their haste, for the need was great. Disease, for which they sought the cure, was killing almost as many soldiers abroad as were the guns and bombs.

For a young woman, sheltered as I had been, I had a realistic approach to the facts of life. I had earned the essential ones right out of an uncle's text books. When he was in medical school I was at the age of searing curiosity. My ignorance was abysmal; but then I was not one whit different from every other girl of my age similarly brought up.

But my curiosity was even greater than my ignorance. So night after night, when my uncle had finished his studying and stacked his books, and the family had all retired I pussyfooted down from my top floor eyrie to the basement, counting each step and avoiding the creaking treads which I knew by heart.

The living-dining-room, which we rarely used informally, had a big round table in the center. Suspended above it by a long chain from the ceiling hung a colored glass dome light. It's Welsbach burners there were three of them—cast downward on the tablecloth a beautiful clear light. Upward, from the variegated glasses in the dome, rays of amber and purple and red were reflected on the ceiling.

But I dared not light the burners. The policeman on the beat, who knew every family intimately, was as likely as not to come down the areaway stairs and peer under the window shade, through the grated windows, to see what might be causing the gaslight to be burning at 2 or 3 a. m. without any obvious Christian cause that he knew of like a wedding, a christening, a wake or a party.

Indeed there could be no such goings-on or he'd have been asked to stop by!

And if he found a light going he'd not be above mounting the basement steps, taking up the front stoop leaning over the iron hand rail at it rapping gently but effectively with his night-stick on the shutters of the parlor floor windows to awaken my aunts and tell them, 'The child down there should be getting her sleep. Do you know she is reading her eyes out?"

No, I couldn't take such a chance! So I'd sit cross-legged on the floor with my back resting against a massive leg of the table and for light I'd have the ruddy glow from the Baltimore heater.

This squat nickel-trimmed stove stood in a chimney piece under the black marble mantel. It was a familiar apparatus of those days and furnishing what we elegantly called "central heating."

From it warm air poured up through floor registers into front rooms on each floor of the three-story house. But as the three nearly were our sitting rooms, our bedrooms at the rear were the cheats in the winter. I, in particular, lived a hardy life.

Of my own choice I occupied the top floor rear, under the roof but while it had satisfying advantages of privacy, it was also lacking in some notable ways. On winter mornings I frequently broke ice in my water pitcher. Shaping them, or rather getting up them on a winter morning, developed great sprinting legs and the ability to dress as quickly as a fireman as I fought which arrived me well in next page work later for when the alarm clock roused me in the morning I grabbed my clothes, whisked myself into a woolly robe, and dashed down two long flights of stairs and through my halls to the bathroom.

STOLEN KNOWLEDGE

There I'd find that my mother, bless her heart, up long since, had lighted the gas heater and drawn my hot tub. And there, in that comforting warmth, I bathed and dressed; dashing back upstairs however, for last minute touches to hair and face before my own mirror, because the bathroom mirror had been hung to accommodate my father, my aunts or me.

The Baltimore heaters really gave enough light through its mica doors to read by. Gradually, I read an hour, and thanks to the cool objective recording of biological facts in those medical text books, to the delineation by chart and diagram of the mysteries of the human body I have never had any 'New Nelly' attitude toward facts.

Those charts and illustrations made me as familiar with the human interior as later I became with the intricacies of the B-M-T subways in New York or the labyrinth of streets in the native city of Shanghai. I've never forgotten them, nor the facts in the books.

They were learned at no great a risk even now I shudder to think of the consequences had my family ever suspected me in my early morning medical studies. They were learned also at the cost of good sleep. We don't easily forgo things we come by so hard.

FAMILIAR TERRITORY

So I had taken to the paper-work in this ante-room to the mysteries of medicine and chemistry in Doctor Gies office like a guide to an old trail.

No prophet permitted to hand the tools of the trade to a chef of less rational person and no sewing girl hearing seams and hems in the shelter of a Paris couturier, could have been more humbly worshipful than I. And when I was permitted to watch Doctor Gies conduct his experiments in the laboratory I was overjoyed.

After America entered the war, the government took a hand in regulating the manufacture of certain medicines because compounds, which were to counteract the dread effects of disease, might in themselves prove fatal. Doctor Gies job was to test the product for toxicity; to determine, in short, whether the batch ready for official acceptance had the chemical balance which would make it safe as well as curative.

The government demanded before it accepted any batch for shipment to the front that the product be tried out first on white rats.

The experimental period covered approximately three days. Haste was imperative, the need was urgent. To Doctor Gies however, this test was not enough.

My scientist had long been familiar with the German methods. He felt no safeguard in the preparation of this product could be too great. Accordingly, he used governmental specifications with experiments on white rats. But also, he frequently inoculated other animals and kept under close observation until the outcome was definite.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Sometimes the product passed the government specifications, but failed to pass the scientist's more rigid ones. That Doctor Gies' caution was justified was seen often enough to make one faintly ill at the prospect of reckless human death averted.

By his extra precautions, he spared many a soldier the shame of a death not even remotely associated with the glory of the battlefield, but still just as final, for when the furry martyrs of his laboratory suffered wholesale casualties, a report went at once to the manufacturer, and that particular batch of medicine was destroyed without question. Only a little would be saved, and that solely for chemical analysis and corrective research.

So it went. I never did much except watch Doctor Gies and his alternating helpers, young graduate students in biological chemistry. He often conducted a lecture as he worked on the animals; and so clear and expert were his explanations, so beautifully simple and effortless his technique, that right today I believe I myself could practice medicine.

Meanwhile, I religiously kept up my reading. Whatever I read I discussed at odd moments with Doctor Gies. Then one day he proposed that I continue my formal education. By then I had lost some of my earlier intolerance toward education, for to the forefront again was my latent desire to write.

I had come at length to recognize that I had a lot to learn from books and classroom lectures as well as from people. So I sorrowfully admitted Doctor Gies was right; that I had made a mistake earlier in being so brash, but that it was too late now. I had all those high school credits to catch up on.

"Oh, I think things can be arranged so that you'll not be conscious of the terrible difference in age between you and your colleagues," he said, and laughed, for he had guessed at once what was in my mind. In my advanced adolescence I couldn't bear the thought of sitting in class with kids of fifteen.

MARKETS BOSTON AMERICAN COMMENT

Meat Products Demand Grows

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—New tendencies on the part of Mr. and Mrs. America to eat more meat will help to solve the farm problem, according to R. H. Cabell, president of Armour and Company.

In [illegible] newspaper the head of the packing house stated:

"The most significant trend that we can see in our field of activity is an increased consumption of meat products due to growing recognition on the part of the public that there is need of more meat in the daily diet for people of all ages.

"An ever increasing number of competent dietary authorities is pointing out the fallacy of attempting to find substitutes for meat.

"In the past few years these authorities have repeatedly stated that the diet of one third of the population is short on the necessary protein and they have advised the use of more meat as a remedy.

NEEDED FOR HEALTH

"Meat is man's best food and in relation to its health and growth - assuring potentialities plus its appetite-satisfying qualities it is among the most inexpensive of foods.

Inasmuch as our whole system of agriculture depends on converting the bulk of our annual crops into meat, the consumption of meat in greater quantities is essential to agricultural prosperity."

Referring to the near term outlook, Mr. Cabell declared:

"We look for a decline in prices towards the end of October, coincident with the expected increase in the supply of livestock.

"We hope for an increase in consumption which should, in a large measure, maintain farm income and buying power, but we may expect lower consumption prices for most meat products if livestock receipts reach the estimates now placed for the end of the year."

Extending federal farm aid, the packer said:

"We believe that federal legislation aimed to keep production and consumption in balance, had, on the whole, been helpful and as the program develops an increase in production and consumption is to be expected."

EUROPEAN SITUATION

Asked about the economic effects of droughts, Mr. Cabell concluded:

"We do not think that any lasting benefit ever grows out of drought and while individual American farmers might seem to benefit by reason of short crops in Europe and elsewhere, in the long run the reduced purchasing power of those affected by the droughts would offset the temporary gain."

The head of another packing concern referring to foreign demand for American farm products said:

"Early in the season drought conditions were quite general in Europe and prospects for crop production appeared very unfavorable. However, recent government reports indicate that the drought was definitely broken in most sections of Europe during late May and early June, and present prospects for the 1938 bread grain crops of Europe are fairly good.

"It is reported that with good weather during the remainder of the growing season the combined out-turn of wheat and rye in European countries would like exceed the harvest of both 1937 and 1936. In view of these recent reports, there appears to be little possibility that American farmers will be helped to any substantial degree by a shortage in foreign crop production."

Good News

An increase of 11 index points or about 16 per cent is indicated in the volume of orders received in the month of July in the mills and factories of Massachusetts, as compared with orders for the month of June, an Associated Industries tabulation reveals. The record of the past month presents no strong evidence of a wide departure from seasonal tendencies, but rather a general strengthening in demand with 62 per cent of the returns showing an increase for the month.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 18—Employment for about 1000 persons will be provided in the worsted division of the old Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., according an announcement by Arthur E. Morrow, president of Amoskeag Industries, Inc.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 18 (INS)—National Cash Register Co has resumed factory operations after a two week's shutdown. About 7000 workers have returned to their jobs.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Aug. 18—Several hundred former employees of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co., operating the second largest textile industry in the Huntsville area, are receiving notices to report for duty next Monday when there is expected to be a partial resumption of operations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Electric power production in the United States for the week ended August 13 totaled 2,141,841,000 kilowatt hours, a gain of eight-tenths of one per cent over the 2,115,847,000 in the preceding week, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—For the second consecutive week Western Pacific's carloadings gained over last year and the preceding week. For the week ended August 13 total loadings also were above last year. Heavy movement of perishables and sharp improvement in lumber on the West Coast were mainly responsible.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Erie Railroad has placed orders for 3561 gross tons of first quality rail, it was announced today. Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp and the Bethlehem Steel Co shared the order.

Heavier Demand For London Gold

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP) Increased demand for gold today reflected revived continental nervousness over the European situation.

About £1,433,000 sterling (approximately $7,165,000) sold at 142 shillings 5½ pence per ounce, an increase of a penny over yesterday.

At the time of price fixing, the dollar stood at $4.88¾ to the pound, the gold equivalent being $34.78 per ounce.

HOURLY

PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

A few motors and specialties edged higher in today's stock market as many recent leaders stood still or dipped fractions to a point. The list was at its best in the forenoon, although outstanding strong spots were scarce. Light selling turned the tide for most issues in later proceedings. Near the final hour minor losses predominated.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THE TOBIN ADMINISTRATION is convinced after seven full months in office that a city planning board is necessary . . . Mayor Tobin will submit to the City Council statistics that four out of eleven families in the city are being supported by government instrumentalities . . . These include police, fire, federal government agencies, old age assistance and WPA appropriations . . . Boston spends $76,000,000 a year, much of it in payrolls . . . To form and launch the proposed city planning board and permit it to enjoy long-term functioning, an appropriation of $500,000 will be asked.

George Holland

Jottings:

In a Tremont tavern there's a [illegible] named Maggie . . . Her [illegible] and is her assistant . . . His age is 91 . . . But Maggie, who has been [illegible] is 82 . . . Musicians [illegible] sophisticated Tin Pan Alley melodies [illegible] . . . They've described as "classic" the [illegible] . . .

Some jealous souls—business rivals being suspected—disrupted Dan Humbert's broadcast from Ort's Grill by disconnecting the hook up between the restaurant and the studio. Humbert and his band played into a "dead mike" for a full fifteen-minute period

Former Senator Robert Bigney has encountered bad luck again in filing nomination papers on the Republican and Independent tickets . . . Two years ago the South Boston man was removed from the Republican ticket, and two days ago the Ballot Law Commission decided that forgeries existed among his Republican names . . . Yesterday, a similar decision was made regarding his Independent names . . . The South Boston politician is seeking again this year to succeed Executive Councillor Daniel H. Coakley . . . Daniel H. said today that he would take his first long vacation in four years after September 20, the date of the primaries . . . The district is strongly Democratic.

The Rhythm Girls clicked with every beat of the music at their premiere last night at the Mayfair . . . They are a Springfield trio . . . Lew Bonick's Band will hold over at the Mayfair when the "big name" policy goes into effect Labor Day week.

Governor Hurley's staff, and many another attendant at the Legion convention in Worcester, will break away at meal times from the city to eat at the famous Mount Pleasant House, nine miles distant in Jefferson, Mass. . . . Donald Van Wart, the Boston singer, is doing a Dwight Fiske repertory at the White Whale, Provincetown . . . "A Tisket, A Tasket" had its birth in Boston when Ella Fitzgerald, its author, was singing with Chick Webb's band at Lesaggio.

An official of the ABC was backed up against a wall at the Hurley dinner in Pemberton . . . Another state official entertained temporary notions of assault and battery . . . No blows were struck, but the gentleman who was threatened sent out a call for the beagles, and a half-dozen cops responded. . . No action.

Two-Way Santa Claus:

Mr. Whiskers, as the boys fondly describe Uncle Sam, has been checked by his own investigators, and probably will not be permitted to keep two of his payroll charges working much longer . . . It has been found that a secretary on the WPA library project (at $130 a month) is the wife of an important government official hereabouts who gets $7500 a year.

Once Over Lightly:

What can be the reason West Point cadets have been advised to [illegible] their fingers [illegible] residences be set on [illegible] girls? . . . Two [illegible] Barry of Newark won [illegible] Naturalization Parlor O'Hara of Medford has [illegible] of the trucks pass-hat . . . It took three years to get the [illegible] that various functionaries of three state [illegible] . . . And gentlemen known to drop globs of butter in the [illegible] were always on the O'Hara pass list.

Gertrude Nissen is in rehearsal for her second London show, and is co-starred with England's No. 1 comedian, Bob House . . . Mose Gumble, one of the grand old men of the music business, came to town for Eddie Duchin's premiere at the Ritz Roof . . . The Cocoanut Grove's Ice Revue will be held over again.

Richard W. Mahn, secretary to Charles W. Koerner, the Keith boss, is home from a Bermuda honeymoon. The bride was Miss Virginia Edwards of Roslindale, a school teacher. They are living in Allston . . . Frankie Decker is doubling between Jimmy O'Keefe's Grill and the Vanity Fair.

Boston will probably see and hear Jerome Kern's first musical since the composer of "Show Boat" the light opera classic of our day, wrote "Roberta," (which included "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes") . . . Carl "Cueball" Moore, who is at the Westminster Roof, will be the announcer at the Marshfield Fair and the Brockton Fair.

What he calls the "Shuffle Rhythm" is being introduced by Jacques Renard. The rhythm calls for double time by the bass . . . Frank Gelinas, the Weymouth lad who resembles Morton Downey of a dozen years ago, journeys to New York to audition at Leon and Eddie's. The youth is 20, and has a vibrant voice, with a tremendous range.

Talents Shown By Style of Handwriting

By HELEN PAYNE

You remember the Parable of the Ten Talents? Of course you do, and at no time does the proper understanding of the Parable impress itself more clearly than when examined in the light of graphological evidence.

Every one at birth is endowed with certain inherent abilities, traits, talents if you wish, the development of which, under proper direction and control, will greatly benefit him.

No one is entirely lacking in some advantages, he can do some one thing better than those around him—and if he fails in the performance of his task in the development of that gift or ability but buries it in the ground (like the man with the one talent) he will soon lose the power to employ it, and the man with the ten talents who does the work or employs the [illegible] in place of [illegible] other man's [illegible] talent.

The sample of writing given below is that of a [illegible] who has PRIDE, PRETENTIOUSNESS, VANITY AND AFFECTATION to [illegible] with the [illegible] development of HIS WILL POWER—the pride is high and excessive and self esteem is not real, but an [illegible]

here written the Coupon and who shows how

This type of writing indicates a person puffed up with PRIDE and self-appreciation, note how the "has" tear themselves haughtily, and the straight inflexible strokes to the "I" and "I" are likened to a red signal flag the watchman waves at the crossing to attract attention.

(If you have a sample of someone's writing that you would like analyzed—why not send it in to Miss Payne—she has astounded thousands with her accurate and truthful analysis

DEAFENED? DON'T LOSE HOPE

If you are deafened and suffer ringing, buzzing head noises don't lose hope until you try Quinine, the Sinuma specialist's antiseptic treatment. MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN — Here's Looking at You! — By Lee Falk and Phil Davis

LET ME HEAR THAT AGAIN. WHERE WERE YOU LAST NIGHT?
I TOLD YOU, INSPECTOR. I HAD A PHONE CALL -- A WOMAN'S VOICE -- SAYING SHE HAD TO SEE ME ON A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH. SHE WOULDN'T TELL ME HER NAME.
SHE SAID SHE NEEDED MY HELP. SHE SOUNDED URGENT. I WAITED ALONE ON THE COUNTRY ROAD ALL NIGHT --BUT SHE DIDN'T COME.
I'VE HEARD SLIM ALIBIS BEFORE, BUT YOURS IS ABSOLUTELY SKINNY!
YOU DON'T SUSPECT MANDRAKE OF STEALING MY FATHER'S BONDS?
I AIN'T SAYING, YET! BUT WE'LL HAVE A LOOK AROUND MANDRAKE'S HOUSE!

Royalists of the Links In Amerk-Sunad 4-Ball

YOU MAY HAVE NOTICED IN YOUR FAVORITE journal that Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson and Lawson Little are playing a four-ball golf exhibition at Belmont on August 28. If so, it may occur to you that these and others of the guild of journeymen professionals lead lives of pampered luxury while travelling the big tournament circuits.

AUSTEN LAKE

At first sight it looks like all play and very little work—the winter tourist centers of the South, Easter at Pinehurst, June along the Atlantic seaboard, autumn in California and nothing to do but waggle a small and facile bludgeon against a small and frisky pellet. A deadly grind my friends.

Yes, it seems a congenial life devoid of worry and money responsibilities. Yet no group of professional athletes struggles harder for the very [illegible] and ruins of existence than this [illegible] of vocational monomaniacs who [illegible] their souls to the last little drop of optimism. [illegible] baseball and hockey players sign contracts [illegible] forming what their rewards per minute [illegible]. The [illegible] And [illegible] expense accounts and a [illegible] of the moon.

Right Results With Wrong Effort

BUT YOUR PRO GOLFER GOES ON TOUR and takes pot luck for pay, meeting his expenses from his winnings, or going broke. He has no drawing account and no stipulated wage except for the few [illegible] whose ability and notability is employed by the golf-tool makers. So, many of the pros who begin each autumn with nothing but a small money stake, a Pullman reservation, a wardrobe trunk and gobs of optimism, are soon reduced to walking the rail ties, sleeping in haymows and playing for lunch and cigarette money.

[illegible] minority like Cooper, Smith, [illegible] Picard, et al, who manage to [illegible] and make some extra profit [illegible] brands of matched and numbered irons [illegible] and which for the best results, [illegible]

[illegible] is [illegible] which include de- [illegible] over [illegible] the best of [illegible] guaranteed to enable [illegible] and still achieve right results. The [illegible] that, when the idea is barely [illegible] with a game is [illegible] any [illegible] but in some fair [illegible] has the new ones. [illegible] and will [illegible] good [illegible]

So, the leading laboratory blacksmiths employ the Coopers, Littles, Smiths and Thomsons to go around breeding unease in the eye of their beholders by the easy perfection of their play and thus spreading the subtle implication that the onlooker can do likewise by merely purchasing an up to date set of mallets.

Hagan Freed the Golf Slaves

THE ORIGINATOR OF THIS IDEA AND hence the emancipator of the pro golfer from his former life of dull drudgery and social inferiority was Walter Hagan, the old wizard who prettied himself in the brightest male fripperies and offered himself as a de luxe edition. Before his time the pro golfer was an ill paid vulgarian who taught the ABC's, lived like a gnome in his repair hut, ate in the kitchen and never presumed on the affairs of his betters.

[illegible] insistence of clubhouse royalty and [illegible] and [illegible] for an [illegible] as to [illegible] a [illegible] of golf [illegible] and began marketing sets of expensive tackle [illegible] was the first attempt by any tool company to

Doctor Takes Ten Stitches in Lip Of Armstrong

LOUS AMBERS—Lightweight boxing champion, assumes a prayerful pose on the canvas in Madison Square Garden ring, last night after being knocked down—or having slipped—take your choice in sixth round of his title defense against double-champion Henry Armstrong. Lou took count of eight before getting up to face Homicidal Hank again. The colorful Italian boxer put up one of the greatest battles of his career even though he lost his lightweight title.

(Other Fight Pictures on Page 35)

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs today opened preliminary negotiations for a return bout between Henry Armstrong, holder of the world welterweight, lightweight and featherweight championships, and Lou Ambers, from whom Armstrong took the lightweight crown in a bitter 15-round battle last night at Madison Square Garden.

Armstrong, however, will be out of action for at least two months. A cut on his upper lip which he received in training was reopened and aggravated by Ambers' blows. The injury was termed one of the worst he'd ever seen by Dr. Alexander Schiff, who had to take more than ten stitches in the wound early this morning.

The triple champion [illegible] ever to hold three titles simultaneously, will leave for his Los Angeles home within the next few days. Both he and Manager Eddie Mead said they would be glad to give Ambers a return bout and agreed that Ambers [illegible] to another shot. They added [illegible] would be ready to [illegible] [illegible] from [illegible] injury.

Of the eight recognized titles [illegible] two others are held by colored men, Joe Louis, heavyweight, and John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion. Sixto Escobar of Puerto Rico is bantamweight champion and Al Hostak of Seattle recently won the middleweight [illegible] so a total of five of the occupied seven championships belong to the colored race.

A number of other fighters have [illegible] but never before has a fighting phenomenon come along to hold three at the same time. A crowd of 18,240 that packed the Garden was yelling from start to finish as Armstrong clubbed the Herkimer man through the fifteen rounds.

Ambers was down for the count of one in the fifth round and eight in the sixth, but Armstrong could

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Aug. 18—Henry Armstrong, the brown skinned fighting fury from Los Angeles, well fought completed the [illegible] tion of the Caucasian race from the pugilistic world championship map in Madison Square Garden by taking the lightweight championship from Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Three Class Champion's Story to Start in Sunday Advertiser, August 21

Little known facts about the greatest sensation in the fistic world, Henry Armstrong, the only [illegible] to ever hold three titles at the same time [illegible] will be revealed in a [illegible] series which starts in the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday and continues in the Boston Evening American.

Henry Armstrong

In a relatively short space of time Armstrong took the featherweight title from Pete Sarron, the welterweight crown from Barney Ross and last night he took the measure of Lou Ambers to annex the lightweight championship.

The story and inside facts on the phenomenal rise of this West Coast fighter is a fascinating "yarn" and well worth reading. Start this series in the Boston Sunday Advertiser on August 21.

More than 18,000 fans were in an uproar at Madison Square Gardens as Lou Ambers tried desperately to halt the sensational Armstrong but there's just no stopping Henry. He went on to win and become ruler of three classes simultaneously to give him a niche in boxing hall of fame.

Budge to Meet Wilmer Allison

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP) - The possibility of an upset in the Newport Casino Tennis tournament appeared remote today as International Champion Don Budge and the seven other quarter finalists prepared to swing into three out-of-five sets action for the first time this week.

Budge, whose previous play indicated he was at his peak despite a layoff since his European tour, was bracketed with Allison. That Austin, Tex., veteran appeared doomed to pass who and permit the titlist to march against the winner of the other upper-half match, between Frank Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, the Atlanta ace who has seeded for the second in succession.

Second seeded Joe Hunt of Los Angeles was matched with the last of the seven former title holders, Vivian Pettit of France, and Wilmer Cooke of Portland, Ore., who made an impressive showing in his previous Eastern grass starts this season, was linked with Stylist Sydney Wood of New York for what promised to be the most exciting of the four singles matches.

Aussies Open Battle For Net Zone Finals

Australia and Germany, sole survivors of an original challenge field of 26 nations, open a three-day inter-zone finals tennis battle at Longwood Cricket Club this afternoon, the winning country to meet the formidable United States team of Donald Budge, Gene Mako and Bobby Riggs in the September Davis Cup final at Philadelphia.

Jack Bromwich, 19-year-old Australian ace, and Heiner Henkel, 22 year-old German, fire the opening charges in their 2 o'clock singles match.

Immediately afterwards the Sheafe Memorial Grandstand courts will be taken over by Adrian Quist, 25-year-old Aussie, and George von Metaxa, 23-old-old Viennese.

The merry warfare continues unabated tomorrow afternoon with the formidable Austrian pair, undefeated over a stretch of two years, meeting the Germans in a doubles match which promises to be one of the outstanding competitions seen in our local environs in years.

The windup is scheduled for Saturday when Bromwich plays von Metaxa and Quist meets Henkel, the team with the most winning points to be declared winner.

"AUSSIES" FAVORED

The talented stars from "Down Under" are favored. They came through handsomely against Japan in the North American Zone finals at Montreal last weekend and with the benefit of several days of Longwood workouts appear fit to follow in the footsteps of Norman Brooks, Tony Wilding and other great Davis Cup predecessors from Australia.

The Germans are a surprise entry, few expecting them to have beaten the well backed Jugoslavs in the European sector finals held at Berlin.

Henkel is no newcomer to Boston. It was he who teamed with the imprisoned Baron Gottfried Von Cramm to beat our Budge and Mako in the national doubles final at Longwood a year ago.

However, Henkel is and has been bothered with a "tennis elbow" which may hamper his best efforts.

But the German is known as a fighter, well equipped with the shots to produce victory over a majority of the world's outstanding players, and more than anxious not only to bring the Davis Cup to Germany, but to avenge a one-sided defeat he suffered at the hands of Bromwich, his today's rival, in a match played in Australia last winter.

Bromwich boasts one of the game's oddest strokings, employing a two-handed grip for almost all of his shotmaking, a peculiarity adopted when as a tiny youngster he needed both hands to hold his racquet.

Quist is the more brilliant of the Aussies, with a well rounded game, and entirely recovered from a bad case of jaundice which hampered his stroke production a year ago.

Whatever the outcome, Boston has been favored in being recipient of a court tidbit, an international rivalry which will serve as a real appetiser for the national doubles which brings all the world's great to Longwood starting next Monday.

Belmont Course Is Ready for Match | Bert Nichols to Greet Pro Stars

By JACK CONWAY

Mr. Boston

HORTON SMITH, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson and Lawson Little can take my word for it that the course at the Belmont Country Club is in excellent condition for their exhibition golf match there on Sunday, August 28.

In the company of Jack Kenney and George Collins, I gave Belmont one of the most severe workouts it has ever received. The fact the 18-hole course is still intact is proof of its durability.

Bert Nichols, club pro, told me everything is in readiness for the clash that will feature Smith, Cooper, Thomson and Little.

"Belmont is a perfect spot for such a match," said Bert. "Our course offers a fine golfing test, while we have ample parking space, and also the facilities to handle the crowd that will wish to follow the match."

Eddie Murphy, greenkeeper who has grown up surrounded by Belmont Country Club traditions, is putting the finishing touches to the greens.

When Smith, Cooper, Thomson and Little try long putts they will find the greens perfect," said Murphy. "If they miss a putt, it will not be as a result of any cut with the greens."

Francis Schenk, chairman of the greens committee at Belmont, [illegible] for the big match a week from Sunday.

Bert Nichols, who has seen most of the famous golf stars in action, says Smith, Cooper, Thomson and Little should furnish one of the most brilliant golf exhibitions ever witnessed in New England.

Thomson's 335-Yard Drives

DURING MY excursion around the Belmont course, I saw several sparkling shots. Thomson will be close to the green with his famous 335-yard drives. If he can get a good approach shot, he can be [illegible] with a [illegible].

On the short holes, Jimmy will probably use a No. 9 iron so that [illegible] will be [illegible] over the green.

There never has been a golfer who can equal Thomson at driving. He gets distance as Ruth does [illegible] with his drives which is unreal.

Babe Ruth has always liked to play golf. Babe gets terrific power behind his drives, and the agate often soars to around the 275 to 300 yard marker. Babe, however, has little idea of just where his ball is going to land.

Little Great Money Player

GRANTLAND RICE told me at The Country Club in Brookline when Lawson Little was competing in the amateur championship that the latter is one of the greatest golfers he has ever seen in action when the chips are down.

"Little is ice under the most severe competition," said Rice. "He seldom makes a mistake, and tries to win as decisively as possible. You cannot expect any favors when you are opposing Little in a game of golf."

Horton Smith and Harry Cooper have been playing brilliantly this year. They are certain to furnish the big gallery with new golfing thrills at Belmont.

The general public is invited to attend this great golf match. There will be a small admission charge of $1 and every cent that is paid for tickets will be turned over to the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser.

The golfers will pay their own expenses. They are as eager to assist the Christmas Basket Fund as they are to furnish a spectacular golf match.

Many Uses For a Golf Club

WHEN AT the Belmont Country Club, I was interested in the many [illegible] of a modern golf club.

As I started for the locker room, I saw a wedding party leasing the dining room. I felt sorry for the men in the party as they had on morning suits. I believe that in the Summer, and it was 93 degrees on this particular day—sports clothes would be much more comfortable.

The ladies of the Belmont [illegible] played golf in the morning, and [illegible] attended a [illegible] on the piazza.

[illegible] was a [illegible] golfing and some visiting folks were [illegible]. They didn't [illegible] it was 93 degrees. Members of the Trade [illegible] were playing golf.

[illegible] members of the Belmont Country Club, and some of the visiting firemen.

Belmont has the facilities to care for a large gathering without any unnecessary crowding.

Everything is so comfortable at Belmont that I can even forget a poor golf score.

I'll be seeing you at Belmont a week from Sunday.

Aged Rookies Great Aid to Sox

Early in the season Manager Joe Cronin realized that the Red Sox chances of remaining in pennant contention hinged [illegible] not they could find another winning pitcher or two.

He put [illegible] all his scouts to [illegible] everything else and concentrate on looking for hurlers.

Harris

Weeks went by and nothing happened.

Always in an [illegible] of the very hurler was the same.

"There's not one available twirler in the bushes who would help a big league club."

The weeks grew into months and still the scouts furnished no mound material.

Finally the Boston brass went into St. Louis early this month and dropped a double header to the last-place Browns.

Cronin hit [illegible] roof. So did Tom Yawkey. They went into a huddle.

The next day the scouts received an ultimatum.

"Send us the names of all available Double A pitchers. Never mind what you think about them. All we want to know is where they are to be found and how much they'll cost."

Several names were submitted.

"But," warned the scouts, "remember we don't recommend any of these. Maybe they'll make good; maybe they won't."

TWO BOUGHT

Disregarding the warning Cronin [illegible] two through deals for the 34 year old Bill Harris of Buffalo and the 33 year old Joe Heving of Minneapolis, the latter incidentally being a hurler he released [illegible] as a free agent in May [illegible] waivers.

So what has happened since?

The Red Sox have won but three of their last nine starts and these ancient newcomers have accounted for two of the trio of victories.

Bill Harris beat the Athletics in Philadelphia [illegible] yesterday. The pair arrived [illegible] to keep the Sox in [illegible] on [illegible] but that they were acquired [illegible] boost the club into second place.

The runner up berth is now but [illegible] away as a result of the Wednesday twin win.

It may be nearer tonight after the fourth and final game with the As, which will see Jim Bagby, knocked out of the box in the first inning of Tuesday's tilt, returning to his home club to oppose Lynn Nelson.

I was on the eighth hole at the Baldwin Country Club Monday [illegible] A snake carried the ball into the rough. The caddy investigated sufficiently to find the ball wrapped round by the snake's body and eight inches buzzing busily.

Minor killed the snake with an iron and played the ball from its original lie.

Martin Upsets Tabor at Salem

Janusas, Adams, Franceim Turn in Wins

By BILL GRIMES

SALEM COUNTRY CLUB, Aug. 18.—Jimmy Martin, Walpole, furnished the biggest upset of the quarterfinals in the 24th Massachusetts junior championship today at the Salem Country Club by eliminating Eddie Tabor, Vesper Hill medalist of the qualifying round, 3 and 4.

Frank Janusas, Wildwood; Bob Adams, South Shore, and Ed Franceim, Bellevue, were the other winners.

Janusas tossed an even four's record at Tim Holcomb, Charles River, and emerged a 5 and 4 winner, but Bob Adams was obliged to go to the 17th green before he was awarded a 2 and 1 verdict over Johnny Kosiowski, Ould Newbury, while Franceim had a close call with Walter Genia, New Bedford, who took him to the home green after being four down going to the 11th.

Playing with three borrowed clubs, Martin was a trifle shaky at the start and dropped the first hole to Tabor by taking an extra putt, but he settled down and took the third, fourth and fifth holes with par golf. Over that stretch Tabor was trapped at the third, hooked his tee shot at the fourth and sliced off the fifth tee and was unable to make up for any of his errors.

A hooked drive cost Martin the seventh hole and just when it looked as though he was going to get that one back, Tabor chipped in for a twelve at the long eighth.

JUNIOR Ggolf

QUARTER FINAL

James P. Martin, Walpole, defeated Edward C. Tabor, Jr., Vesper, 3 and 4.

Robert Janusas, Wildwood, defeated T. C. Holcomb, Charles River, 5 and 4.

Robert Adams, South Shore, defeated John Kosiowski, Ould Newbury, 2 and 1.

Edward Franceim, Bellevue, defeated Walter Genia, New Bedford, 4 and 3.

SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Arthur Tarlew, Thorny Lea, defeated J. Parker Hathaway, Essex County, 3 and 2.

Francis Wheeler, Essex County, defeated Preston Perkins, Brae Burn, 3 and 2.

Edward Fay, Ivy Hill, defeated Warren Adamski, Worcester, 3 and 1.

Wesleyan Squad Ordered Out Sept. 7

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 18 (INS).—Coach Jack Bliott, Wesleyan football mentor who is recovering from an appendectomy, today invited more than 40 football candidates to return for the first practice session on Sept. 17.

Wesleyan opens its season with Coast Guard Academy at Middletown Sept. 24.

BEES BUY EX-YANKEES

Within the past ten days, Pres. Bob Quinn of the Bees has purchased Eddie Miller and Jim Hitchcock, two outstanding minor league infielders . . . By a strange coincidence (or is it?) Miller and Hitchcock were at one time the property of the New York Yankees . . . And, they set the Bees back a pretty penny not to mention five ball players . . . Hitchcock will report to Manager Casey Stengel next Monday in Pittsburgh . . . Bob Adams, South Shore, ended Johnny McNiff's reign as state junior champion . . . From now until the finish, the battle for McNiff's crown will be between contenders for the 1933 Hearst N. E. Junior championship . . . Bob Knowles well known golfer, saw his first professional baseball game yesterday afternoon . . . While Wes Palmer, the royal rooter from Rochester, N. H. who goes to Sarasota with the Red Sox each spring has not seen the Croninites lose this season . . . Oh, yes, Wes was at Fenway Park yesterday . . . Now that Randy Sides has taken the bull by the horns, something may be done about the absurd rule which calls for the disqualification of players who post the wrong score in golf championships . . . About the only experienced pitcher that the major league clubs have not considered signing is Curt Fullerton, the pride of East Boston . . . Jack Doyle, the New York betting commissioner, and Tom Hayes, Peabody, will play a return match against Mayor Walter Griffin and Jim Dineen, Lawrence, Friday afternoon at the Salem Country Club . . . Hinsmer and Dineen blew wide open at Rye last Monday and Doyle and Hayes won the first match by a margin of eight points . . . Jack said it was pitiful to see the Lawrence representative back around in the first match . . . And, he hinted rather strongly that the "pressure" got them . . . When Black Mike Cochrane was fired, it was announced that Walter O. Briggs, Sr. had paid him off in full for the balance of the season . . . But, no mention was made of the fact that Mickey waived on his 1933 salary . . . Due to the fact that his contract ran through next season, Cochrane had the Detroit club in the barrel but let it out . . . And, Cochrane had the Detroit club in the barrel but let it out . . . Armstrong Punch A Myth--Ambers

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (INS)—Well, here we are once more in the dressing rooms after the fight. Lou Ambers first. Here he comes now—the sorest lightweight who ever lost a title.

There's a cut on his upper left eyelid, the only memento of a 15-round battle.

"I beat him," says Lou, over and over. "Hurt me? Hell, no. Armstrong's not half the puncher they say he is.

"Look at the way I cut him up. I'd like to fight him again next week, but you can bet he won't be ready to fight anybody for three months.

"Yeh, he hit me lots of low punches. But that's all right. I'm not kicking on that. What I want to know is: What has a guy got to do to win a fight in this town?"

He turned savagely at the [illegible] on his hands.

"Say," he suddenly burst forth again, "that guy can't begin to punch with Tony Canzoneri, or Jimmy McLarnin or even Pedro Montanez. Those fellows really hurt me, but Armstrong never hurt me once, even when he he knocked me down. I knew what I was doing every second."

A surprising rant awaits us in the other dressing room where we find the newly crowned lightweight champion the first man to hail Lou as "champ for a day."

Can this be the human dynamo we heard so much about?

ARMSTRONG ALL IN

The comical thing to peipe-[illegible] the ring has ever seen.

Sure enough it's Henry the [illegible] but what a strange appearance he presents.

Deep dark over one eye (left) [illegible] the other nose mashed flat and lips so badly swollen and cracked it's hard to understand what he says.

Finally ten minutes after he left the ring he is able to mumble:

"I knew he'd be tough, much tougher than Barney Ross and (with surprised admiration) believe me, he punches a lot harder than people think.

"No he never had me in distress at any time, but I think I was a little stale tonight and I need a long rest.

"That was about as hard a fight as I ever had."

Would Henry be willing to fight Lou again?

"Oh sure, any time after I get a good rest."

ADMIRES AMBERS

He rubbed his torso [illegible] and I grinned.

"Say, don't let anybody tell you Lou can't punch. Love taps didn't do this, and he pointed ruefully to his battered face."

Henry said he wasn't prepared to give up his featherweight crown but thought he might be able to make the weight again if a suitable opponent could be found.

Henry would begin to dress [illegible] we left him a white [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] like a ghost.

Joe Cronin All-America Shortstop

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 18 "Jumping" Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox playing manager, has played his way right into the hearts of baseball fans' tabulations of the shortstop voting in the All American Baseball Popularity Poll show.

The Hayesville leader of the Sam Yawkey-owned team is virtually running away in the race for shortstop honors in the poll, and unless something unforeseen happens his name will be placed on the roster of the mythical team, which already lists Lou Gehrig at first base, Charley Gehringer at the keystone position and Mel Ott at the right field post.

Cronin's popularity polled a tremendous vote early tabulation revealed today. He is leading Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh Pirates, with Dick Bartell, New York Giants shortstop and Frank Crosetti of the Yankees running third and fourth in that order.

Vaughan, although trailing Cronin by a large number of votes, is conceded an outside chance to catch the high flying Irish Boston skipper. Arky is well liked by fans around the junior circuit and the Pittsburgh "hot-off-it" appeal may bring enough votes to turn the trick.

Doherty Hits 'Isms' Grip on Youth

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

WORCESTER, Aug. 18—Subversive influences are concentrating upon the youth of America, Daniel J. Doherty, national commander of the American Legion, told the Legion's twentieth annual Massachusetts state convention here today.

Doherty urged a state-wide and nation-wide "Youth Americanization program. He praised the work on the Dies congressional investigating committee especially its revelations concerning Communism and communist-influenced activities in America, and asserted:

"The work of the committee is of real good and great benefit will be derived from it such an investigation should have been conducted earlier."

PRAISES HEARST PAPERS

State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley addressing the convention praised the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser for the series of articles by Captain Alvin Hagen [illegible] Communism in Spain. Buckley declared, "to the Dies committee's investigation of Communism in Boston.

Also praised was the [illegible] State legislative investigation of Communism and other 'isms in Massachusetts.

Susan T. Ester, president of the American Legion auxiliary in Massachusetts, denounced "Harvard professors" and other groups that have opposed the teachers' oath. She turned such opposition from these sources 'a shock and a disgrace.'

Lynn Bride, 15, Bans Armistice

Armistice terms have been offered in the battle over the elopement of 16-year-old Louis Haskell, Jr., and the former Virginia Jones, 15, both of Lynn, it was revealed today by the bride—but she and her mother have recommended the terms be rejected.

The terms have been held out by the parents of the bridegroom said Virginia, who eloped to New Hampshire less than three weeks ago with Louis to be married by a justice of the peace.

Since the marriage was revealed, the parents of young Haskell, whose home is in Massachuetts avenue, Lynn, have been attempting to void the marriage while parents of the girl have insisted it stand "for the honor of Virginia."

OFFER 2-YEAR DELAY

Counsel for the Jones family declared yesterday that no court would entertain an annulment petition unless the principals agreed.

And now, according to Virginia,

Gee, Chicago Is Modern

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (INS)—It became legal in Chicago today for a girl to appear on the bathing beach sans bloomers.

The 1895 law, passed while the citizens were still blushing at the recollection of Little Egypt in the World's Fair of '93, finally has been repealed.

The City Council also kicked out the one that forbade more than eight cows on a bridge at one time.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 18 (INS)—President Roosevelt, standing on Canadian ground, announced to the world today that the United States:

"Will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

In cap and gown as he received an honorary degree from Queen's College, President Roosevelt emphasized what some observers interpreted as a further extension of the Monroe doctrine and an inferential notice that the United States and the British empire might again be considered allies in any widespread outbreak of hostility.

A crowded stadium gave enthusiastic support as Mr. Roosevelt evaluated American-Canadian relations and touched unmistakably on American resentment of wars, undeclared and otherwise.

UPHOLDS FREE SPEECH

While Canadian Premier MacKenzie King stood by, the President said:

"We as good neighbors are true friends because we maintain

BANDIT DIES! HUNT HOLDUP 'FINGER MAN'

James E. Sullivan, 29, of Penhallow street, Dorchester, ended his career of banditry at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton today when he died a victim of police gunfire following the armed robbery of a department store payroll truck in Cambridge that netted $5566, quickly recovered.

Sullivan's end came at 7:53 this morning after doctors had worked all night to save his life, twice resorting to transfusions.

Sullivan and Harold Ananian 27, of Mt Pleasant street, Roxbury, another bandit and Patrolman Sidney Lane were all shot during the five-minute running gun fight between the bandits and police that began at Cassel street, Cambridge, and wound up in Elmira street, Brighton.

PICK RIGHT TRUCK

Police said today they were looking for a third man in connection with the holdup, a "finger man" he was. Their aim: A department store truck and every cake within sight of it was safe, but the bandits unerringly picked out the money truck.

Hurley Tells Legion Of 'Insulting Talk'

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

WORCESTER, Aug. 19—Two hundred legionnaires were sworn in as special police and appeared on Worcester streets wearing arm bands today to guard against a repetition of last night's "bombings" at the state American Legion convention here.

Speakers at the convention today included Governor Hurley, Mayor Tobin and James G. Reardon, state commissioner of education.

"One of the most insulting and vicious statements which ever has been uttered by a man in public office

Referred to was Representative Bigelow's purported statement at a hearing on proposed new building at the Charles Street Jail

"If they keep on the way they are going, the veterans will ruin the country

"INSULTING STATEMENT"

Governor Hurley, facing the assembled legionnaires

"To you members of the American Legion I can only say that this statement against the defenders of our country stands as one of the most insulting and vicious statements which has ever been uttered by a man in public office.

"What incentive can there be to our young men today to defend their country when they see such unrelied for and slanderous remarks against those who in the Spanish-American War and in the World War left their homes, their loved ones, their jobs, everything that was precious to them, and took up arms against their country's foes."

"The irony of the situation is that these individuals who today slur the veterans would be the first ones, if another war arose, to wave the flag and assure us of their eternal gratitude."

Alimony: $25 a Week

Mrs. Mozellecita Stapp Van Wyck, ex-mate of Prescott Van Wyck, eccentric rich New York sculptor, who has been awarded $25 weekly alimony in court decision which legally ruled Van Wyck insane. She had asked for $300 a week and counsel fees. She charged former husband was pretending insanity.

Rich Bostonian In Van Wyck Case

A "mystery millionaire" from Boston today was injected into the tangled marital affairs of Mozellecita Stapp Van Wyck, one-time Indian Ziegfeld girl, and her erratic husband, Prescott Van Wyck, wealthy New York playboy.

Unnamed, the Boston scion of wealth slipped into testimony of the turbulent Van Wyck affairs just before a sheriff's jury sitting in New York's Hall of Records adjudged Van Wyck insane and no longer capable of managing his affairs.

Such a verdict had been sought by his mother, Mrs. Florence Van Wyck of Butler, N. J., and bitterly fought by Mozellecita, who thinks she is better fitted to govern her husband.

Reading from an old affidavit Mozellecita made when once she attempted to have him adjudged insane, counsel for the mother asked if Van Wyck had not attempted to talk her out of their marriage because she had a better chance with a Boston millionaire.

"That's right," the Indian showgirl acknowledged.

"Did you have a chance with a Boston millionaire?" she was asked.

"Yes, I did," she answered.

A maid told the jury about the well known incident when Van Wyck thrust a sword through Mozellecita's bathroom door when they lived at Central Park South. Mozellecita could see nothing unusual in that behavior, she Must Madge Pay and Pay?

MADGE EVANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The question whether the removal of Madge Evans' tonsils was a business or a professional matter came before the board of tax appeals today.

The screen actress contended that the tonsillectomy she underwent in 1934 was for the purpose of improving her voice and therefore constituted a business expense for which she was entitled to a deduction of $469.58 from her taxable income.

Government attorneys took a different view. They said the internal revenue bureau had recognized that an actress' stock in trade was chiefly her "feminine charm and beauty" and had allowed Miss Evans $583.55 in deductions for wigs and makeup and $402 for her maid.

Love-Crazed Slayer Surrenders

Spurned Suitor Kills and Tells

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (INS)—A love-crazed suitor shot a 25-year-old secretary to death today after she told him their romance was over, then calmly confessed his crime to a Catholic priest who persuaded him to surrender to police.

The dead girl, Marie Joyce, was found lying in front of her apartment door. A bullet from a sawed-off big-game hunting rifle had been fired through the back of her head.

[illegible] York Municipal Airport.

"She told me she didn't want to see me any more. I couldn't go on without her," Bellinger, without emotion, told police. "I took the gun out of a brief case and fired when she turned around to go into her apartment."

NIGHT OF GAIETY

Through a gay night at [illegible] and dancing [illegible] the death rifle which he had sawed down to almost shotgun size in a brief case, Bellinger paraded with the girl to resume their love affair, which to him had reached the stage where they had been ready to announce their engagement.

His pleas [illegible] her, Bellinger said. After visiting several bars he took her home. Bellinger [illegible] and left.

"No, I don't think we had better see each other any more," he quoted the Joyce girl as saying in farewell.

She turned to unlock her door and Bellinger [illegible] Then fired, died instantly.

AWAKENS PRIEST

After the shooting Bellinger took a cab to his apartment where he meditated on his deed for a few minutes. Then he went out in the hall and went down the street where he hammered on the door of the rectory of the Roman Catholic church of St. John the Evangelist.

It was then about 2 a. m. Bellinger pounding awakened Rev. Joseph Sheehan.

"I've just killed a girl, Father," said Bellinger, his voice quite steady.

The priest took it more [illegible] calm. Quickly Bellinger gave him a resume of the shooting.

"I think you had better hand yourself over to police," Father Sheehan advised.

"I'll go if you go along," Bellinger told him.

Together the priest and Bellinger walked to a nearby police station.

"I want to see a detective," Bellinger told the desk lieutenant. "I've just murdered my sweetheart."

SHOWS NO EMOTION

Detectives took Bellinger back to the scene of the shooting. The body of the Joyce girl was lying outside the door of her second floor apartment. Bellinger viewed it without emotion, even when a detective bent down to take the key from the dead girl's hand.

On the way back to the station-house Detective George Collins, in the back seat of a squad car with Bellinger, saw him bend down and fumble with his shoe. Collins grabbed his right hand and a razor blade fell to the floor of the car.

"What do you want to do, kill yourself?" Collins asked.

"I deserve to die for this," Bellinger replied. "I want to go to the electric chair."

Baby Doomed To Life of Sleep

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 19 (AP)—Little Maxine Yarrington, eyes wide open but unseeing, slept on today as she has for more than 1000 days and nights, her condition neither better nor worse, but her case hopeless.

Physicians at last have said they believe the five-year-old victim of encephalitis lethargica, sleeping sickness, cannot recover. But refusing to give up hope Maxine's mother visits her each week, although she never finds the signs of improvement that eager mother love knows are wrong.

Nazis Get Czech Plums

PRAHA, Aug. 19 (AP)—Premier Milan Hodza today disclosed that the Czechoslovak government would give choice political plums in an attempt to pacify its Nazi-backed autonomy-seeking Sudeten German minority.

The Premier made the disclosure in a conference with Viscount Runciman, British mediator in the minority issue.

Runciman's conference with Hodza followed his meeting with Konrad Henlein, leader of the 3,500,000 Sudetens.

Seven postmasterships and other positions in larger communities are to be given the Sudeten Germans.

Franco, Japan Final Drives On

Spanish Insurgents took preliminary action today for what was expected to be a general offensive to end the civil war, while Japan, at war with China and facing a hostile Soviet Russia, prepared to add 1,000,000 men to her armed forces.

Generalissimo Franco's air raiders bombed Barcelona three times. His aides closed the French frontier the customary omen of an Insurgent offensive and declared that Franco personally would direct the campaign.

The British government informed Germany it took a serious view of the unexplained arrest of Captain Thomas Kendrick, British passport officer in Vienna.

BRITON ARRESTED

Captain Kendrick was arrested by German secret police at the German-Swiss border yesterday as he and his wife were about to leave Germany on a vacation.

These developments overshadowed promises of appeasement both in Spain and Czechoslovakia.

Premier Juan Negrin of the Spanish government was in Zurich, Switzerland, nominally as a delegate to the International Congress of Pharmacists.

The reported presence there at the same time of the Loyalist Alba, Spanish Insurgent representative in London caused speculation that Negrin and Alba might meet secretly.

A spokesman of the Spanish Consulate in Zurich said Negrin was not present at the [illegible]

HUGE JAP DRIVE DUE

A new order by the Japanese war office instructed all males in the recruits' division, men between the ages of 20 and 24 who have had no active training, to stand by.

It was believed this indicated that Japan intended to throw vast reinforcements into a drive aimed at crushing China.

At the same time it was learned Russian and Japanese conferees had failed to agree on completion of a commission to fix the Siberian - Manchukuoan - Outer Mongolian border, it disclosed [illegible] did.

8-State Police Alarm Duped in Cupid Race

NEW YORK, Aug 19 (INS)—It required an emergency message on the police eight-state teletype system, tying up a state patrol officer and [illegible] police relayed the message at emergency speed to the Bay Shore station of the state patrol. A trooper delivered the message to Miss O'Brien. When he reported back the state patrol office wired two officers.

"Investigation here revealed that message was not of emergency nature, merely because boy friend at John 4-1888 did not receive a letter from her today."

There were [illegible] asking Capt. [illegible] what a [illegible] was at stake.

N. Haven Loses Rum Permit Tilt

Over protest of New Haven Railroad officials who said the [illegible] opportunity for [illegible] drinking would lessen efficiency of railroad employes, Boston licensing board today granted a South Boston restaurant proprietor a temporary beer and ale selling permit.

The licensee, Mathew D. Spinale, obtained a similar permit a year ago for his place in Fargo street, near the New Haven railroad shops and the Boston Market terminal.

That permit was revoked by the State Alcoholic Beverages Commission 24 hours after it was granted. Railroad representatives indicated today they would appeal again to the state commission.

Burglars Raid Lynn Church

When the Reverend Eldridge Welch, assistant rector, went to St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, South Common street, Lynn, today to prepare for a funeral he found that burglars had entered the church and that vestments and sacred vessels had been stolen.

Among the objects missing are two gold chalices, one silver chalice, two gold patens, and a silver cyboreum.

The vessels were kept in an old-fashioned safe locked with a key which, in turn, was kept in a secret drawer in the rector's desk. Police found the key in its usual hiding place.

onds too sorry that I bring such grief to them."

State's Attorney Floyd Sperry introduced the confession. Rev. Mr. Jansson made a short time before and the defendant said he had nothing to add to it.

HIS CONFESSION

In the statement he was quoted as saying:

"Alma threatened to tell my wife about her condition. The thing had been bothering me for some time. It seemed to me the best thing to do was to get rid of her.

"My wife went to Bismarck for a few days on Monday and that night I gave Alma some wine. I'd put some poison crystals in it.

"But after she died I couldn't decide what to do with the body. I figured that if the house burned and she were found in it, people would think she had just been killed accidentally."

Sperry and Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Austin Gossett [illegible] Jansson [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] Sperry said the minister [illegible] connection with the fire and the burned body in the ruins.

Thursday evening the parents of the murdered girl confronted Rev. Mr. Jansson and pleaded that he tell the truth. The confession followed. Feeling ran so high in the community that trial was ordered immediately.

Suspicion was first directed toward the minister when the state's attorney, when he attempted to explain the [illegible] by saying it had been caused by sparks from the chimney. The recent hot weather made [illegible] dry, and that a fire had been [illegible] in the furnace.

Miss Ivy Jansson was one of ten children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Kjerkerbaig, farmers near Knox. She had been employed at the parsonage since last January.

WPA Theater Seen Red Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Dies committee during its probe of unamerican activities today summoned New York theatrical workers to testify about a charge of Rep. Thomas (R.) New Jersey, trat the WPA's Federal Theater Project is a "hotbed of Communism."

Mrs. Hazel Huffman, speaking for a committee of theatrical workers on relief, told the committee that WPA's Federal Theater project was being used to spread Communist propaganda in New York.

"ALLIANCE DOMINATES"

She said the Workers' Alliance, which she described as closely allied with the Communist party, now dominates" theater project.

She said Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, director of the project, participated actively in Communist activities and charged that her interest in things Communistic was being used in the Federal Theater Project to the detriment of the work it had in violation of the act of Congress."

Clad in a sombre black dress relieved only by a small white collar and a red pocket handkerchief, the witness read excerpts from plays and add essays by Mrs. Flanagan to support her contention that the project had a Communist background.

Quoting Mrs. Flanagan as saying that the theater could make "things happen," and provide the "yeast" which "makes the bread rise," Mrs. Huffman said that while not all the project plays were of the "bread rising type, "propaganda plays have been the rule."

NAMES PLAYS

Among the plays Mrs. Huffman named in this category were "Can You Hear Their Voices," written by Mrs. Flanagan and one of her students at Vassar College, "Ethiopia" which was not produced because of international complications, "Triple a Plowshed Under," Class of '23," "One Third of the Nation," and others.

Representative Starnes asked if Mrs. Flanagan was "taking government money to make a little yeast that was the idea."

"I would say so," Mrs. Huffman answered.

Early in her testimony Mrs. Huffman told the committee Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, had "lauded" the Workers Alliance because he said he felt it filled a "real need" of the unemployed.

Mrs. Huffman told how one musicale, "Sing for Your Supper," had been in rehearsal 11 months and now is scheduled for presentation in October.

Bostonians Tell Of Red Salute By Congressmen

[illegible] Representative Mason (D. of Ill.), a committee member, told newsmen he heard the two witnesses' testimony was the best and most against Communists in activities the committee had heard.

ASKED FOR MARINES

Mosier asked the witnesses whether they took up O'Connell and Bernard on their offer of assistance.

"Oh! yes," replied Halpern, with a laugh, "we asked for about 5000 marines for over there."

Halpern and Sobel also were questioned by Starnes regarding their testimony yesterday that between 1600 and 1700 Americans were virtually prisoners in Spain.

Sobel answering one of the questions said the American fighters were being held by American Communists in Spain. Later, he told newsmen the Americans who kept their fellow citizens from returning to the United States belonged to the Dept (Soviet secret police) which, he said was made up of persons of many nationalities.

ROBERT MINOR THERE

Halpern added that Robert Minor, old-time American Communist, was in Spain in charge of Communists controlling American soldiers fighting there.

"Is it a fact that members of the Communist Party are contributing factors in the American League for Peace and Democracy and its predecessors, the American League against War and Fascism?" Starnes asked.

"Yes, sir," Halpern answered.

"And they take up money for the Spanish Loyalist cause?"

ACTIVITY IN WEST

Miss Margaret [illegible] of the Better America Federation of California [illegible] the witness stand said that in Los Angeles she had seen the same persons at meetings of the American League for Peace and Democracy and the Communist party.

Representative Mason [illegible] if Lewis who has been attempting to [illegible] the league as a Communist front, said:

"Evidence on file with this committee contains proof—acceptable in any court—that the league was organized by leading Communists in the first place, is controlled by known leading Communists today. * * * Denials that it's a front for the Communist party can't do away with the testimony that's been presented here."

CITES EDITORS TALK

Mason on Wednesday named eight government officials he said were league members.

Miss Kerr [illegible] of a meeting Communist members in Los Angeles [illegible] Harry Bridges, president of the Pacific Coast Longshoremen's union, addressed the organization of the Soviet and United States Constitutions [illegible] the advantages of the Soviet form of the United States.

"He said that the Soviet constitution not only guaranteed religious freedom but anti-religious freedom, which drew the applause of the evening," Miss Kerr declared.

It's Necessary in Parachute Jump

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 19—(AP)—If you want to try parachute jumping, be sure you have a parachute.

That was the advice Albert Brewer, 8, was giving friends today.

Albert climbed to the roof of a barn, 20 feet from the ground.

Then, grasping an imaginary parachute, Albert jumped. On the way down a ring on the index finger of his right hand caught on a nail.

The nail broke Albert's fall. The ring had to be sawed from the finger to permit treatment of a cut.

Radway's Funeral Tomorrow

Funeral arrangements were completed today for G. Frank Radway, for more than 30 years a Boston Evening American photographer.

Mr. Radway died at his home, 23 Fairmont street, Back Bay, Wednesday after a two-month illness. He was to have left on a Mediterranean cruise the day he became ill.

The Rev. James M. Tucker of Trinity Church will officiate. Interment will be in Forest Hills Cemetery.

He was born in Swampscott, June 21, 1880, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bessie M. Radway. Full details are Frank McInnis of the Boston Evening American, Bruce McLean of the Boston Daily Record, Arthur Wentworth of the Boston Globe, William Meikle of the Boston Herald, Anthony Cabral of the Boston Traveler, Maurice Fineberg of the Boston Post, Fred Huntington of the Boston Post and Lou Seals of Universal Newsreel.

MRS. ANNIE CROWLEY

SALEM, Aug. 19—Services will be held Saturday for Mrs. Annie M. Crowley, who died at her home, 72 Lafayette street, after a brief illness. The funeral will be held from the home forward to a requiem high mass at St. James Church.

Mother of Joseph E. Crowley, a member of the Boston Traveler editorial staff, she was born in Salem and for many years had been active in charitable business.

Two other sons, Raymond P. and Charles A. Crowley of Salem also survive.

MRS. MARY BRANDON

Mrs. Mary Frances Brandon, mother of Edmund J. Brandon, well known Boston attorney, was buried today after a solemn requiem mass at Our Lady of Mercy Church, Dorchester.

Mrs. Brandon died at her home, 71 Gardner road, Dorchester, after a brief illness.

She is survived by her son, Edmund, and a daughter, Margaret.

Never 'Sold' Favors Says F. D. R.'s Jim

James Roosevelt never sold "political insurance," even when Boston friends offered to buy it through him, he told Walter Davenport of Collier's Weekly. The second of two articles in the magazine traveled today.

Branding as false and unsubstantiated recently published stories implying he was guilty of unethical business practices, young Roosevelt said, in part:

"I am not in the political insurance busines.

"I have never written a surety bond, a contractor's bond, fire insurance or any other kind of insurance which might by any stretch of imagination be called political insurance.

"It's been offered to me. I refused to place bonds for the late Joseph A. Maynard, Collector of the Port of Boston.

"I refused to accept such business from Joseph McGrath, the present collector of Boston, from Peter F. Tague, postmaster at Boston, and many others.

"These gentlemen wanted nothing of me. They offered me the business out of pure friendship. But you see I couldn't take it."

James Roosevelt denied flatly that he ever asked his father, the President, to be "nice" to George W. Hill, American Tobacco Company head, to whom he sold a $1,500,000 life insurance policy.

"I'm not fool enough to try to laugh this situation off," young Roosevelt said.

"These [illegible] whispers, ambiguities. I'm not permitting occasional successes to make me forget what underhandedness, political connivance and so on might do to my father."

The copper alloy capsule will contain books and statements describing today's achievements. The capsule will be filled with inert gas as a preservative.

Death Takes Heath Year After McIntyre

SETAUKET, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—The [illegible] death of McIntyre and Heath, who were [illegible] years, occurred [illegible] with the [illegible] Hall [illegible]

[illegible] and a half centuries ago [illegible] at mother's today.

Thomas K. Heath, 85-year-old survivor of the team, died of a heart attack at his Long Island home last night just a year after the passing of his partner, Jim McIntyre.

Heath never knew that his teammate to 60 years of troupers had died before him. He was stricken with pneumonia when McIntyre died in Connecticut and, through the last year of mid-June, he was kept from him.

The McIntyre and Heath careers spanned across the years from 1874 to 1934. They formed the partnership while trooping in Texas and got on their first performances at nearly [illegible], passing the hat for their pay.

They played in Chicago, London and New York and traveled with Sells Brothers circus before leaping to success with their "coon buck" dance at the famous Tony Pastor Broadway Theater in New York in 1880.

Then came years with Barnum and Bailey's circus.

O'Connor Spurs War on Purge

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (INS)—Representative John J. O'Connor, chairman of the House rules committee, today launched a nation-wide campaign against President Roosevelt's attempt to obtain election of "yes men" to Congress.

[illegible] the President's plan [illegible] who have lined up the New Deal as an issue in the primaries, O'Connor declared the purge would fail.

O'Connor, who was placed on the purge list by the President for his opposition to the administration-sponsored reorganization bill at the last session of Congress, launched his campaign in a nation-wide broadcast last night over the Columbia Broadcasting network.

"What the American people [illegible] seriously concerned about at this very moment is this demand of the President for only yes men in our Parliament," O'Connor said.

"If we are to revert to one-man government, the people should be made conscious of the issue at once.

Describing President Roosevelt's purge program as a "challenge to representative government," O'Connor continued:

"The repetitious disavowal of any desire to become a dictator cannot be taken at full faith when actions evidence to the contrary."

Monroe Link In Speech Denied By Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt today denied that an extension of the Monroe Doctrine was involved in his address at Kingston, Ont., last week.

The President arrived here this morning for an indefinite stay.

Talking with reporters from his open car at the Hyde Park station the Chief Executive appeared rested and happy after his strenuous trip through Ontario yesterday.

In his Kingston speech, the President asserted that Americans would not stand idly by if domination of Canada were threatened by a foreign aggressor.

Newsmen informed Mr. Roosevelt of reports that the State Department at Washington disagreed on the speech as an extension of the Monroe Doctrine.

The chief executive suggested that his questioners read the original language of the Monroe Doctrine.

Questioned regarding an address in Leominster by John J. O'Connor last night, Mr. Roosevelt said a news dispatch over the headlines of Mr. O'Connor whom the President criticized sharply in a state-wide speech this week asserted that Mr. Roosevelt's contention, in part, [illegible] was correct to a degree.

Curley in New Blast at Hurley

Governor Hurley today was charged with being untrue both to the unemployed and the veterans by former Governor James M. Curley, who addressed more than 1000 persons at a rally in Dorchester High School for Girls.

The former governor and his wife were wildly applauded when he walked into the school to the music of the William L. Haas Post American Legion band.

Curley charged that the governor had tightened the strings of the treasury without thought of human misery. He said:

"You waited until the closing hours of your administration when, forced by fear of impending defeat, you sought funds, not for the unemployed, but for the re-election of a public official who has demonstrated lack of capacity, lack of ability, lack of the milk of human kindness to such a degree as to justify the defeat that will be administered you in the September primary."

Curley also declared that the present Governor had betrayed [illegible] the veterans and the welfare of Massachusetts in connection with the Unemployment Compensation Commission. He said:

"I well appreciate your timidity if you attend the American Legion convention in Worcester—fear, born of a realization that you have been false to the youth of the state as well as to the veterans. You filled 1200 positions in the Unemployment Compensation Commission with incompetent cheer leaders who, in a most undignified way, vociferously acclaimed you as their choice in the Democratic convention of 1936.

"Forty thousand men and women, at great expense of time and money, have sought to qualify for appointment to these positions. Among them are disabled veterans; men who gave faithful and devoted service in honor of the country whose uniforms they wore; others with families dependent upon them for sustenance."

Sen. George Aide Bounced

ATLANTA, Aug. 19 (AP)—The request [illegible] resignation of a campaign aide [illegible] of the Senator Walter F. George forces from his government job [illegible] focused political attention for the second time within a week on Georgia's hard fought senatorial primary campaign.

Elgin B. Dunlap, active supporter of George and Georgia attorney for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced yesterday he had resigned his RFC post at the request of Claude F. Hamilton, Jr., RFC general counsel at Washington.

The announcement came exactly one week after President Roosevelt, [illegible] at Executive Gallagher, defeat of Senator George [illegible] opposition to some administration measures and advocated the [illegible] of Federal Judge Lawrence S. Camp.

Dunlap, who said the telegraphic request for his resignation [illegible] was received by his associates [illegible] George" added that he would continue to work for the re-election of the senior Georgia senator.

Roosevelt Fund Data Demanded

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (INS)—Representative Rich (R-Wolverine) of Michigan said today if the White House does not open its records on the "sinful public purpose under government direction" which President Roosevelt professes to omit from the profits from the speculative writings I propose [illegible] to call attention to this matter.

Lamenting that he requested such information from the White House on June Woodruff [illegible] marked:

"It is a shame that the White House must play politics with everything it touches, no matter how noble."

The Presidential writings to which Woodruff referred were the prefaces to Mr. Roosevelt's Public Papers and Addresses.

Boston Registers 8003 New Voters

Total of new voters registered in Boston since July 1 was 8003 today with 481 names added yesterday.

One hundred of the 250 were women. The large proportion were from Democratic wards, where supporters of Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly's gubernatorial campaign have been conducting a registration drive.

Yesterday was the last day for [illegible] registration office in city hall annex bringing the total [illegible] up to 31,621 with [illegible] days to go.

Sen. Tydings To Blast Deal

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 19 (AP)—A major development in Maryland politics fought senatorial campaign was marked today, with Sen. Millard E. Tydings announcing for Sunday a radio address.

It was believed Tydings planned a reply to the President's endorsement of an editorial which said Tydings was trying to run for re-election "with Roosevelt prestige and his conservative Republican friends [illegible] on his side."

The President's action brought squarely into the open the New Deal fight on Tydings, against whom Rep. David J. Lewis, an ardent New Dealer, is running. Tydings said here last night:

"Do you want your senator to be a Charlie McCarthy, to be a rubber stamp or a coward or do you want him to be a man, to stand up and fight for what is right?"

PWA Okays 3 State Projects

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Public Works Administration through its New York regional office, today announced approval of three Massachusetts projects.

They are:

President To See New 'Heaven'

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt is going out on his front lawn and take a good look at Father Divine's new "heaven" across the Hudson.

Asked what he thought about the Negro religious resort, Mr. Roosevelt replied he would take a look.

"Heaven" was sold to Father Divine in July by Raymond Spencer, opponent of Roosevelt policies.

O'Daniel Will Rule Texas Without Strings

By JEFF DAVIS

GALVESTON, Aug. 19—Wilbert Lee O'Daniel has in the course of two brief months been transformed from a successful flour miller, utterly without political background or guile, into the Democratic nominee (tantamount to election) for governor of Texas.

He was cyclone into office on a popular vote which entailed no machine set-ups, or swaps, and no deals. It is probably the first time in history a businessman has attained such a high office without political obligations.

What [illegible]

"In the first place," he says, "I figure the business like thing to do is to LEARN THE BUSINESS, of being governor.

"It's a new job, and I'm going to learn all I can learn about it. That's the way I'd go about taking over any other job. I don't have to worry about politics, the people of Texas took care of that for me.

"What I want to know now is how to run the governor's office and to do as much as I possibly can do to make the state A GOING CONCERN in all its phases. And by the state of Texas, I also mean the people of Texas.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

"For instance, there is the question of old age pensions. I favor payment of $30 per month to every man and woman in Texas over the age of 65, and I believe this can be done.

"I don't know how I'll go about it. I'm gathering all the possible information on the subject."

W. L. O'DANIEL

[illegible]

"I am going to call on the leading businessmen and women of Texas to help me. I take office in January and I expect to have this group at Austin to advise me within the first few weeks of my administration.

[illegible]

"I expect to meet with that group within just a few weeks of the time I take office, and I will urge them to make any and all suggestions possible for the improvement of the state and its government.

"I will then take them to the Legislature for action."

LACK OF DEMAND

[illegible]

"After all, if every citizen asked for Texas products it would create new factories and new jobs and new payrolls. I will make an appeal to all citizens to encourage home industry as much as is possible."

[illegible]

"This state should have 10 times more [illegible] than it has. We have great wealth of minerals, leather and agricultural products and natural resources. Outside capital will be welcomed, but I believe we [illegible] money in Texas.

Hunt 'Finger Man' As Bandit Dies

Leahy of Cambridge later aiding with Boston against his own men

Ananian was arraigned in Brighton.

He was held in a total of $54,000 bail after pleading not guilty to five charges assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to murder, stealing the laundry truck, illegally carrying a pistol, defacing the serial number of a pistol and breaking and entering with intent to murder.

SHOT IN CAMBRIDGE

The short war between the two departments was launched when Sergeant Joseph Breen and several other Cambridge officers called on Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon, complaining they should have Ananian's custody.

They said ballistics tests would show that both Sullivan and Ananian were shot by Cambridge officers and they declared the major crime of all those charged was committed in Cambridge.

Also they charged that Brighton police, last night, refused Cambridge officers the right to question the prisoner.

Later, Superintendent Fallon received a communication from Chief Leahy, praising Boston for the co-operation shown and stating that the Cambridge officers were without authority in making the complaint.

Sullivan was shot by Patrolman William Anderson of Cambridge. He was dropped with two bullet wounds in the spine.

CHILDREN AS SHIELD

Ananian was shot in one hand when he raced into a Melton street (Brighton) tenement and hid in a closet.

Ananian had sped through a half dozen streets, using children as protection against police bullets, but still holding tightly to his loot. He was finally forced to throw it into the street.

Only three weeks ago Sullivan was discharged from the Boston City Hospital, where he was treated for a self-inflicted bullet wound. This bullet, police said, was intended to kill a policeman who had seized him in a try at escape.

Sullivan's 'Career'

1933—Carrying a revolver without permit, six months House of Correction.

1933—Palmer, Mass., carrying a revolver, six months House of Correction.

1936—Larceny of an automobile, three months House of Correction.

Ananian's Crime Tally

May, 1927—Breaking and entering, Dorchester court, restitution and fined.

June, 1927—Larceny on two counts, Quincy court, case filed.

January, 1931—Assault and battery on officer, Dorchester court, $25 fine appealed.

January, 1931—Appeal withdrawn on above case and fine paid.

July, 1933—Drunkenness, Dorchester court, released by probation officer.

October, 1933—Breaking and entering and larceny, Cambridge court, held for grand jury.

November, 1933—In Middlesex superior court on above and given two years' probation.

November, 1933—Auto laws, Dorchester court, defaulted and later paid fine.

August, 1934—Assault and battery and drunkenness, Cambridge court, appealed $20 fine.

November, 1934—In Middlesex superior court on above, both cases nol prossed.

December, 1934—Drunkenness, Boston municipal court, released.

July, 1938—Suspicion of armed robbery, released.

Babs, Count Meet Again

VENICE, Aug. 19 (INS)—The Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow met again today for the second time in 24 hours, but all rumors of a reconciliation were discounted by sources close to the estranged couple.

The Danish nobleman and a party of friends joined the former Barbara Hutton and her followers at the Excelsior Hotel on the Lido and once again they held a long private conversation. It was understood the future of their two-year-old son, Lance, was the subject of the discussion.

Friends of the couple, however, believed that Count Haugwitz was attempting to effect a reconciliation but the Woolworth heiress was described as "cool" and somewhat annoyed by his approaches.

Hunt Father Gone 18 Years

In hope that a sight of her long-missing father, who has not been heard from in 18 years, may start her on the road to recovery, relatives of a Lynn woman asked aid today of police, the radio and Congressman Lawrence J. Connery.

The three agencies agreed to help in the search for James Ryan, who was a National Guard captain when he disappeared soon after the war.

Critically ill at her home, 56 Hanover street, Lynn, and about to be moved to Essex County Sanitorium at Middleton, is his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Fogarty, 36, mother of three children.

Captain Ryan is 59, served in the Spanish-American War and was a first lieutenant in the World War.

General Hugh S. Johnson writes about Washington, every day in the Boston American.

HAY FEVER and ASTHMA

Science has not yet found a preparation which will give relief to all hay fever and asthma sufferers. This is understandable when one realizes that both of these conditions can be caused by many things such as various pollens from flowers and weeds, perfumes animal hairs, improper diet, etc. However science has discovered that many cases of hay fever and asthma get amazing relief from the administration of a certain vital food element. Allergen, a rich source of this important element, gives relief to thousands of sufferers year in and year out. In fact, if Allergen is taken early enough hay fever and asthma can often be prevented. Allergen is put up in inexpensive, easy to take tablets containing no harmful drugs. Sufferers who clip this ad and bring it in can obtain a FREE SAMPLE and full information.

Shot Bandit Squeals; Tells All as Pal Dies

They've spoken, sometimes, about "honor among thieves," but detectives gazed with narrowed, cynical eyes today as Harold Ananian spoke in the police headquarters showup.

Because Ananian, carrying the $5566 loot and hardly out of sight from holdup scene to capture scene, blamed his dead companion for the department store pay truck robbery in Cambridge.

Ananian merely rode with James E. Sullivan, he asserted—and then he went on to admit his full participation.

The body of Sullivan, 29-year-old Dorchester bandit, was barely cold in the morgue when Ananian, who lives in Mt. Pleasant street, Roxbury, attempted to throw all responsibility upon his mate of a few hours earlier.

"He was going to sell the car. Now I don't know what to do. I don't know how I'm going to face the public.

"Harold has always been a fine fellow. I've known him for seven years.

"There was no need of his doing anything like this—if he did it. He got $15 a week unemployment insurance and I just got a job.

"Now, I don't know what I'll do."

ADMITS WEARING MASK

"I did nothing except to ride out in the car with Sullivan," said Ananian, as he stood in the floodlights glare, a bullet wound in one hand bandaged.

"Sullivan was driving the car and I was sitting side of him when he drove up to this truck. [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] a mask [illegible] he [illegible] and [illegible] right [illegible] gas [illegible] me [illegible].

"When the driver refused," Ananian said, "Sullivan cut off the truck and I got out and went around behind the truck. I could have shot a man who got out of the truck, but I didn't.

TELLS OF WILD RIDE

"While I was out of the car Sullivan took the money from the man still in the truck. We both jumped back in the car, with Sullivan still driving, and we started away.

"He hit a parked automobile on the corner, though, blowing out a tire and breaking a wheel, but we kept on going until we thought we'd be caught, and then we left that car and grabbed the ice truck. I drove the ice truck.

"The truck was too slow, so we gave that up and we tried to get an automobile from this woman who had just got into her car. We came up beside this woman and we ordered her out of the car.

"She set her mouth and said 'I won't get out of the car.' Well, we wanted no trouble with her, so we went away, but on Putnam avenue we managed to get this laundry truck.

DRIVER FOUGHT BACK

"I drove again and we went to Brighton, where we were forced off the road and this truck was wrecked.

"I took off and ran and I came up to this ice cream truck and I stuck up the driver with the gun and told him to get out fast. Instead of that he started to wrestle with me."

Ananian shook his head up there in the [illegible].

"Here I was, armed and desperate," he said, "and this guy wants to wrestle with me."

Both the [illegible] Harry Goldenberg, 27, of Sutton street and Michael [illegible] and Ananian [illegible] and each [illegible] had [illegible] and both leaped from the truck at the same time. Gil [illegible] one side, the bandit from the other, and Ananian soon was captured in a nearby house.

WHY HE ROBBED

When Sergeant Watkins told Ananian that Sullivan had died Ananian mused:

"I wish I was dead, too."

Asked why he had taken part in the holdup, he said:

"I was discouraged with life. I wanted to pull one big job, clean up, get to some other state and start live again.

"The day before the holdup I got a lot of bills and a notice ordering me and my wife out of our house."

Boston After Dark

By HENRY L. DAILY

POLICE COMMISSIONER JOSEPH F. TIMILTY has presented to the full board of Civil Service Commissioners a compromise plan, which would permit him to promote officers and men in the ranks of the Boston police department by the merit system.

HENRY L. DAILY

There have been several secret sessions held between the police commissioner and the civil service commission. The most recent was within a day or so. It was learned that the peace offering could not be otherwise than agreeable to both parties.

Its acceptance by the Civil Service Commission in all probability will not be made public in time to affect the promotions that Commissioner Timilty is scheduled to make today. It will, however, have a direct bearing on all future advancements in the law and order enforcement body.

Today's promotions will be made strictly "down the line."

Looking Backwards

"I was thinking about the old time fight clubs and eating places we used to gather at of an evening, not so long ago," said Roy Scott, past commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, who I chanced to meet the other night.

There was the old Tammany Club on Sarsfield street, Roxbury where the Forbes brothers, Young Donahue, Tommy Phelps, Kit Grossman and Chester Goodwin got their first chance.

"A fight club was operated in the basement of the Washington market, at the corner of Washington and Lenox streets. It was here that George Dixon and "Hank" Brennan fought a memorable battle.

"Also Mah Murray's on Washington street, near Dover, where Phinney, the Jack O'Brien fought it out with Joe Walcott.

"Then came the club at the Cyclorama building on Tremont street. I saw Marvin Hart lick Kid Carter one night at this spot. The "Merry Monarchs" had a place in Mott street, South End, that had a fight night once a week. The boys in those days had to be good. You could always depend on Kid Pants, Noah Perry, Neddo Flanagan, Stanton Abbott and Lester Pierce for a good show.

"You remember the old Revere House, in Bowdoin square. It was there that the Prince of Wales afterwards England's King, once stopped. Across the street was the Cyclorama House.

"Mike Gross ran on Court street headquarters of John L. Sullivan and Jack McAuliffe, heavy and lightweight champions respectively. The Higgins House on Court street also.

"Then there was Tom Butler's and George Hosmer's places on Green street, the meeting place of oarsmen of those days when rowing was at its peak. Also near was Billy Howard's sporting place.

"Young's Hotel in City Hall avenue, and Mrs. Atkinson's in Newspaper Row, the lunch counters served apple and squash pies deep dish style that brought customers from all over New England.

"Billy Park's spot in Bosworth place, and his famous lobster [illegible] Tremont street hotel. [illegible] Hotel Washington street [illegible]

"The old American House on Hanover street and the Quincy House, Brattle street, where every one politically minded spent at least one night a week in the lobby, especially the night before a Democratic state convention.

[illegible] from Snell that he could muster a state of [illegible] convention of the Spanish War Veterans in forty years.

Here and There

[illegible] Frederick Harkins, Needham attorney, has entered the fight for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer. He was secretary of the class of 1907 at Lasell College and formerly lived in Salem and Beverly. He is the second Boston College graduate seeking a berth at the State House. Mansfield Fair opens next Monday. Horse racing and all the country fair aspects have been built around it. Anne Lindsey of Somerville attached to the office of District Attorney Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex County, is on a vacation trip to the Laurentian [illegible] She is a leading member of the Executive Athletic Club of Somerville.

The two sons of Dr. John H. Cunningham, Back Bay specialist, who have been bitter enemies during the school term, in the sport activities, are spending vacation together at a camp in New Hampshire. A bundle from heaven is expected by the Stewart Faulkners after the first of the new year. Stewart is New England representative of the American Airlines. Mrs. Faulkner was formerly Ruth Phelan, airline stewardess. Shakeup due at the Veterans' Bureau at the Federal Building following recent visit of General Hines. Famous sleuth in town. For the past 15 years has worked on at least ten major jewel thefts here and there. May solve the $25,000 jewel robbery which took place in a downtown Washington street office building.

Jiggs Creator Reveals Inside Story of Life

Special to Boston Evening American

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 19

"The Chinese believe that I invented corned beef and cabbage," said George McManus, creator of "Bringing Up Father," as he broadcast to the nationwide radio audience last night from the NBC Hollywood studios.

In his talk, McManus revealed the inside story of his life. Sent home from a schoolroom for drawing pictures, his father recognized his talent in the sketching world, and [illegible] $5 a week on the Star [illegible].

Casting longing eyes on New York, George McManus set out, and after many hardships landed a job on the New York World.

Asked [illegible] days in New York, George replied:

"Well, after my modest bankroll was gone, I was on a diet most of the time and it wasn't doctor's orders either.

"And I didn't reside—I just flopped. It was the old Gilsey House and it was on its last legs with half the rooms closed.

"I prevailed upon a bell hop to give me keys to some of the empty rooms so that I would not have to pay rent."

George McManus went on to tell how [illegible] and Maggie were born while he [illegible] Brooklyn.

He told of the [illegible] of Jiggs and Maggie and [illegible] where [illegible] Chinese.

"The Chinese didn't know what corn beef and cabbage was, so I had to change Jiggs' favorite dish to rice much to his disgust. Later when I heard that the American relief organizations were sending corned beef to China, I switched Jiggs back to his first love again and now the Chinamen think that I invented it."

Sidney Franklin Made Producer at M-G-M

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19—Louis B. Mayer took out his fountain pen today and put his name on a contract which elevates Sidney Franklin, director, to the list of M-G-M producers. That ends the rumor that Franklin stepped out of the direction of "Marie Antoinette" because of a battle with the M-G-M chieftain. And what an assignment is Franklin's first—the opportunity, or I might say the responsibility, of bringing "The Yearling," Marjorie Rawling's fascinating book, to the screen.

Freddie Bartholomew, who plays the sensitive lad has an equally big responsibility. Franklin's second picture will be "Madame Curie," with Greta Garbo, and although she is expected at the studio in November, I hear through an underground channel that she will slip into the country and join Stokowski at a [illegible] much earlier date.

Warners are going right to town with Priscilla Lane, the blonde, cute youngest Lane, who gave the whole town a surprise at the "Four Daughters" preview. Priscilla, now in New York, will learn for the first time in this column that she is being permanently taken out of the musical comedy class and boosted into dramatic roles. The studio has bought "The Great Lie," an Australian newspaper serial which will co-star her and Jeffrey Lynn, another newcomer Warners will build this coming year because he was good in "Four Daughters."

Samuel Goldwyn, in handing [illegible] for Gary Cooper's "The Last Frontier" of the United Artists back lot, was forced to tear down some of the old Pickford and Fairbanks sets dating back to "The Thief of Bagdad." D. W. Griffith, hearing that the old props were to be torn down, immediately telegraphed John E. Abbott, Director of Museum of Modern Art Film Library in New York, protesting. Says D. W.:

"These old sets, which will be torn down and sold as scrap, are part of the history of Hollywood and I believe should be preserved."

He suggests that Goldwyn turn these relics over to the museum as a part of the permanent collection there. I have [illegible] and I'm glad to agree.

We [illegible] in good faith the story that Douglas Corrigan would be starred in his life story. Right to Ireland at RKO Radio Pictures Herman received a telegram stating Douglas Corrigan has signed with RKO-Radio to bring to the screen story of his life and dramatic flight," and naturally he interpreted it to mean that the wrong-way flier would act in the picture.

What Leo Spitz really meant was that he had bought Corrigan's life story and that the flier would assist in its production. The fact that Corrigan has made no plans to appear in any picture verifies what he told me both in my ship-to-shore interview and later when I talked to him on the boat that he preferred sticking to aviation.

A line or two: Jean Arthur and Paramount are bickering for "Union Pacific." Jean wants $150,000 to play the lead and Cecil De Mille, for whom she made "The Plainsman," I hear from a reliable source, has offered her $125,000 . . . Robert Montgomery kicked up his heels over his role in "Shining Hour," the Joan Crawford picture, so Robert Young goes into the role and everybody is happy. Montgomery gets a part more to his liking in another picture.

Talk about a great break for Warners. Their "Racket Busters," made long before the Dewey investigation of Hines and the numbers racket, opens right while the newspapers are front paging the Dewey activities.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Dr. Allan Dafoe, famous doctor of the quints, arrives in Hollywood in September for the premiere of their picture. Mickey Rooney says he'll bet he is sick and tired of being kidded about the quints and will stag it for a whole week just to show 'em. Venita Varden, estranged wife of Lew Ayres, added Franchot Tone and Bruce Cabot to her list of conquests when he went skipping with Cesar Romero.

Reunited on Screen

GINGER ROGERS and Fred Astaire are reunited again on the screen in RKO's "Carefree" which comes to the Keith Memorial next Thursday.

Sterling Acting Features 'Gateway' at Memorial

By PEGGY DOYLE

Stars of Twentieth Century-Fox' entertaining production "Gateway," which is now showing on the Keith Memorial screen are the character actors who portray the immigrants seeking entry into these United States.

They are a varied and vivid assortment of human beings. The phony Russian prince played to the hilt by Gregory Ratoff, Eddy Conrad's Communist whose sole mission is to stir up a juicy revolution in America. The internationally notorious, much married adventuress, every inch portrayed by blond Binnie Barnes, who hopes to halt her deportation by marriage to a New York millionaire.

The ex-gangster who is trying to sneak back into the United States now that things have quieted down a bit, as darkly handsome Gilbert Roland etches it in. Maurice Moscovitch's Polish father for whom no sacrifice for his family is too much.

Don Ameche, as a home-bound war correspondent, and Arleen Whelan, an Irish colleen whose marriage to a Babbitty American is to take place upon her arrival, are billed as the picture's co-stars. They are an attractive twosome and, in addition, Ameche can act, but their repeatedly thwarted romance plays second place to the Ellis Island sequences presenting the hopeful or fearful would-be citizens of this country whose fate rests with the Board of Inquiry.

Ratoff's pseudo-prince, a role originally tailored for Mr. Romanoff (Remember him?) who was dismissed from the cast because he failed to give it authority as an outstanding characterization. He provides a laugh a minute.

Another skilled portrayal is Miss Barnes' brittle adventuress whose wisecracks dissect the customers no end.

Briefly the story is this: American meets the pretty, Polish girl who is traveling steerage, invites her to the first class deck. An officious smalltown mayor forces his unwelcome attentions on her and she is innocently involved in an international incident that loses her her publish bridegroom to be played by Lyle Talbot.

Al Werker has directed this production with pace and has missed no opportunities for comedy.

"Army Girl," second feature on this week's bill, co-stars Madge Evans and Preston Foster in an army post drama that is interestingly handled and suspenseful.

Miss Evans, former child-star who recently starred in a Cape Playhouse (Dennis, Mass.) production, gives a competent, persuasive performance. Foster, as the engineer who makes the successful experiment of mechanizing the fort with tanks only to risk the loss of the girl he loves, is effective and sincere.

Berlin Finds Song Writing Hard Task

Practically everybody of any literary eminence has been credited with saying that "I care not who writes the country's laws, if I may write its songs."

The people who made the remark never wrote any songs. For like Irving Berlin don't have time to think up ditties about their jobs.

Song writing, unlike law writing, according to Mr. Berlin, is not a matter of inspiration. A composer has to be constantly on the alert for any idea that may form the basis of a lyric or a musical phrase.

For example when Berlin came to write "Alexander's Ragtime Band," his favorite piece, which has now given the title to Twentieth Century-Fox's first big production which has been held over for a second week at the Metropolitan, it was not a meeting he just sat down and knocked off.

In the first place, the music was originally part of a song called "Alexander and His Ragtime Clarinet." Berlin's publishers frowned on the effort and urged him to forget it. Instead of forgetting it, however, he revised it, adding a lyric.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1938

Don't Spare This!

The Editor Says:—The artist's picture is apt; this surely is one tree the woodman must NOT spare.

The Dies Congressional Committee investigating subversive activities of Communists, Fascists and Nazis in New England and elsewhere throughout the country should accomplish everything it has courageously set out to do.

The WHOLE TRUTH about those individuals and organizations that seek to destroy the free American system of government ought to be LEARNED and TOLD, the sooner the better.

Let every person guilty of subversion in all its forms be held up before the bar of public opinion.

THE STATE CONVENTION of the American Legion, now in session, commends itself to all patriotic Americans.

In Worcester, where twenty years ago the Massachusetts organization was formed, this great army of former soldiers proves once more that Time can neither destroy love of country nor diminish the loyal son's concern for his nation's welfare.

These Legionnaires who saved America in war are determined to KEEP AMERICA SAFE in peace. They THINK RIGHT. And, what is undoubtedly as important in this troubled era, they SPEAK OUT LOUD in their defense of American principles.

Certainly every citizen should read the able address National Commander Daniel J. Doherty delivered to the assembled hundreds. Here, indeed, was a high standard of RIGHT THINKING.

Commander Doherty condemned the false liberalism that causes schools and colleges to give shelter to alien isms. He said:

"Under the guise of professed interest in world peace and liberalism, student organizations actively work to effect a destruction or serious impairment of national defense programs and support philosophies of government INIMICAL to the country to which they should give their UNDIVIDED allegiance.

"It seems to make but little difference to them that such systems of government have PRODUCED TYRANNY, DESTROYED RELIGION AND REDUCED THE INDIVIDUAL TO ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL SLAVERY."

Thus and wisely the head of the American Legion called upon his mighty organization to drive out radical agitators who have entered our educational institutions to corrupt the minds of our sons and daughters with Communism, Nazism, Fascism and all other hate-spawned doctrines of the serf-minded and Caesar-ruled states of Europe.

But the call went BEYOND THE LEGION, went out to EVERY AMERICAN who values his liberty and desires to live as a free individual in a free land.

Let all such REAL AMERICANS line up behind the Legion —NOW!

ONLY TWO WEEKS remain for the registration of persons desiring to vote in the Massachusetts State primary on September 20. Consequently every citizen eligible to cast a ballot should act IMMEDIATELY.

New voters ought to appear before the registrars in their districts, answer the required questions and have their names placed on the official lists at the earliest convenient moment.

Voting with a determination to elect good candidates and to defeat bad ones is one of citizenship's most important duties.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S celebrated march "from Atlanta to the sea" caught none of the Democratic stalwarts of the Senate off guard.

Senator George's political allies in that august and once exclusive club—the group who had stood at Armageddon, and battled for the Lord against the court-packing plan — went over the whole situation with the Senator before Congress adjourned.

Their advice to George was to make his fight single-handed in the event the President took a personal hand in the campaign against him.

A dozen volunteered to help on the stump, but the theory was that George would make the issue of outside interference much clearer to the electorate by going it alone. Sound psychology. This plan probably will be followed.

But Senator George can have all the financial help he may need. Has only to say the word, which he hasn't yet done.

IT GIVES conservative Democratic leaders, whose main hope is to maintain party solidarity, a bad case of goose pimples to have the Roosevelt parallel with Woodrow Wilson raised. There's a reason.

When Wilson in 1918 brought about the defeat in their primaries of two Southern Democratic Senators, who refused to go along willingly with the celebrated "one-track mind"—Tom Hardwick, in Georgia, and Jim Vardaman, in Mississippi—he had a secret motive, just as Mr. Roosevelt has today a motive more or less secret.

THE PRESENT PRESIDENT'S motive is to line up behind him a willing lot of Senators, who may be trusted to carry out the rest of his reform program. The indications are that the real ultimate purpose of the Administration, the consummation of the "share-the-wealth" program, is to be attempted during the next fateful two years, or else! Or else Mr. Roosevelt will have to run again himself!

When Wilson put the skids under Hardwick and Vardaman he had a secret purpose, not as then revealed, to put the United States into the International League of Nations. To do this he had to control the Senate.

Many believe that Mr. Wilson aspired to become the president of the League, running the universe from Geneva.

WELL, what happened? Mr Wilson defeated Senators in Georgia and Mississippi. He terrorized Senators who opposed the ratification of the Versailles Treaty and the League. He broke with Bryan when The Commoner emerged from the retirement he had enjoyed since his resignation as Secretary of State, went to Washington, and urged Democrats to ratify the treaty with the Lodge reservations.

IN SHORT, Mr. Wilson split his party right down the back. The Democrats had been in control of the government during a successful foreign war. They should have remained in power for a decade.

Instead Wilson gave the floundering Republicans an issue, and he smashed his own party. The G. O. P. carried the House in 1918, and elected three Republican Presidents in a row, beginning with 1920. The Republicans would be in power to this day if it had not been for the 1920 nom-

The Brighter Side

Hines Trial Talesmen Prove "High Type"

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.

IT IS PERHAPS quite true that some Americans are inclined to shirk the duties of citizenship if those duties happen to interfere with their own business or pleasure, but we have recently become convinced that this is not generally true.

We have become convinced that the average American citizen will always respond, even though sometimes a bit reluctantly, to the call of citizenship duty. Our conviction was reached while sitting in Justice Ferdinand Pecora's court room in Foley square watching the assembling of the jury to try Jimmy Hines, the celebrated Tammany chieftain charged with conspiracy.

Now jury duty is unwelcome under any circumstances to the average American, especially of the type summoned for jury service on the "Blue Ribbon" panel called in this case.

A "Blue Ribbon" panel is made up of citizens supposed to be not only intelligent but of some standing in the community.

Thus the talesmen who gathered in Justice Pecora's court were mainly business and professional men. I [illegible] most of them busy with their own affairs, and while quite a number of the original panel of 300 hustled to the bench with excuses of one kind and another, including physical infirmities and many of them quite valid, there still remained a room full of eligibles who made no effort to escape.

Damon Runyon

We saw a number of men enter the box as talesmen who obviously had no desire to serve as jurors yet they declared themselves willing to sit and to give Jimmy Hines a fair and impartial trial, and if they were not selected it was not because of any attempts on their part to wiggle out.

Justice Pecora found occasion to admonish just two or three whose attitudes and answers indicated a disposition to evade their duty and that is a small percentage of the total number examined. The fact that the jury was selected in two days is somewhat indicative of the type of men who appeared. Only a very few manifested what might have been construed as eagerness to get on the jury.

THE JURY SERVICE [illegible] only three dollars per day which would perhaps be attractive enough to some in these times but which scarcely interests men of the type on the Hines jury. One chap was all set to go on his vacation with his wife when he was accepted by both sides, and an expression of deep gloom took possession of his countenance though he never faltered in his responses to the questions.

"Oh, judge!" said the good wife, or words to that effect, when called up and informed that the old ever-loving husband was booked for a long absence down town.

The juror said nothing about the planned vacation when being interrogated but another chap who advanced a hunting trip as an excuse why he could not serve, not only got excused but a rebuke from Justice Pecora went with it.

We admit that we would not care to be on that Hines jury in this kind of weather, but we admire those chaps who declined to shirk their citizenship obligations.

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

INSPECTOR BYRNES approves of the remarks made by Recorder Smyth in General Sessions on November 17, 1884. Looking severely at the young, stylish prisoner, who stood at the bar carelessly twirling his fashionable derby hat, the Judge said:

"You have a mother, young man (Applause.) and I sympathize with her deeply in having such a son. (Silence.) You are an unmitigated scoundrel and employ each shining hour in cleaning out various hotels of everything of value you can lay hands on. You have already served a term of imprisonment for stealing in Wyoming Territory. Inside of eight weeks you have ransacked ten Brooklyn and New York hotels. (Amazement.) You have made no effort toward restitution. (Hisses.) You have the nature of a thief without a redeeming quality. I shall make an example of you in sending you to prison for ten years—the full term allowed by law." (Curtain falls and cries of "Author.")

THE JUDGE took a bow while the prisoner fell flat on his face. Which is what we might call a complete bow. The object of the Judge's anger was Gus Gregory, a corridor prowler who has glutted hotels from coast to coast. He was a sailor and expert gymnast who worked only during dinner hours. No guest was safe while young Gus swung from chandelier to chandelier like an ape in the forest primeval.

THE IMPUDENCE of the prisoner at the bar was remarked upon by several eye-witnesses to his trial. When being led away, Gus waved his hand airily at the Recorder and said, "T-, ta, Irene."

RECORDER SMYTH stared in shocked amazement at such effrontery. Never in a long, honorable career had he seen such brazenness. He called the prisoner back for contempt of court. But, a long search through the Constitutions failed to reveal any law or amendment mentioning anybody by the name of Irene.

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

WHAT'S TO BE DONE about all the girls who come crowding to the big cities, looking for jobs?

Every year, it seems, there are more young girls who strive to be self-supporting. During the past 10 years, the number has almost doubled. And 58 per cent of the graduates of several women's colleges are seeking careers in the business and professional world.

Ann Marsters

Such girls may find a lot of good advice in an article by Sarah Comstock, in the September issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine. She analyzes the problems of the working girl in six cities—including Boston.

The majority of the girls who come to the city to start work have never tried to steer their own lives. They've had parents, guardians, or deans who have had the say.

"But now," says Miss Comstock, "the girls are alone, and their blunders are irremediable. Some cut down meals to meet too high a rent. Others injure their health by burning the candle at both ends."

There are two things you MUST take to the strange city with you if you are wise. You must have money and references, and it is imperative that you have either a position in advance or enough cash to live without a job for months.

Mayor Tobin recently advised young people to stay away from Boston when it came to job-hunting, reasoning that there aren't enough jobs to go around among the local young people. But it's difficult to discourage a girl with a diploma under her arm and a certainty that the whole wonderful world is waiting, on tip-toe, just to recognize her ability.

That's a beautiful point of view, but, before you start out to set the world on fire, you should have about $800 to tide you over the job-hunting period. Because the world seems to be getting colder and harder all the time.

CONTRIBUTION DEPT. A young man writes in to tell us that he was trying to take a nap one afternoon while his mother was entertaining a bridge foursome.

The nap turned out to be impossible, so he seized a pencil and jotted down the various subjects which the ladies discussed. The list follows:

Houses, music, mountains, schools, strikes, Roosevelt, air-conditioning, birds, traveling, fraternities and sororities, social security, divorce, recipes, Mormons, arthritis, children, and Russia.

Life comes a-hurrying
Or life lags slow;
But we've stopped worrying
Let it go!
Some call it gloomy,
Some call it nice—
They're very little of us
Let them, call once!
Some find it fair,
Some find it how-d,
Many people care;
But we don't, do we?

JOE RUBIN, who is very well known in the entertainment world is to open a School of the Theater and Radio" in Boston on September first. And the subjects, besides dramatics will be radio singing, dancing, music and elocution.

Joe's brother, you know, is Percy Rubin the movie and radio star who is now in Hollywood as agent of Joe's Theatrical Booking office in Boston.

New York Cavalcade

by Louis Sobol

DIARY of a Colyumist's Pup: Well, just like you might expect, now that I am out here and getting into the swing of Tim Breen has decided he and the Queen must go to a place they call San Francisco and then they will go home. It would be like him to do that now that I have found a place which is a Paradise because I have never met so many nice girls and boys among the Scotties, Sealyhams, wire-haired and Bedlingtons which are all over the place in these Bungalows.

YESTERDAY a lady from Chicago moved in next door to us here with two swell puppies. Her name is Bette Castle McLaughlin and she is a great friend of us dogs. Last night the Queen and Irene Chin went to Bette Davis' Ted Waggers party which was to promote interest in my breed and the Queen met Gary Cooper and Howard Hughes and Errol Flynn and Robert Taylor, and he said she was tremendously impressed and then we'd been to see he had talked with Norma Shearer and Jean Harlow and Marie Wilson and Hedy LaMarr.

IN THE AFTERNOON he spent a few hours with George Raft, who had just been suspended by Paramount, and Raft said he was sick and tired of playing gats for why, he wasn't exactly, but that he didn't want people to think he was getting high-hat about his parts. It was simply he didn't think it right he should play just the parts which fit him.

* * *

THE QUEEN says she can't understand why he came to Hollywood when he has to live in on the glorious sunshine for ever and ever and he growls, 'I am here for the sunshine, for the sunshine, which I can get from a lamp and have less trouble. I am here to broadcast my script for the sake of the public and the Queen tells him which annoys him.

TODAY The Queen was out the pool having to two nice little fellows. One is from Castle's Inn and the other is Nancy Kelly's brother and they were arguing how near New York is to Chicago and little Jack Kelly says: 'Why it can't be more than a mile or two, because it is right next door.'

What do you mean next door, asks the Queen and Jack says: 'Because every week I take a train from New York and the first stop we get off at was Chicago.'

Censorship

by Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, DEL. From time to time there comes out of this administration, or some of its echoing vessels an attack on the American press, sometimes containing a threat of censorship, such as the bill introduced during the Reorganization Bill fight in the Senate. These attacks have appeared over long enough periods of time and with enough consistency to indicate a policy or at least a conviction.

General Johnson

Aside from this direct, if circumstantial evidence there is nobody who has sat near the dynamo of so-called thought at the center of all things wise and just does not know that this is a cherished dogma in the sanctum behind the veil of the temple of the All-Highest.

The accusation is that the great newspapers, the chains, the press associations, columnists and editorial writers are, as was recently quoted by an ardent Senatorial sounding board, "intellectual prostitutes." The charge is that they suppress, distort, color, falsify, adulterate, invent and prevent both news and comment. They are accused of censoring what is favorable to the Administration and exaggerating and manufacturing what is not.

For some reason, not understood by this writer, the press in return, either passes these accusations in comparative silence or, to the extent that it does reply, confines itself with some acid wisecrack—perhaps relying on the ancient axiom that truth crushed to earth, will rise.

THAT ANTI-NEW DEAL newspapers have editorialized against it is true and is consistent with the best traditions of journalism here and everywhere. That some few hotly partisan anti-New Deal newspapers have more prominently displayed anti-New Deal news than pro-New Deal news is just as true as that some pro-New Deal newspapers have suppressed it. This is closer to the line of the accusation, but it is far from making a true bill of the charge because these instances are relatively rare. Finally it is true that there are fewer important papers which are enthusiastic for the New Deal than those which are not.

When we go beyond that to the accusation that papers and press associations falsify the news and that columnists and commentators are generally crooks, it is time for the accusers to make their case with specific examples and it is more than time for the accused to do something beside sit in sanctified silence.

So far as my observation and experience go, it is a LIE OUT OF WHOLE CLOTH. As far as my information and belief go, these are opening steps in a furtive purpose to suppress or soften criticism of governmental action by legislation, intimidation or whatever it takes.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT is the trend of thought in America today? What are the problems that most vex our neighbors from [illegible] to sage? [illegible] a clearing house for letters from all Americans, I am giving you an opportunity to see your world and [illegible] through the Other Fellow's eyes.

Elsie Robinson

A few weeks before college begins. A few weeks before [illegible] mortgage the Old Farm so college can begin.

SO WHAT? DO MOST KIDS NEED THESE SO HEAVILY-EXPENSIVE COLLEGE YEARS? "YES!" cry most Kampus Kiddies with Big Ideas visions. "No," chorus two square-shooting Young Americans.

First of which is game young ELMAN J. COOK of [illegible]. "Dear Elsie Robinson:

"Being one of the so-called 'Bewildered Modern Generation' there are many puzzles I cannot answer. But there is one fact concerning which I am positive and that is: The greatest mistake I have ever made, and one which cost me years [illegible] recovery and which it will take long years to erase, was accepting a college education.

"Not that I am so narrow as to condemn colleges, nor do I feel that those who make great sacrifices to obtain [illegible] are making a mistake.

"But I do firmly believe that if two-thirds of the students attending Liberal Arts Colleges were removed and put to work or initiated in the horrors of job hunting or possibly placed in trade schools, thousands of misfits would be averted.

"At the insistence of the [illegible] I spent four years preparing myself for a profession rather than remunerative. When the time came to enter [illegible] I was forced to realize that my academic [illegible] was useless, for my ability to make the necessary business [illegible] was nil, so in that line depended.

"Actually a good bricklayer, carpenter, machinist or expert typist is immeasurably more prepared to meet the world than the average college graduate from a Liberal Arts School.

"Such an expert craftsman knows how to make the human contacts essential to his success, contacts which will enable him to be a reliable workman, a dependable family man, a useful citizen.

"Personally, I wish I had grabbed a shovel instead of that scholarship. If I had I would have been four years ahead of where I am today.

"Elman J. Cook, aged 27."

THEN equally sincere courageous but more cheerful [illegible] tells this true story from [illegible] of Oakland, Calif.:

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"When modern Joe and Ginger get to the High School they consider a college course their 'inalienable right' as [illegible] a cultural training or a preparation for [illegible] reasons for a college degree, but none as [illegible] for the chief [illegible] is really:

"Why pride!? We all know that the average man [illegible] could learn a trade far more thoroughly in [illegible] than in a college lab. The average coed could win a husband more successfully in a chorus than on a campus.

'AND YOU CAN GET AS FAR WITH HOME STUDY OR A CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL AS YOU CAN WITH ANY [illegible] IF YOU'RE HONEST ENOUGH TO ADMIT IT.

"I know college. I know kids. And I know [illegible] need college. It helps some of them but [illegible] is [illegible].

'But let's not delude ourselves. College [illegible] the right,' it is not even a necessity—often not even a [illegible] desirable luxury.

After which, what's YOUR answer?

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

MOST MODERN young couples demand a signed guarantee of some sort before they will go in for such an uncertain thing as marriage these days. They are so canny and cautious.

The good old marriage vows which include only the promise to love, honor, cherish and cleave unto each other are much too vague and indefinite. THEY WANT TO NAIL EACH OTHER DOWN, LIKE A CARPET, AND INSIST ON SIGNING THEMSELVES UP TO ALL SORTS OF SPECIFIC AND BINDING PROMISES.

Each has to state clearly his or her stand on the budget question, the mother-in-law question, the tooth-paste question, the lipstick question, the pocket money question, the guest-towel question, the golf-on-Sunday question, and even the questions of manners and of how many children they want—if any!

The prospective bride has to take a second pledge that she won't expect him to invite her relations over and that he won't always bring an unexpected guest home to dinner without being warned at least three days ahead.

And the future bridegroom must take an oath that he will shave at least once a day and wear his underwear at least once a season, and that she can invite her family to visit for weekend for as long a time as she wishes.

The discussion and contracts on the diet and bridge questions alone might fill a booklet. Because a man's stomach and a woman's figure are equally sacred. And while a little bridge is supposed to connect most things there is nothing like a little bridge quarrel to separate two otherwise perfectly [illegible].

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Polish Hair With New "Brush-Comb"

IF YOU'VE thought that it's no wonder a star like Dorothy Howe has hair polished like the North Star, what with a whole studio beauty staff at her beck and call . . . two-time whatever combing you do by turning it into a brushing at the same time . . . with a new gadget Arline Gould has discovered. It takes the hand labor out of brushing, with the same returns in beauty!

BY ARLINE GOULD

YOU NO LONGER have the excuse of "no time" if your hair lacks the groomed "polished" look which comes from ardent brushing . . . because there's a new gadget comb that, with every lick brushes as well as combs!

Many say that it's conceded to be the first fundamental improvement in the history of the comb and brush. We say that it's the finest aid ever for lazy people . . . whose muscles might be good enough for a whacking game of badminton, but who tire singularly after the 10th brush stroke.

We thought it was nothing less than miraculous the way this brush-comb thing smoothed unruly hair into a sleek cap. Until we found out that there's a good reason for its action: it controls static electricity of the hair which is accentuated by ordinary combs!

Simultaneous action of comb and brush also cleans the hair most thoroughly of dust and dandruff, for the teeth of the comb separate the hair allowing bristles to penetrate thoroughly.

And in this connection if you haven't found out about a new brush cleanser set you haven't really developed the luxurious art of laziness. You'll never scrub another hair brush when you buy a 25 cent can of cleanser. Just dissolve some of the cleanser in hot water, immerse the brush. Soil is cut instantly, bristles are preserved. It dries in no time.

To learn the name either of the ingenious new brush-comb or the instant brush cleanser, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Good Manners

I am in doubt as to whether when one has guests visiting for several days it is correct to introduce them to the servants or whether during their visit they casually address the servants? E.

Very often a servant is introduced to a visitor, sometimes quite casually, sometimes not. In a "great house" where there are many servants the servant with whom the guest will come into most contact (for instance the maid who serves the guest's room) will be introduced somewhat like this, "Nora will unpack your bags if you will leave the keys with her." Or, "If you have anything you wish pressed, will you tell Nora, and she will be glad to do this."

In a small household where there is perhaps a servant who has for a long time been employed in the household, the hostess of that home almost always says something like this, when the guest arrives, "This is our Mary, and she will be happy to do anything she can for you."

Home-Canned Chicken and Vegetables

What a joy these home-canned treats will reveal, yes!

From boned chicken, an invitation to put up a few when plump hens are cheap, you can have pies, salads, simple dinners a la king. From mixed vegetables and compotes. And pepper relish adds spice to any menu.

To can boned chicken, cook fowl a whole until tender enough for bones to be removed.

Cool, cut in pieces and discard skin and bones. Pack in hot sterilized containers. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each pint jar with strong chicken broth. Process in steam pressure cooker.

A delicious fruit mixture you can quickly put up is a combination of pears and pineapple. Pare, core and peel peaches; cook pears after paring, for 4 to 8 minutes in heavy syrup—1 cup sugar to 2 cups water. To prepare pineapple, pare, core and remove eyes.

Now blend and pack cold fruit in sterilized jars. Cover to within 1½ inches of tops with thin syrup, 1 part sugar, 2 parts water. Seal and process in hot water bath canner.

As simple as it's good is pepper relish. Wash seed and chop fine 6 red peppers, 6 green ones. Peel and chop fine 6 medium sized onions. Cover both with boiling water, let stand 5 minutes. Drain. Add 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoons salt. Cook rapidly 5 minutes. Turn into sterilized jars and seal.

And don't forget delicious Idaho ice-water pickled peppers for vegetable salads! Our 40-page booklet, NEW WAYS OF CANNING FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND MEATS, gives you easy recipes.

Send 15c for our booklet, NEW WAYS OF CANNING FRUITS, VEGETABLES, AND MEATS, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 39th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

SHAMPOO TIPS

If you do your shampooing instead of indulging in professional services, don't forget that the hair should be rinsed thoroughly before soap is applied. Much of the surface dust is removed by that practice.

One sudsing is never effective. It takes the second one to remove oil and dirt from silky tresses. Use a bath spray, have a strong current of water. Don't economize on "elbow grease."

Gasoline Trade Holds Steady

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—Still in the pioneering stage, not yet having reached a saturation point, the gasoline industry expresses depression in terms of a reduced rate of sales rather than in an actual decline as compared with the previous year.

Most other industries would be happy indeed to settle on the same basis.

In reviewing the current situation Edward G. Seubert, president Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in a message to this column points out:

"For the first five months of the year there was a gain of less than 1 per cent in the domestic consumption of gasoline and a strong gain of nearly 40 per cent in reports which gave us a net over all gain in sales, so to speak, of a little more than 3 per cent. We can only guess what the future holds but I am hopeful that the trend will continue about as it has been so far.

"The picture is less rosy as regards other petroleum products, in industry. The slump in production activities has seriously reduced consumption so that domestic use of gas, oil and distillates is off about 5 per cent and shows only a very slight gain in spite of an increase of nearly 80 per cent in exports.

LABOR RELATIONS GOOD

"The consumption of residual oils shows a low of more than 13 per cent and consumption of lubricants a low of nearly 15 per cent. The outlook as regards these products is dependent on improvement in manufacturing and industry generally. If activities accelerate, the trend will improve."

Commenting on labor matters Seubert added:

"Labor conditions in the oil industry are at present generally satisfactory.

"The industry has been very slow to take any steps which might disturb the harmony of its labor relations, but of course continuance of this attitude is dependent in the long run on improvement in the demand for products and the labor to make and supply them."

An oil executive from the west coast informs me:

"To me the most significant tendency is the improved methods in our refining operations which augur that in time most any type of petroleum product can be taken from a barrel of crude oil of a desired quality regardless of the character of the crude used. The most beneficial result of this will be the prolonging of the life of that natural resource."

Another oil spokesman writes:

"I do not know what legal clarification of the rights of the oil industry would be helpful. I am more concerned that the government cease the continuous harassment of the industry. I do not mean by that that I excuse the industry or any one connected with it of violations of the anti-trust law that are real. It does seem to me that efforts on the part of the industry to keep stabilized conditions without creating harm to the buying public should not always be subject to attacks."

SEE IMPROVEMENT

Referring to the foreign situation this spokesman added:

"Our statistics indicate that countries such as Venezuela, Colombia and a few others have shown an increased crude oil production in the last few months.

"Whether this be due by reason of natural increased demands, or reflects absorption of crude oil not available in Mexico by the companies who were largely interested in Mexico, I cannot authoritatively state."

West Coast oil leaders are predicting that there will be a seasonal improvement in domestic demand for gasoline for the rest of the year and that consumption for the 12 months will be 1 per cent greater than in 1937.

Good News

Massachusetts, once the center of American glass-making industry, may return to that position if the theory advanced today by Professor F. H. Norton of Technology becomes a fact.

Professor Norton pointed out that Boston, Cambridge, a Sandwich were once famed for glassware.

A report made to Associated Industries quoted Professor Norton as saying Massachusetts can supply the four main factors necessary to make glass-manufacturing profitable here; raw materials, fuel, market and labor supply.

Gains in employment ranging up to 39 per cent and in payrolls up to 56 per cent in July over June in Massachusetts centers were reported to the State Labor Department. Total number of wage earners in 1808 establishments in July was 1.4 per cent greater than in June.

Shoe manufacturers in New England are increasing their output slightly and many factories are operating at near capacity. With fall shoe production on the upgrade manufacturers are entering the leather market in order to replenish depleted inventories. Retails are placing orders for shoes a little more freely.

Lower for the third successive week, the Weekly Food Index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., registered $2.41 as of August 16, as compared with $2.44 a week previous and $2.47 on July 26. The drop for the three-week period, amounting to 6 cents, or 2.4 per cent, lengthened the decline from the 1937 comparative of $2.90 to 16.9 per cent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 — A steady gradual rise rather than a sharp initial upswing in domestic buying and in industrial activity was forecast for fall and winter months by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics. It said the decline in industrial activity had halted in June and a definite improvement occurred in July.

Dewey Has Fun All the Way From A to Z!

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Courtroom spectators at the James J. Hines trial were amused by the testimony of Julius Williams, red haired Negro, when he said he could not read, although he could write when someone gave him the letters to put down.

Their amusement changed to downright hilarity when he added that he did not know all the alphabet, only the letters "from A to Z."

Williams, held as a material witness, was in Tombs prison today trying to figure it all out.

Austen Lake:

Lines on Longwood's 2-Fisted Tennis Guest

EXCEPT FOR THE SMALL MINORITY our Boston citizens have never become imbued with the spirit of tournament tennis. Still, as it is being played at Longwood betwixt the Australian and German Davis Cup teams, it seems a nice game, calling for plenty of foot, early and late, and something of the delicacy of billiards. The sissy implication of the technical term "love" has long ago been lived down by a flock of lithe, limber youths of an extreme he-man type, who can play tennis all afternoon, dance all night and lick their weight in steamfitters any time.

Austen Lake

It is possible that the writing of tennis especially by some of the British dilettantes, has been largely responsible for the mystery in the business which has defied popular appreciation. They indulge in flubdub about pluck and daring about a game in which nobody has ever come down with so much as a cauliflowered ear or a nose bleed. So now we are reading hysterics about the raw, robust bravery of a young Australian named Jack Bromwich, who persists in gripping his racket with both fists, contrary to all orthodoxy, and the general reaction is, pardonably, "Well, what the hell?"

Perhaps it is unnatural to use both hands on a tennis snowshoe and perhaps the young Aussie persisted against much medlesome advice. But he discovered that he could hit the ball more facilely, to coin a word, with two hands than with one. So he did it. And when he did, his system turned out O. K. and you would think, to hear about it, that he is winning a war unassisted.

Heinie and Al Had Oddities Too

THERE HAVE BEEN A COUPLE OF ATHLETES in the baseball business who did the same thing. There was Heinie Groh, the old Giant third baseman, who spurned the advice of his teachers by facing the pitchers head-on and holding his unique bat, shaped something like a milk bottle, straight up and down. This seemed very contrary, but they were paying off on results then as now and Heinie had a trick of pivoting around when he saw a missile coming—at which he thought he might like to take a swipe, and he did very well for a term of years.

There is [illegible] who [illegible] with the Washington Senators who [illegible] by [illegible] and [illegible] a very [illegible] way of doing. He stood that way because he was afraid of [illegible] and reasoned that way he could [illegible] effort. Well, nobody [illegible] remarked about the [illegible] Johnson of those days. And [illegible] the right way. The young Australian [illegible] and [illegible] future's wishes and [illegible] today.

Tennis Does as Baseball Did

ATHLETICALLY TENNIS IS O. K., as the young play it at Longwood, but the social side tends to bring it into disrepute. In America it started as a dude importation in and about Newport, R. I., and before the turn of the century and members of the working classes who had become proficient were imported to amuse the summer nobility, off when presently they were knocking the spot. It was about that time that the habit began of granting the girls and boys a little something above their living and pretty soon the important ones discovered that they could hook their tournament schedules in one continuous piece and earn a little something above their livings the entire year around.

So, this is no more than the great national game of baseball did in its early beginnings, when many college crews and track [illegible] Notre Dame [illegible] U. S. Naval Academy competed against the U. S. Military Academy and [illegible] with the latter at West Point was usually [illegible] the Navy [illegible] that the Army was bringing [illegible] football [illegible] other colleges [illegible] graduation [illegible] So the Army dropped [illegible] doing a nice and [illegible]

Mead Satisfied With Broadcast

Jury Upholds Announcer

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (INS)—Though Buck Pasgue Henry Armstrong today balanced on his noggin (nine-cents) after a mermaid (she) unsuccessfully decision over Lupe Amores, [illegible] Edward Mead the wisdom a mamp [illegible] yesterday dropped the duke to Clem McCarthy's perpetual exhibitionist [illegible] a court.

Garcia to Get Armstrong Bout | Ambers Rates a Return Match

By JACK CONWAY

CEFERINO GARCIA, Filipino welterweight, will probably be Henry Armstrong's next major opponent. This bout will be for the world's welterweight championship.

Mr. Boston

It will be the second crack Garcia has had at the welterweight crown. He fought Barney Ross on the "Carnival of Champions" card in New York last September, and was outscored in a hard, close bout. That tussle convinced those persons who saw it that Ross was slipping badly. Only courage and remarkable ring generalship enabled Ross to weather Garcia's attack in the last two rounds.

Garcia hits harder than any boxer in the world up to 150 pounds. When he first fought Ross in an over-weight match in San Francisco, he knocked Barney down twice in the first round with thumping right-hand punches.

The fact Garcia can hit will give interest to his tussle with Armstrong.

At the time Ross fought Armstrong he had lost the fire in his punch, while Lou Ambers was never much of a socker.

Armstrong, perpetual motion in the ring, is wide open to be hit as he comes roaring to close quarters tossing leather.

Armstrong throws a million punches, but he isn't a terrific hitter as was evident in his tussles with Ross and Ambers. Even when Armstrong had Ross helpless on the ropes, he couldn't knock him down.

Armstrong was more successful in scoring knockdowns against Ambers, twice dropping the former lightweight champion to the canvas for counts. The fact Ambers in bobbing around the ring at top speed and is often off balance helped make it possible for Armstrong to score knockdowns.

If Garcia should land with his best Sunday punch, a right-hand wallop, to the jaw it will be interesting to see how Armstrong stands up under it.

Garcia, like most great punchers, does not toss leather as fast as Armstrong. He waits and picks his spots for his wallops.

Boxers who give as much intensified action as Armstrong cannot be expected to be terrific punchers. They distribute their walloping power over three minutes instead of concentrating it in two or three blows.

'Ambers Will Get Return Bout

LOU AMBERS, of course, will get an opportunity to regain his lightweight title. A return Armstrong-Ambers tussle is a natural in view of the dissatisfaction with the decision in the title skirmish.

Ambers, while defeated, increased his standing as a boxer. He proved he has courage and ring class when under fire.

While I picked Armstrong to win, I stated Ambers would give him much better opposition than did Ross, and would probably be in there winging punches at the final bell.

I felt that Ambers' youth, speed and boxing ability would enable him to weather the Armstrong attack.

If Armstrong couldn't stop the almost helpless Ross, I couldn't see where he had much of a chance of tipping over a sturdy youngster like Ambers.

Armstrong was fortunate his low punching didn't cost him the decision. Any boxer who loses three rounds as a result of low hitting, and still winds up with the decision has a right to consider himself fortunate.

Armstrong has built up a reputation as a body puncher, and Ambers perfected a defense against these kind of blows. He took hundreds of Armstrong's body smashes on his elbows. In an effort to get inside of Ambers' defense, Henry shot his socks for the pit of the stomach, and it was natural that some of his shots went unintentionally low.

'Armstrong Needs a Rest

ARMSTRONG HAS been the most active boxer in the world during the past year, and he needs a rest. His feat of winning three world's titles in a little more than eight months time will probably stand as an all-time record.

Armstrong, of course, will vacate his featherweight championship as he no longer can make the class weight of 126 pounds. With challengers like Garcia and Ambers, Armstrong will be kept busy trying to hold on to his welterweight and lightweight titles.

Random Shots At Target

JIM MALONEY is going to take over the management of a restaurant just off Summer street . . . Shamus has many friends, and he should make a success of his new venture . . . Maloney will also referee an occasional wrestling bout.

Sammy Fuller is willing to take time out from his duties at his new Tremont street restaurant to box Henry Armstrong at the Garden . . . Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager, told me he had agreed to show the colored sensation in Boston for "Rip" Valenti's Goodwin A. C.

Andy Callahan of Lawrence, who recently defeated Ralph Zannelli at Providence, is also aiming for a bout with Armstrong . . . In recent starts Callahan has beaten "Buster" Carroll, George Martin and Zannelli.

Experts Can Help Your Golf Game

Aces Demonstrate Shots at Belmont

By BILL GRIMES

A few days ago, Horton Smith agreed to straighten out as many golf ailments as were called to his attention, during the shot-making demonstration, which will precede the 18-hole Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund exhibition match, one week from Sunday afternoon at the Belmont Country Club.

Only on rare occasions do all branches of the golfers' fraternity have an opportunity to receive advice from such an array of expert shot makers as Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson and Lawson Little.

One of the reasons that Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford have been the only New England amateurs ever to win international recognition for their feats on the links is that the rank and file of our niblick wielders have never taken the trouble to analyze their games.

Under proper tutelage, hundreds of golfers, who, despite their natural ability, have never crashed through, could have been outstanding. True they spend hours on practice tees but because they lack a keen knowledge of the fundamentals of the game they do not improve as much as they would if they took the trouble to sit in on such shot making demonstrations as Smith, Cooper, Thomson and Little will conduct at Belmont one week from Sunday.

Golfers who are anxious to cut down their scores should make it a point to be at the Belmont Country Club one week from Sunday. Get out there early. Watch Harry Cooper, Horton Smith, Jimmy Thomson and Lawson Little warm. Note their grips, stance and timing. Also, the lack of applied power, which is offset by the smoothness of their swings. Do not hesitate to ask questions, regardless of whether you are a club champion or a "hacker."

WATCH CLOSELY

Then, when the demonstration of shot making starts give it your undivided attention. Listen to Horton Smith's comments on how to and how not to play shots. Watch the way that Cooper, Thomson and Little hit their shots during this demonstration, particularly during the slow action demonstrations. Try and note every detail of the back and down swings, the contact of the club head with the ball and the follow through.

And when the match begins note that these professionals do not alter their style. To the closest observer they are still demonstrating the art of shot making. See if you can discover any faults in Horton Smith's and Harry Cooper's style. They are the top stylists of the professionals.

The Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund shot making demonstration and exhibition match at the Belmont Country Club will offer an opportunity for all golfers, men, women, girls and boys to improve their games.

Do not pass up this opportunity.

Grand Lake Cup Won by Campbell

GRAND LAKE, Colo., Aug. 19 (INS)—The Grand Lake Yacht Club's Sir Thomas Lipton Cup was in the possession of Tom Campbell of Denver today.

Campbell piloted his "hi-jacker" to first place in the fifth and deciding race of the cup competition Thursday. Bill Batterill of Denver finished second. Gene Everest of Oklahoma City was third in Thursday's race, but finished the cup competition in fourth place, as George A. Peak, Jr., of Des Moines, Iowa, led him in points.

Pleasant Golf Company

Checking up on hubby. Mrs. Lawson Little accompanies her famous husband around the course for companionship and as a friendly critic. Mrs. Little will be at Belmont a week from Sunday to see her husband team with Jimmy Thomson against Horton Smith and Lawson Little.

Police Wreck Book Joints in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP) — After visits from the state's attorney's "axe squad," a couple of elaborately furnished racehorse handbook establishments today looked like they had been swept by a hurricane.

The 112 Club at that number on East Superior street was the latest to feel the "direct action" campaign started by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney after repeated failures to gain convictions against handbook operators and employes.

Eight policemen went to work with axes yesterday after chasing out 200 patrons, of whom 75 were women. In an hour the interior of the club was a mass of debris. Reduced to junk were 150 green leather and chromium chairs, an ornate lunch counter, walnut veneered walls and wallboards, modernistic lamps and other fixtures.

On the previous day the squad did the same thing to a 29 West Randolph street handbook.

English Auto In Trial Spin

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 19 (AP)—John Cobb of England streaked across the desert today in a test run of his low slung silvered Railton speedster at a top speed of approximately 300 miles an hour.

Captain George E. T. Eyston, who also is here from England to attack his own world record for the measured mile, witnessed his rival's flashing performance.

Eyston set the present mark of 311.41 miles an hour here last November.

"The car performed perfectly, and I am ready to go after the record attempt without another test run," said Cobb.

Semi-Pro Champ Still in Running

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 19 (AP)—Enid, Okla. defending champion, bounded back in the running in the national semi-pro baseball tourament today after eliminating Pueblo, Colo., 6-2, last night.

Today's games are: Silverton, Ore., vs. Kearney, Neb.; Buford, Ga., vs. Algona, Iowa; Lynchburg, Va., vs. Barrington, N. H.

CONCORD VS. LACONIA

CONCORD, Aug. 19—The Concord town baseball team has arranged a game with the Laconia, N. H., town team to be played next Sunday afternoon at Laconia.

Midget Races On Tonight

With the dropping of the first green flag at 8:30 tonight the "mighty mites of the racing world" will roar into action at the only quarter mile midget speedway in New England located at Riverside Park in Medford.

This large, roomy track allows for terrific speed in a small area.

To make matters more interesting the drivers will be fighting for the lead in the semifinals of the New England midget auto racing championship.

With the majority of the field of entries closely bunched for the lead in the present point standings it will only be a matter of who will make the slightest of errors to find himself out of the championship finals to be held shortly at this fast track.

The time trials which determine the drivers' position in the racing events will start at 7:15 and the floodlights will be turned on promptly at 8:30.

What the Stars Did

(By The Associated Press)

Tuck Stainback, Dodgers — His triple with bases loaded beat Giants, 5-3.

Jim Bagby, Red Sox—Blanked Athletics, 2-0, with three hits.

Paul Derringer, Reds — Pitched seven-hitter and hit two-run homer in 9-1 win over Cubs.

Lou Gehrig, Yankees, and Harry Kelley, Senators—Gehrig's double drove in winning run in 11th inning for 6-5 opener victory; Kelley pitched six-hitter in nightcap and sent two runs across for 6-3 decision.

Bob Weiland, Cardinals — Held Pirates to four hits for 5-1 win.

Buck Newsom, Browns—Stopped Indians, 9-1, with three hits.

George Gill, Tigers—Beat White Sox, 5-1, with eight hits.

BETTINA WINS BY K. O.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 19 (INS)—Nello Bettina, 172, of Beacon, N. Y., named by the N. Y. State Boxing Commission among the four leading contenders for the light heavyweight crown, knocked out Buck Ezerett, 178, of Washington, D. Fair Set For Top Meeting

More than 300 persons watched the early morning workouts at the Marshfield Fair grounds today as interest in the six-day race meeting commencing Monday reached a new high.

The half-mile track, regarded as one of the best in the East, is in excellent condition, and weather permitting, Managing Director Russell Murray looks for the greatest race meeting this year in Marshfield's history.

When the gates are thrown open Monday the fair directors, headed by Ernest H. Sparrell of Norwell, will be prepared to handle what may be the fair's greatest opening day. The racing personnel and Mutuel Director Mortimer Mahony and his aide, David Heisman, will arrive at the grounds today.

While the racing activities will be the major attraction, there will be scores of other events for the children on opening day. All youngsters, under 12, accompanied by their parents will be admitted free on Monday.

Red Sox Battle Nats

Washington's Senators invade the Fens today for a four-game renewal of a rivalry with the Red Sox that stands out as one of the strangest oddities of the season. There'll be single tilts today and tomorrow and a Sunday twin-bill.

The performances of these two clubs against one another this year defies explanation.

Eight times the Sox have played in Washington. They won the first game, back of "Fritz" Ostermueller, 7 to 0. Since that April day, they've lost seven straight decisions in Griffith Stadium.

The Nats, on the other hand, have made five appearances at the Fens and have yet to walk off the Back Bay orchard sporting a decision.

If the third-place natives had been able to break even at the Capital, they'd now be in second place. Had the fourth-place visitors been able to hold their own here, they'd be right on the heels of the Cronintmen.

Taking three in a row from the Sox in Washington last week, "Bucky" Harris' outfit pulled to within four games of third place but they're now six games back as a result of losing three out of four to the Yanks just before coming here.

NEAR INDIANS

The Sox, in the meanwhile, advanced a few strides nearer the runner-up berth by taking three out of four from the A's and find themselves this morning only 2½ games behind the Cleveland Indians.

Pitching is the answer to the club's latest comeback, just as it was the answer to the recent slump.

The Fenway flingers couldn't get anybody out during the six-game losing streak, while they've been virtually invincible in hanging up three straight wins the past two afternoons.

Jack Wilson turned in eight scoreless frames in winning the opener of the Wednesday twin-bill. Joe Heving came through with a seven-hit shutout in the nightcap.

Jim Bagby, hammered for five runs and chased to the showers in the first inning of Tuesday's opener against the A.s, returned in the final fray yesterday to allow only three hits as he chalked up his first shutout and 11th win of the season by a 2-0 score.

Fred Ostermueller has been nominated to face the Senators this Ladies Day p. m. Monte Weaver, veteran right-hander, will toss for the invaders.

These two hooked up in a duel at Washington last Saturday with Weaver winning 3 to 1 in a game which saw the Nats score all their runs before anybody was out in the first inning.

Holy Name Nine Leads in Series

The amazing Holy Name Club of West Roxbury, playing its first year in top league ball, and given but an outside chance of reaching the title at the start of the year, continued its great baseball last night by upsetting the highly-favored St. Augustine nine, 8—4, in the first game of the Boston Park League finals.

The teams played a fine game before a crowd of 10,000 fans at the Southie Stadium, with the visitors holding the edge on the Saints right from the start.

Vander Meer Out Until Saturday

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19 (AP)—Johnny (No-Hit) Vander Meer, Cincinnati Reds pitcher, had a small tumor removed from his left ear yesterday.

Dr. William Mithoefer said the growth developed beneath a boil. The hurler was expected to join the club at St. Louis Saturday.

Fancy Needle Work

"A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE" sang Dr. Alexander Schiff as he sewed the lower lip of Triple-Champion Henry Armstrong which was subjected to some heavy bombarding by Lou Ambers before the latter would give up his lightweight crown. Although a decisive winner, Armstrong took the worst beating of his skyrocketing career. His torn lip took 15 stitches to close and will keep him on the shelf for at least two months.

Fette Seeks 9th Win In Brooklyn Tonight

BROOKLYN, Aug. 19—Lou Fette, Bees' brilliant right-hander, will seek his ninth straight victory this evening under floodlights when the Casey Stengel charges open a four-game series with the Dodgers.

Rained out of their final game with Philadelphi yesteray the Swarm pulled out of the Friendly City early in a jubilant mood, having taken two out of three, and arrived in New York early last night to be fully rested for the series.

LOU FETTE

The Bees have not dropped a series a g a inst the last seven clubs they have faced, and do not intend to start here in Brooklyn where anything goes.

In fact, Larry MacPhail has a l r e a d y arranged a special sprint race between four Bees and four Dodgers as an added highlight to this evening's spectacle.

SPRINT FOR HURLERS

The only trouble with this feature is that Casey Stengel refuses to fully co-operate. The Bees' pilot is taking no chances on his speedy regulars and is sending four hurlers to the mark. The boys who will do the sprinting for the Boston club are Danny MacFayden, Bobby Reis, John Lanning and Ira Hutchinson—they may not win, but Stengel isn't greatly worried.

His chief concern is tonight's ball game. Stengel figures that with Fette on the hill all will be well, for the last night game the Bees won in Brooklyn was with Fette doing the hurling.

Lou will face Fred Fitzsimmons, who can be very good or just the opposite. Freddie has eight victories in 14 games to his credit.

Revere Nine Plays in Indiana

By Associated Press

Play went forward today in three sectional tournaments to narrow the field in the running for the national championship of American Legion junior baseball.

The Western sectional began at Grand Forks, N. D. Two other tournaments were in the second day of their three-day schedules. Portland, Ore.; San Diego, Cal.; Okemah, Okla., and Lincoln, Neb., are Western contenders.

Revere, Mass., and Belleville, Ill., played today in the Northeastern meet at Princeton, Ind. The winner will clash in the final game tomorrow with Detroit, which beat Trenton, N. J., 4 to 0 yesterday.

In the Southeastern sectional at Charlotte, N. C., St. Louis played Spartanburg, S. C., for the right to compete tomorrow against New Orleans, which eliminated Gastonia, N. C., 3 to 2.

A three-game series will start next Thursday between Northeastern and Western sectional champions to determine which is to play the Southeastern winner's city in the final "junior world series," to begin August 23.

TITLE TILT TONIGHT

The second game of the series for the town baseball championship of Lexington will be played this evening on the Lexington Centre playground diamond at 6:30 o'clock between the Lexington Baseball Club and the Lexington Athletic Club.

Ruth Rates Gordon Most Improved Player of Year

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (INS)—Take it from Babe Ruth, the Yanks are by all odds the greatest club in baseball.

"They're in a class all by themselves," said the big fellow, whose 60 homers are still a season's target for the Greenbergs, the Yorks and the Foxxes to shoot at.

"But," he hastened to add, "take the Yanks out of the American League and you'll find the rest of the clubs stack up about even with the National League clubs.

Babe Ruth

"I mean to say, the Giants are about as strong as the Indians; the Pirates about as good as the Cubs, and so on down the line.

"Say, if Gomes and Gehrig were having good years, the Yanks would be 20 games out in front by now. They'd do the same in this league, too. They got too much power."

The Bambino—now very proud of what he has accomplished since joining the Dodgers as a coach, went up to take his cut in batting practice, failed to knock one out of the lot, and came back steaming, mentally and physically.

LACKS STRENGTH

"Seems like I haven't got much strength since I gave Julie (his daughter) those blood transfusions," he explained. "They tell me I may have to give her another, but she's coming along all right now."

The Babe pointed to Buddy Hassett.

"See how I've changed him?" He queried. "He used to stand straight up. Now I got him bending over so's he can follow the ball better. Say, he's added 50 points to his batting average since I joined the team."

There was a world of pride in the Bambino's voice. You know, like a young mother telling how the baby puts his foot in his mouth.

Vito Tamulis

"Yeh, and I helped that Koy and Camilli and Stainback some, too. Just a little change here and there and they began to get more power and more hits."

How about the rumor that he was going to start pinch-hitting again?

"Nothing to it," he growled. "I've done more than my share of hitting already. Some young pitcher with a good fast ball might sock me on the head before I could duck. I'm getting too old for that stuff."

Well, could he tell us who was the most improved ball player he'd seen around this year?

"Sure," said the Babe, without a second's hesitation, "that fellow Gordon."

And then realizing that Gordon, first name Joe, is a member of the Yanks of the rival league, he bellowed: "But, say, we got a lot of improved guys right on this club. That Hudson there is a pip at second base. And Hamlin and Rosedel and Tamulis are real pitchers now."

32 Youngsters To Compete In Park Tilt

Thirty-two punching playground pugilists will converge on Fallon Field Roslindale, on Monday evening, for the second eliminations night in the annual novice boxing tournament sponsored by the recreation division of the Boston park department.

The first two gladiators will start the show at 8 p. m. with a place on one of the district teams of nine boys as their object. The chosen pair will compete in the finals at Columbus stadium, South Boston, on August 30.

Monday's bouts will be in the 105, 125, 145 and 165 pound classes, 16 skirmishes in all, the victors in the 95, 115, 135 and 155-pound classes having been determined at Fens stadium last week.

Director William M. Mullen will have charge of arrangements. Floodlights, sound equipment and Floodlights, sound equipment and park fight festival will be incorporated in the park department's affair.

Bleeding Horse Dies on Track

DEL MAR, Cal., Aug. 19 (INS)—Veterinarians today reported that Skling, a promising two-year-old belonging to the W. C. Stroube Stables, died of an internal hemorrhage during the running of the first race here yesterday.

Skling, Jockey Silvio Coucci up, was a favorite in the race, and was almost a certain winner until he reached the backstretch. Despite Coucci's handling, the colt slowed to a walk, reared up and keeled over, throwing Coucci to the middle of the track. Coucci was not injured.

ORDER 2 TRIED IN TORTURE PROBE

The two Harbor police station officers accused of subjecting three Dorchester youths to a brutal "third degree" will face a trial board Monday, Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon announced today.

He named the officers as William J. Jenkinson and Joseph M. Mullen, both patrolmen.

Formal charges of unbecoming conduct were placed against them today, after Superintendent Fallon had received a report from Captain Lawrence A. Dunn, in charge of the Harbor division.

Captain Dunn's investigation was begun by order of Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty, following a complaint made by the alleged "victims," Lawrence P. Mann, 17, Joseph Shine, 17, and James Hannisian, 16, all of Dorchester.

According to their stories, they were punched, kicked and beaten into unconsciousness in a tool room in the basement of Harbor police station and were "tortured" for hours as Officers Jenkinson and Mullen allegedly attempted to obtain confessions implicating them in looting of a harbor motor launch.

2 CONGRESSMEN IN RED SALUTE HUB BOY SAYS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—A witness told a House committee today that Representatives O'Connell (D) Montana and Bernard (F-L) Minnesota, gave the "regular Communistic salute" after addressing several hundred American youths fighting in Spain.

Alvin I. Halpern, who told the committee investigating un-American activities yesterday about his experiences in the Spanish Loyalist army, said the House members spoke at a dedication of pillars at a hospital at Benicasim, Spain.

"They told us we were fighting for a great cause—democracy—to wipe out Fascism," Halpern said. "They gave the regular Soviet salute—a clenched fist in an upright position.

"They told us if we wanted anything after we returned to this country to let them know."

IN ROXBURY CLUB

Abraham Sobel another youth who related his experiences in Spain yesterday, told the committee under questioning by Representative Starnes (D.) of Alabama that speakers for the Roxbury Workers' Club and the American League Against War and Fascism, of which he was a member, solicited his enlistment in the Spanish fighting forces.

The committee later unanimously ordered transmission to the Justice Department of the testimony of the two young American deserters from the Spanish government army for determination of whether federal law was being violated by Communist agents recruiting vol-

Links Hines To Rackets

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey bolstered up the testimony of one faltering witness today and forged with another witness a new link in the chain of evidence to connect J. Richard "Dixie" Davis with Tammany Leader James J. Hines and Hines with the operation of the $20,000,000 policy racket conducted by the late "Dutch" Schultz.

"With Julius Williams, Negro witness, who yesterday "forgot" so much of what Dewey claimed he had told racket investigators, in jail for his forgetfulness, Dewey put Edward Grant, a shorthand reporter, on the stand.

He identified and read from Williams' testimony before the racket grand jury on July 15.

Then Dewey put "Big Joe" Ison, one-time policy collector, on the stand to testify that he had been a "collector" and a "banker" in his own right and that his counsel had been "Dick Davis."

Ison recalled for the jury how he once sat in solemn session with "Dutch" Schultz while the latter, with a gun on the table in front of him to back up his words outlined the divvy-up terms under which he would grant Ison the privilege of running a "bank."

Williams' grand jury testimony, read to the jury, was to the effect that he had known Hines since 1932 and that Hines had once sent him to George Weinberg

Jews Must Be 'Israel' And 'Sarah'

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP)—Next New Year some half million German Jews must add Israel or Sarah to their names.

The government issued a decree today requiring any Jew having a non-Jewish first name to adopt as an additional given name Israel if male, Sarah if female.

The decree compels all Jews with non-Jewish names to notify the municipal or county clerks in whose registers their names are entered that they have taken on the additional name of Israel or Sarah.

When writing letters to any government department or other business letters, such Jews must include Sarah or Israel in the signature.

Jewish infants may be given only Jewish first names.

The ministry of the interior in due course will compile a list of names considered Jewish.

Storms Delay Air Arrival of Earles

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Aug. 19 (INS)—Governor and Mrs. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania landed here safely in their monoplane after being three hours overdue on a flight from Mexico City.
